Points Problems of Home Rule Grant.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 10.—[Tuesday, 12:10 a.m.]—The first volume of the Indian statutory commission, better known as the Simon commission from the name of its chairman, Sir John Simon, Great Britain's greatest lawyer, was published here today and India and the Indian question enter on a new phase. On the Indian reaction to the report depends whether or not peace is restored in India, and whether or not India's progress toward equal membership in the British commonwealth of nations is slow or fast.

The second volume will be published June 24. The first volume is confined to historical, geographical, economic, and racial reviews of the Indian situation to form a background for the second volume, which deals with the proposals of the commission for the future government of India. The first volume of over 400 pages reads like romance. Its chapters in Indian racial origins, religious and customs are fascinating reading, while others are packed with statistics.

Travel 21,000 Miles.

The report is the result of two and a half years' work by one of the most distinguished committees ever appointed by parliament. Its members, representing all three parties, traveled 21,000 miles.

Besides the chairman, the members are Viscount Burnham, Conservative, former owner of the Daily Telegraph; Lord Strathcona; E. C. G. Cadogan, Conservative member of parliament; Vernon Hartshorn, Labor member of parliament, new lord privy seal; Maj. C. R. Attlee, Labor member of parliament, also a new cabinet member, and Col. G. R. Lane Fox, Conservative member of parliament.

The first outstanding feature is that the report is absolutely unanimous, a bitter disappointment to the Indian revolutionaries. The next feature is the clear declaration in the opening paragraphs that Great Britain stands by its promise to grant India self-government within the empire at the earliest moment compatible with the safety and prosperity of the country.

Quotes Report of 1918.

It quotes the Montagu-Chelmsford report of 1918 and part of its terms as references and stands by Montagu's statement in the house of commons. The statement reads:

"The policy of the government is that of increasing the association of Indians in every branch of administration and the gradual development of self-governing institutions with a view to the progressive realization of responsible government in India as an integral part of the British empire."

This is still the policy of the British government and will continue to be, say the commissioners. But they point out that these conditions have a double aspect. Great Britain stands pledged to grant a progressive independent government, but there are obstacles in the way, which, the commissioners say, cannot be treated as a defeating object, or affording a discharge from its pursuit.

"They are of so formidable a character that an opinion as to what should now be done is not worth anything at all until they are duly appreciated, but whatever the obstacle, the objective stands, as declared, to be the goal of the British Indian policy," the report reads.

Obstacles Are Listed.

Some of the obstacles are then set out. One of the chief ones is the ancient social system with innumerable castes, from the Brahmin at the top to the pariah at the bottom, "which controls the lives and thoughts of 200,000,000 out of the 320,000,000 Indians with a persistence and authority unheard of in the western world."

In the census of 1921 a list of 2,300 different castes was drawn up, and this is even incomplete, the report says. There are even castes among the outcasts or untouchables. Then, the report adds, there is the tension between the 216,000,000 Hindus and 70,000,000 Moslems.

"It is evident," says the commission, "that the distribution of the population as between Hindus and Mohammedans provides one of the most serious complications for Indian statesmanship. The minority is not concentrated in one area. It unfortunately happens that the opposition of the two faiths is sharply intensified by religious practices. The devout Hindu regards the cow as an object of great veneration, while the sacrifice of cows is a feature of the annual Mohamme-

3 FOUND DEAD; FAMILY SUICIDE PACT UNCOVERED

A family suicide pact — father, mother, and daughter—was disclosed last night, Hyde Park police believe, with the discovery of the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Cross, and Miss Mary J. Cross in a gas filled apartment at 4750 Kenwood avenue.

Indications were that they had been dead since last Friday. Newspapers and milk bottles of that date were found on the back porch. The tragedy had been carefully planned. In addition to opening all the burners of the kitchen gas range, caps had been removed from two gas pipes. The keyholes of the doors had been puttied up and the cracks under them as well as those around the windows had been caulked. There were no notes or letters.

The police were led to investigate when James J. Cross Jr., a son, engaged in the realty business and living at 4311 Cottage Grove avenue, notified them he had been unable to get his parents to answer their telephone for two days. The police forced entrance and found the mother lying on the floor in a front bedroom and the father and daughter in an adjoining room. Cross was a retired saloonkeeper. His place, prior to prohibition, was located at 37th street and Langley avenue. He was 55 years old. Mrs. Cross was 65. Mary, their daughter, was 34.

Carol Exerts Power as King; Punishes Foes

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 9—Carol II., new king of Rumania, today began using his royal powers. He ordered three of his enemies prosecuted for speaking disrespectfully of him at a meeting of the Liberal party this morning. The three who fell under the kingly displeasure are Dr. Angelescu, minister of education in the last Liberal government; Dr. Braila, former minister of health, and Dr. Kostinescu, mayor of Bucharest.

The Liberal party, which ruled Rumania with an iron hand for eight years, after an all day meeting decided that Carol's return constitutes a "dangerous adventure" and voted by a big majority to refuse to accept the "new order of things, which exposes the country to great danger." A manifesto was issued tonight to this effect.

Bratianu Still Fighting Carol.

The Liberals' action was due to old Vintilla Bratianu, who has fought the aspirations of the new king tooth and nail since he and his late brother, Jan Bratianu, constituting the "uncrowned Bratianu dynasty," succeeded in having him exiled four years ago.

But the voice of a new Bratianu was heard today, that of young Georges Bratianu, son of Jan and a professor of history at the University of Jassey, who turned against his family. He failed by a narrow margin in his fight to lead the Liberals to the side of King Carol.

Legalizes All His Son's Acts.

One of the first official acts of the king today was to sign a law legalizing all acts of the regency in the name of the King Michael, Carol's 8 year old son, during Carol's exile. This included the law turning over the government telephone concession to an American concern, which, in return for a loan to the government amounting to $10,000,000, is awarded the job of installing modern telephone equipment throughout the country.

The king also approved a general amnesty act which will liberate 100 prisoners, many of them members of the country's minorities, including Germans, Hungarians and Jews, who supported Carol through their parliamentary representatives.

Queen Marie, in Oberammergau, today sent a long telegram of congratulations to her son, notifying him that she would return to the capital on Saturday. A final reconciliation of mother and son is now believed to be certain, and the capital is planning a huge fête to celebrate the queen's return.

Debate Status of Michael.

The exact status of young Michael, has caused some difficulty among the jurists who labored on the question today. It was first decided to call him "Voyvode," meaning prince of Albajulia, but Prof. Jorga objected that that name is too Slavic, and he suggested the moderation of the name to "Dom," which also means prince.

The status of King Carol and Princess Helene is also not yet settled. No action was taken today towards annulling their divorce. The princess remains in the capital, however, with Michael. Some sort of solution to this knotty problem is expected before the end of the week.

Tonight's decision of the Liberal party to refuse to recognize the king complicates the situation. Juliu Maniu, leader of the Peasants' party, had a long audience with the monarch this afternoon, but declined to say whether he had been offered the job of forming a new cabinet.

STOCK PRICES BREAK WHEN BEAR PRESSURE FORCES ISSUES DOWN

New York, June 9.— [Special.] — With the bear faction pressing its advantage aggressively the stock market experienced today the sharpest break of the year. On a turnover of 4,646,270 shares, active issues on the New York exchange lost from 3 to 10 points, with two or three volatile stocks showing even wider losses. Similar declines were recorded on the curb market.

On the basis of price averages, the break was the widest since last December 12. United States Steel common, the traditional market leader, sank to within about 11 points of the lowest price at which it sold in the collapse of last autumn, closing at 161⅝.

J. I. Case, recently the most volatile issue on the stock exchange, was driven down 37¾ points from the day's high, ending the day with a net loss of 31 points. Other leading stocks suffered similarly.

Wall street assigned two reasons for the break. The first and most important one was steady pressure by professional speculators for the decline, and the other was the gloomy character of reports from trade and industry.

AIELLO PARTNER TELLS OF DEATH THREATS ON RIDE

Sam Bruno, 954 Center street, who identified himself as a business partner of the notorious Aiello brothers, yesterday told the police of an escape from death in a gangland ride. He declared that he had been kidnaped at Armitage and Lavergne avenues and forced to ride with three captors who kept a pistol pressed to his ear. He was kicked out of the automobile on the north side, he said.

He came to the Irving Park police station, declaring he feared he is to be killed, but refused to attempt to identify his captors from pictures at the detective bureau. He denied knowing any motive for an attack on his life.

After remaining at the station four hours the police escorted him to the home of his sister at 2234 Keystone avenue. He said he is a partner in the firm of Aiello & Bruno, photographers at 473 West Division street.

LASH RADICALS AT BANQUET OF BOARD OF TRADE

$22,000,000 Building Is Dedicated.

All kinds of radicals, from the pale pink variety to the deep red, and all slanderers of Chicago and its Board of Trade were given verbal lashings last evening at a banquet in the Stevens hotel, the closing event of a day devoted to the dedication of the board's new $22,000,000 home.

Among the speakers most pointed in their remarks were John A. Bunnell, fifty-seventh president of the Board of Trade; Silas H. Strawn, diplomat and civic leader; Lieut. Gov. Fred E. Sterling, representative of the state administration, and Richard W. Wolfe, Chicago's commissioner of public works and spokesman for Mayor Thompson.

The banquet was attended by 2,450 members and guests.

Bunnell Tells of Problem.

Mr. Bunnell, who had taken a prominent part in the dedicatory observances held on the magnificent new trading floor of the board during the morning, and later had been in his office in the forty-four story structure that stands at the lower end of La Salle street's cañon while 50,000 to 100,000 visitors—one guess is as good as another—passed through, declared that the problems of marketing farm produce cannot be "solved by the stroke of a pen."

"The law of supply and demand," he said, "is still working, and is always bound in the end to rule. The Chicago Board of Trade and other organized exchanges of the country are carrying on and maintain a year round steady market for the products of the soil and of man, guaranteeing to every one fair treatment and honest dealing."

Traces History of Board.

Briefly, Mr. Bunnell traced the history of the present board, with its more than 1,500 members, from its origin with 84 pioneer merchants, to the present. Those merchants, he said, had tried simply to establish a central market where farmers could get fair prices, with the merchants profiting as the benefited farmers traded in the city.

This, the oldest grain exchange and the largest in volume in the world, has prospered only because it gave a competent service for a reasonable price, Mr. Bunnell pointed out. He added that as much as 400 million bushels of grain is received here in a year and that economists are agreed that no other marketing system approaches it in efficiency.

Radical Attacks Are Failure.

Radicals, according to the board's president, have at various times found it possible to gain for themselves a following when they attack the operation of institutions like this. The only effect, he declared, was to impair the machinery of distribution and hurt business while the common sense of the American people was getting itself readjusted.

Present attempts to adjust agricultural and business conditions would have to follow the law of supply and demand the world over to be successful, Mr. Bunnell predicted.

Strawn's Defense of Chicago.

"Considering the facts," said Mr. Strawn in his address, "I consider Chicago the most maligned city in the world. We are apt to hear much about Chicago's crime and poverty. There are too few to extol her virtues and too many to advertise her vices. One great difference between us and other cities is that whenever crimes are committed here they are well publicized."

Carrying his theme further, Mr. Strawn asserted that the city is not broke, that its bonded indebtedness is less per capita than that of many other cities, and that its financial troubles are due in great part to the failure to get the reassessment completed and taxes collected. He called the raising of the 74 million dollar payoff fund, to which members of the Board of Trade contributed liberally, a manifestation of the civic pride and spirit of Chicagoans.

Blow at Parlor Socialists.

"I have often wished," he said, "that there could be some way to deport those creatures who happened to be born here—I do not call them citizens because they never rise to the responsibility of citizenship — those parlor socialists who, while enjoying the luxuries and liberty that generally have come to them by the industry of their ancestors, complain about condi-

OFFICIALS PLEDGE WAR TO A FINISH AGAINST GANGS

Determination that the murder of Alfred Lingle will be made the fulcrum upon which gang rule of Chicago will be broken was expressed yesterday by city, county, state and federal officials. Some of the comments follow:

Commissioner of Police Russell—"I'd give my two eyes to solve the murder of Al Lingle. Nothing that I can do will be left undone. I have known him for more than 20 years, and I was as fond of him as I would be of my own son.

"He was a man of the highest character. He was honest to the core and a more faithful newspaperman never lived. His work brought him into contact with the highest and the lowest, and to my personal knowledge he was trusted by every one who knew him. He led a clean and honorable life and was deserving of all the confidence placed in him."

Chief of Detectives Stege—"I knew Al Lingle for eight or ten years. He was honest and courageous, and with a greater knowledge of the underworld than any man known to me.

"I haven't much to give, but I would give all I have to be able to arrest the man or men who killed him. My time in the department is short, approximately 8 or 9 months, and every minute of every hour for the rest of my time in the department I will devote toward the apprehension of the slayers of Al Lingle.

Frank J. Loesch, president of crime commission — "The murder of Mr. Lingle was intended as a warning to newspapers that they have to stop going after gangsters. Mr. Lingle has been exposing gangsters and his death is a warning to any one put on that work.

"I have tried to tell the people that gangsters would eventually start killing honest citizens. The gangsters are trying to terrorize the whole community. We must not submit. I know THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE will not abandon the fight. The crime commission will keep right on in its activities."

State's Attorney Swanson—"My office will make every effort to solve this murder. I have instructed Mr. Roche to stay on this crime until it is solved, and to use every man on the staff if necessary."

District Attorney Johnson — "The murder of a well known newspaper man like Mr. Lingle is a gang challenge to all Chicago. Either Chicago must conquer them or it will suffer even more in its reputation.

"The problem is not one of enforcing any particular laws, but every agency of state and national government must strike at the source that puts money into the treasury of these outlaws. The only power they have is the power of money, and they can be deprived of that by constant and determined action. This means a continuous and persistent war.

"Every man connected with the enforcement of law, be he prosecutor or policeman, must accept this challenge and do his duty unwaveringly, without fear of consequences."

Coroner Bundesen—"The murder of Al Lingle, whom I knew for years as a newspaper man of the highest ideals and integrity, must be solved. If ever there was a crime which presented a challenge to organized society it is this one.

"The coroner's office has at its service some of the greatest scientific aids used in the solution of crimes, and these have already been set to the task of perfecting the best possible scientific basis for the inquiry into this murder.

"I know that every law enforcement official will join wholeheartedly in the effort, and with such coöperation I believe we may solve the entire gang problem."

President Cermak of the county board—"We have reached the ultimate in gang warfare with the murder of a newspaper man who was so favorably known to us all. Certainly we have had enough now, and certainly we can all agree that the time is upon us when the gang element must be wiped out. Drive them out, or let the police do the killing from now on."

Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director, Chicago crime commission—"This tragedy should convince the people of Chicago that the time to temporize with criminals has passed. It is notice given by the gang element that the newspapers must not be inquisitive. It is just as definite a warning to the crime commission that its activities are obnoxious to the professional killers. It is a challenge to the law enforcing authorities.

"There must be no further hesitation. This question must be settled, and settled right. The authorities must stay on the job until the murderer of Lingle is seated in the electric chair. The crime commission will give every aid possible and hopes that public sentiment will be aroused and stay aroused until the battle is won."

$25,000 for Capture, Is Tribune Offer.

Alfred J. Lingle, better known in his world of newspaper work as Jake Lingle, and for the last eighteen years a reporter on THE TRIBUNE, was shot to death yesterday in the Illinois Central subway at the east side of Michigan boulevard at Randolph street.

THE TRIBUNE offers $25,000 as a reward for information which will lead to the conviction of the slayer or slayers.

An additional reward of $5,000 was announced by the Chicago Evening Post on the same terms, making a total of $30,000 offered.

The Press Club of Chicago issued a statement that it stood ready to post another $10,000 reward for the slayers.

Slain by Organized Gang.

An organized gang planned and executed the murder of Lingle, and at least six gunmen of the band are believed to have been near by at 1:25 o'clock yesterday afternoon when one of them crept behind the newspaper man, lifted a stubby .38 caliber revolver, and fired a single shot through the back of his head. Lingle was killed instantly.

The slayer fled. Pedestrians and a policeman pursued him, but he mingled with loop crowds and was lost. A good description of him was obtained and a manhunt is on, participated in by searchers who knew Jake Lingle as one of themselves, and who would vie with each other for the privilege of bringing his murderer to justice.

Greeting Seen as Signal.

Six gangsters—or men who had the appearance of gangsters—were seen lolling about the Illinois Central suburban station at Randolph street. Three others, who may be involved in the murder, were seated in a roadster at the curb in front of the public library, and they hailed Lingle as he passed by towards the subway. He answered their hail with a wave and a laugh, and it was considered the maneuver may have been a signal to the killers that here was their quarry.

As for a motive, there was no direct one, it appears. Jake Lingle for years has been "covering" the underworld for THE TRIBUNE. He had come to know gang leaders and he has sifted the crimes they committed in his efforts to bring about solutions. He probably knew more policemen than even any policeman on the force, and he was an intimate friend of Commissioner Russell and of Chief of Detectives Stege.

Murder of Editor Recalled.

The assassination of Lingle is the first such crime against a newspaperman since the murder in July, 1926, of Don R. Mellett, Canton, O., editor, who also was shot for his activities against gangsters in his city. These two are the only outstanding cases in which newspapermen paid with their lives for working against organized criminals.

The murder of Lingle is the twelfth in Chicago in the last ten days which may be classed as "gang" murders.

Whether in giving information against members of the gangs Jake Lingle put himself in line for assassination is not yet known. But all of the law enforcing officers of the city and county promised yesterday that it would be known. The officials promised that the murder of Lingle shall be the spur to the task of bringing an end to gang lawlessness in Chicago.

Hope for Quick Solution.

Raids were ordered. Arrests were made. There was hope for an early solution, but there was also a determination that detectives would be assigned to stay on this crime until the slayers are sent to the electric chair, or until they are otherwise killed.

Because of his close friendship with Commissioner Russell and with other officials and leading politicians, Lingle was frequently besought by his hoodlum and racketeer acquaintances to use his influence to obtain concessions for them to pursue a profitable lawlessness. Invariably he told them that he could gain no such permission for them if he tried; that if they attempted to go ahead with their plans, they would surely be brought to answer before the law.

Jake Lingle was 38 years old, and in that brief span of life he had packed acquaintanceships and friendships with men and women in every walk of life, from the bottom to the top rung of society as it goes in Chicago. There were gangsters and there were prominent business leaders; there were ward heelers and politicians and there were distinguished statesmen. The people he knew gave him a cross section of all Chicago, good and bad.

Some he despised, some he cared for with lasting fidelity, and among these was Commissioner Russell.

Twenty years ago, when Jake was a stripling, he met Bill Russell, a patrolman traveling a beat in uniform. Jake was playing semi-professional ball then with William Niesen's team. He and the patrolman took a liking to each other, and together they would patrol Russell's beat, talking the while. The lad loved action, visiting with Russell, sometimes joining with him in police work. So Lingle came to know the glamour of police work.

A Story of Friendship.

With Russell he learned to develop an easy attitude toward policemen and police characters, and in later years this penchant developed until he came to know their life and haunts as few men outside those worlds have ever known it.

When his friend Russell began to climb toward higher posts in the police department Lingle continued and ripened their friendship. First a sergeantcy, then a lieutenancy, then a captaincy, and then a deputy commissionership. Lingle shared with his friends the pleasure these promotions gave, and when at last Russell was appointed commissioner Lingle gloried, not with any hope of sharing in the power of the office but solely with the personal zeal with which he had followed his friend's rise.

When the commissioner was ailing it was always Lingle who came to offer him a cheerful solace. They played golf together and went about to the theaters and to visit mutual friends.

Jake as a youth had many other friends on the police force, and it was these friendships that steered him into the field of newspaper work. He started with THE TRIBUNE as an office boy 18 years ago, when the offices of THE TRIBUNE were located in the building at Madison and Dearborn.

Jake didn't stay long as an office boy, and with his natural aptitude for police work he became a police reporter. With the entree this gave him into affairs of the city, the youth quickly developed his acquaintances and in a short time he became one of the cleverest police reporters of his time.

He came to learn of the methods of criminals. He possessed a great fund of knowledge of the many forms of racketeering in Chicago, and he came to know the racketeers themselves through rubbing shoulders with them in the police stations, the courts, and elsewhere.

Gains Wealth of Information.

It was always probable that he would rouse the anger of one or more of these criminals who are so constantly in fear of being "stooled" upon. It was also obvious that being constantly thrown in contact with gangsters he came to possess a wealth of information greatly valuable to him in his profession.

Jake was personally acquainted with Al Capone, notorious gang leader, having known him well since 1920. Lingle obtained an exclusive interview with Capone while the latter was in a Philadelphia prison, and at other times he had been able to interview Capone when circumstances required it.

Several times Lingle has interviewed Capone at the gang chief's winter estate at Miami Beach, Fla. A belt buckle which Lingle wore, which was studded with what appeared to be diamonds, roused interest, and Jake used to laugh good naturedly at rumors it was a present from Capone.

Lingle came to know Capone through Johnny Torrio, who was Capone's mentor and sponsor in Chicago's crime life. He came to know Torrio through Jim Colosimo, murdered cabaret owner and politician, who had given Torrio his start. And every newspaper man of account knew Jim Colosimo.

Jake also knew the old timers in Chicago's crime world. He know Mossy Enright, the notorious Gentleman brothers, Altman, and others among the city's earlier gang chieftions.

Another Side of Character.

Thus has been told one side of the life of Jake Lingle. There are two others, and one shows him as the intimate of men and women of the highest standing. He was a close friend of Arthur Cutten, millionaire broker, and frequently visited Mr. Cutten at his estate near Lombard.

There was a banquet last night celebrating the opening of the new Board of Trade building. The program lists several hundred of the leading citizens of the city as guests at the banquet, and one of the names on the list was Alfred Lingle.

He was a friend of Gov. Emmerson and of Attorney General Carlstrom. One of his closest social friends was First Assistant Attorney General Harry A. Ash. He knew many distinguished leaders of the legal profession and mingled with them at golf clubs, dinners and social events. There are few men in public office today who do not know Jake Lingle, and who were not known by him.

Lingle had been rated financially independent in recent years, and he followed his newspaper work not because it paid him what his efforts and ability deserved, but because he loved it. His father was a successful real estate man, who left him a not inconsiderable fortune. Two uncles died and made him their heir. His mother is a business woman of unusual acumen, and he entrusted many of his financial problems to her.

World War Service.

During the world war Lingle enlisted in the United States navy, and because of his unusual aptitude for secret service work he rose in the service to become a chief boatswain's mate in the naval intelligence service.

The third side of the life of Lingle was that closest to his heart. It was his family life. He was married and had two children whom he adored. They are Alfred Jr., who is 6 years old, and Dolores, who is 5. He lavished on these two children an unrestrained affection, watching their upbringing with the greatest interest and care.

Several years ago he began sending his family to the Indiana sand dunes, near Michigan City, for summer vacations. This year he had purchased a cottage for them and he was enthusiastic in describing to his friends his hopes for the family's happiness.

Threats Are Traced.

In their search for the slayers of this reporter of a many faceted life the police sought first to learn of enemies who might have threatened him. That Lingle had enemies of a sort was certain.

One man who was known to have berated Lingle heatedly a few days ago was arrested and questioned. He is John J. "Boss" McLaughlin, former legislator, who has recently essayed to branch out in the gambling racket.

Not long ago McLaughlin went to State's Attorney Swanson and sought permission to open several gambling joints. He went away without what he considered a definite refusal and opened his places. The police interfered and McLaughlin protested to Commissioner Russell that the state's attorney had given him permission to operate.

Meanwhile McLaughlin had telephoned to Lingle at THE TRIBUNE office. Jake was suspicious of the call, and asked a reporter comrade to listen in on an extension wire. The conversation, as related by the reporter, concerned the interference of city policemen with McLaughlin's gambling houses, and McLaughlin repeated that Swanson had given his O. K.

Threat Is Heard.

"I don't believe it," replied Lingle. "But if it is true, you get Swanson to write a letter to Russell, notifying him that it is all right for you to go ahead."

"Do you think Swanson is crazy?" asked McLaughlin. "He wouldn't write such a letter."

"Well, Russell can't let you run, that's final," Jake replied.

McLaughlin cursed and said: "I'll catch up with you, and it won't be long, either," and hung up the telephone.

Questioned by Chief of Detectives Stege, McLaughlin protested he had never meant to threaten Lingle.

"Why, I wouldn't hurt a hair on his head," he said. "I liked Jake. I might have asked him to do me a favor or two, but I certainly never wished him any harm."

A squad last night raided a supposed gambling place at 606 West Madison street, which is said to be one of those opened by McLaughlin. Ten men were arrested, and J. Reback, 5823 Magnolia avenue, was booked as keeper.

Witnesses who saw the slayer, and others who chased him through the loop streets, were taken to the detective bureau, and after thorough questioning by Stege, were shown pictures of known hoodlums who might have participated in such a crime.

Several of the witnesses declared that pictures of Sam Hunt, supposed Capone gunman, resembled the slayer. Hunt was seized a few weeks ago, carrying a golf bag in which were concealed a shotgun and a pistol. The arrest was at the scene at which an assassination had been attempted.

Although a search for Hunt was ordered, he having forfeited bonds posted when arraigned for the gun toting charge, there were not many of the investigators who placed credence in the identification.

In the first of a series of raids on gunmen haunts the police arrested Dominick Aiello, described as the sharpshooter of the Aiello clan of outlaws. Near his hand were two pistols and a shotgun, all loaded. He was lodged at the detective bureau and a short time later his brother, Carl, was arrested and also locked up.

Widow and 2 Children Mourn Lingle; Reporter for 18 Years

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Tragedy struck with stunning force yesterday in the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Sullivan, parents of Mrs. Alfred Lingle, at 125 North Austin boulevard. Mrs. Lingle and the children, Alfred Jr., 6 years old, and Dolores, 5, had been spending the last few days there, while their new summer home at Grand Beach, Mich., was put in readiness for them. Tomorrow morning they would have left the city to remain until fall.

Yesterday morning Mrs. Sullivan suffered an attack of sickness, and was in bed when Mrs. Lingle left on some last minute errands. Rushing back an hour later in answer to a telephone call that had located her at a dressmaker's, she expected to find her mother much worse, but was met by her at the door with the news of her husband's death from an assassin's bullet.

Children Play on Lawn.

Trunks stood ready packed in the hall, and the final articles were ready to be tucked into the traveling bags. Down on the front lawn Buddy and Pansy, as the children are called, romped for the last time with their playmates, detailing the delights of their impending stay in Michigan.

Upstairs Jake Lingle's widow uttered a few grief-stricken words.

"Why—I've always had him," she said. "If only he'd lived a little while. If only I could have seen him."

Sweethearts from their grammar school days, Helen Sullivan and Alfred Lingle had "gone together" consistently until their marriage eight years ago. He never noticed any other girl. She never had dated with any other fellow.

Was Born on West Side.

Alfred Lingle was 38 years old. He was born in Chicago on the west side July 26, 1891. He was graduated from the Calhoun school, near California avenue and Jackson boulevard, and began work as a stock and office boy with the Schoeling company, handling surgical supplies. He left that position to take one with THE TRIBUNE, and had been employed on this newspaper for eighteen years—since Sept. 8, 1912.

His mother, who was in Oklahoma City when notified of his death, said she would start for Chicago at once.

STORY OF KILLING

The manner of Lingle's murder, as described by a score of witnesses who agreed on the essential details, indicated that it had been deliberately planned and executed.

Lingle had lunched at the coffee shop at the Hotel Sherman, as has been his custom for years. He walked about the lobby, conversing with friends and acquaintances he met, and at about 1:15 o'clock he left, alone, by the Clark street entrance.

He started up Randolph street, bound for the Illinois Central suburban station to catch a 1:30 train for Homewood and the Washington Park race track. Lingle frequently attended the races, in that way keeping contacts with members of the sporting world and with the crowd which follows the races, and also because he loved a horse race, and because he liked to wager small sums on the outcome.

Hailed from Auto.

At the public library Lingle stopped to buy a newspaper and a Racing Form. As he started toward the entrance to the tunnel under Michigan avenue he was hailed by the three men sitting in a roadster parked at the corner.

"Don't forget to play Hy Snyder," they called. Lingle waved his hand and laughed. He started down the stairway. At this point, it appears from the stories of the witnesses, he was joined by two men, one of whom was the slayer.

Whether they knew him, and he them, or whether they just sidled alongside of him in the walk through the subway, is not known.

Tells of Hearing Shot.

One witness, Patrick Campbell, declared he had just alighted from a suburban train a few minutes before, and was going westward through the tunnel.

"I saw the man who was shot coming along with one man on each side of him. One of the men stopped at the newsstand, and bought a paper, lagging behind an instant. Then I passed them all, and a second later I heard a shot."

Dr. Joseph Springer, former coroner's physician, was passing, bound for the same train to take him to his home at 6806 Merrill avenue. He heard the shot, and then saw a man run toward him, leap a fence between two passageways which lead to the station, and run up to Michigan avenue. His description of this man corresponds with the description given by Campbell of the man who lagged behind, and this man is believed to be the actual slayer.

He is described as 5 feet 10 inches tall; age, 27 to 32 years; weight, 160 pounds; with light brown hair, blue eyes; wearing a medium shade gray suit and a sailor straw hat.

The other man is described as 5 feet 8 inches in height; 35 years old, weighing 150 pounds, having dark hair and eyes, and wearing a dark blue suit.

Pistol Thrown Aside.

Another witness whose name was withheld by the police declared he had seen the actual murder, and he said the blond man had slipped up behind Lingle, put up his hand with the pistol in it, and fired the single shot.

The pistol was then thrown to the ground, and was discovered later by a policeman. Coroner Bundesen posted a guard over it, and after photographs of the scene were taken, the coroner picked up the revolver in a handkerchief.

Later the weapon was delivered for examination to Lieut. Col. Calvin Goddard, head of the scientific crime detection laboratory affiliated with Northwestern university. Goddard immediately began an examination for finger prints. The numbers on the weapon had been filed away, but it was hoped through an etching process to discover what the numbers were.

Silk Gloves Worn.

Hope that fingerprints of the slayer might be found were dimmed when Harry Komen, 1506 South 60th court, Cicero, employed as a carpenter at a building on Garland court, told the police that he had observed the slayer running from the scene and that he had thrown away a silk glove.

The glove picked up by Komen and examined by the police was found to be a gray silk glove, for the left hand, size 8½, and bearing a brand, "Martinelli." It is believed the slayer wore gloves and that he threw both gloves away as he fled.

The flight of the killer, as traced by the witnesses, showed that he first ran back toward the library with his companion. The companion raced up the stairs and was not noticed again. The actual slayer, however, for some reason darted back through the tunnel, past the body, and then hurdled the low fence between the subway aisle and that leading to the street itself. Then he hurried up the passageway to the street. Hesitating a minute on the southeast corner of Michigan and Randolph, the slayer then ran across Randolph, then across Michigan.

The Assassin's Escape.

Here the fugitive was noticed by witnesses who had seen him in the tunnel. The witnesses called to Traffic Policeman Anthony Ruthy, on duty at the corner, and he, calling out, "Stop that man," started after him.

The slayer ran west on Randolph half way to Wabash, where he darted into the alley which goes north half a block and then turns in an "L" to Wabash avenue. The slayer followed the alley, ran across Wabash avenue, and then was lost in the crowd of shoppers and pedestrians at the corner.

Ruthy was unaware he was running after a murderer and did not shoot, or he might easily have felled him.

The witness, Campbell, declared that when he alighted from his train on the Illinois Central he stopped to make a telephone call from a booth in the station. While there he observed the people in the station, and he said he was particularly attracted by three men standing together. They were carefully dressed in the rather flashy gangster style.

One of these left the group, and walking to the entrance to the subway under Michigan boulevard, sidled alongside another similarly dressed man. He mumbled something in an undertone, Campbell said, and upon receiving a nod from the solitary man, returned to the other two men. These four men, it was believed, may have been members of a gang planning to murder Lingle.

If they were, and there were two men walking beside Lingle, one of these the actual murderer, then there were at least six involved in the plot.

Says Too Much Stress Is Laid on Force.

Boston, Mass., June 9.—(AP)—Observance of the law can in a large measure be brought about by education and persuasion rather than by force and harsh penalties, George W. Wickersham, chairman of the national commission on law observance and enforcement, declared tonight in addressing thousands of persons gathered here for the 57th national conference on social work.

Mr. Wickersham said that since enactment of the prohibition law there had been no attempt at education as to its merits, that temperance work had been abandoned and that dependence for enforcement had been placed upon the power of the government to impose fines and imprisonment.

Prefers English Method.

He contrasted the success of England and Wales in bringing about temperance through education and improved recreation and suggested that the British success furnished "a very cogent suggestion to those charged with the enforcement of the 18th amendment in the United States."

Summarizing his views on means for obtaining general observance of laws, Mr. Wickersham said:

"The problem of law enforcement largely is a matter of education in law observance. Preventive measures rather than penalties should be emphasized. The new education must study and teach the reciprocal duties of the state and its members. Sympathy and helpfulness, rather than the rod, the cell and the stone pile, should be tried in order that lawlessness be reduced to the lowest point."

Says Force Won't Work.

Of the prohibition enforcement problem, Mr. Wickersham said:

"Without trenching upon the contentious ground of how the 18th amendment and the legislation to carry it into effect were brought about, one thing is perfectly obvious, and that is, that from the enactment of the Volstead act down to the present time reliance upon carrying out the purpose of the amendment was placed upon the power of the government to compel by the imposition of penalties of fine and imprisonment the general observance of the statute.

"This method reached its peak in the enactment of the Jones law in March, 1929, which in effect made every violation of the prohibition laws, with the exception of illegal possession and maintenance of a nuisance, a potential felony.

No Education Attempted.

"No process of education or attempted education of the public into the value of prohibition to accomplish the maximum of temperance in the community was attempted during all this period. The long course of demonstration of the evils of the use of intoxicating liquor which led to the adoption of the 18th amendment was abandoned."

Quoting British authorities, Wickersham pointed out that marked decreases in drunkenness in England and Wales had been attributed "mainly to a general process of education of the public into the evils of excess of drinking and the advantages of other forms of innocent amusement."

Other factors, he said, included improved housing conditions and cultural advantages, certain restrictions in hours of the sale of liquors and higher liquor costs.

DRY BILLS REFERRED

Washington, D. C., June 8.—[Special.]—The Wickersham commission juryless trial bills passed by the house last week today were referred by the senate judiciary committee to a subcommittee of three dry senators, Frederick H. Gillett [Rep., Mass.], Daniel O. Hastings [Rep., Del.] and Clarence C. Dill [Dem., Wash.]

Although the makeup of the subcommittee apparently was satisfactory to dry sponsors of the legislation, which is part of the administration's prohibition program, indications were that it would not reach the floor of the senate during the present session. Senator George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.], chairman of the judiciary committee, said congress probably would adjourn before the bills were reported from the subcommittee.

Failure by the senate to act at this session would not kill the bills, however, which would retain their status in the regular session next winter.

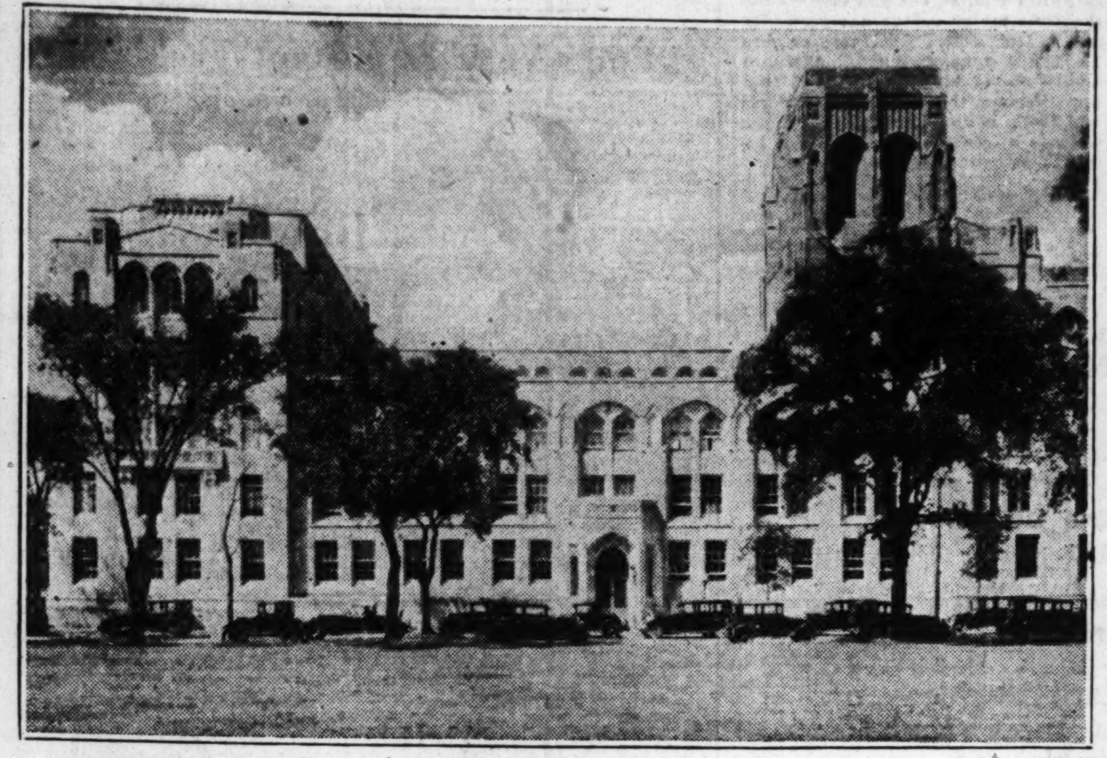
Senator Gillett, chairman of the subcommittee, was not at the committee meeting and late today had not been notified of his appointment. When the subcommittee will hold hearings, therefore, was indefinite.

No Juries in Minor Cases.

Under the juryless trial bills persons alleged to have manufactured, sold, transported or possessed less than one gallon of liquor would be given preliminary trials before United States commissioners. Through this procedure the Wickersham commission believes jury trials could be eliminated in a majority of minor liquor law cases, relieving the congestion in the federal courts.

Two other bills recommended by President Hoover and the Wickersham commission are expected to come up this week or next—one in the senate and one in the house. Senator Robert B. Howell [Rep., Neb.] expects at the first opportunity to call up his bill to tighten up the dry law for the District of Columbia. A subcommittee of the house is reported to be in agreement after several months of controversy on features of the proposed border patrol unification bill and is expected to bring the bill to the floor of the house probably Thursday.

NEW HOSPITAL FOR CHILDREN IS DEDICATED



The Bobs Roberts Memorial hospital, new $500,000 building at the University of Chicago, built with half of the $1,000,000 given by Col. and Mrs. John Roberts, in memory of their five year old son.

Dedicate Hospital

The Bobs Roberts Memorial hospital, the $500,000 gift of Mr. and Mrs. John Roberts to the University of Chicago in memory of their 5 year old son, was dedicated yesterday afternoon.

"This hospital is an institution to keep children healthy," said Dr. Frederic W. Schultz, head of the university medical school's department of pediatrics, in the dedication address.

"It will not be long," he prophesied, "before diphtheria, that malignant disease of childhood, will be banished by the development of immunization."

L. Harry Freeman presented the hospital to the university on behalf of the donors. Responding, President Robert M. Hutchins of the university said that "with every sentiment of gratitude we dedicate this building to the relief of suffering children, now and through coming generations."

SEIZE YOUTH IN $7,000 HOLDUP AT BOND COMPANY

Frank Opalenski, 26 years old, 837 North Winchester avenue, was arrested last night by Lieut. James Devereaux of the East Chicago avenue station as one of the four men who early yesterday robbed the Kraus Mortgage and Bond company offices at 1726 West Chicago avenue of $7,000 in cash and bonds. Opalenski confessed, according to Lieut. Devereaux, naming his confederates.

The four trussed and gagged Marek Kraus and Joseph Kraus, officials of the firm; Miss Valerie Wiater, a charwoman, and Postman Charles Gilny of the Wicker park substation, who happened to walk in on his morning round.

PROPOSE OPEN AIR THEATER ON NO. SIDE BEACH

An open air theater on the city's Clarendon beach property for municipal concerts and light operas and for use as a convention hall was proposed yesterday by Sidney Glass of the Music Lovers' league to a special committee named by the city council to develop municipal music concerts. Walter Wright, superintendent of small parks and playgrounds, was directed by the committee to coöperate with the league and make a survey of the possible use of Clarendon beach.

"Ravinia is twenty-nine miles from the northern limits of the city," said Mr. Glass, "and it is impossible, due to the expense involved and the limited facilities, to make the operas there available for the masses. A theater and convention hall at Clarendon beach could be reached easily from anywhere in Chicago."

Return Open Verdict in Gas Death of Architect's Wife

A coroner's jury returned an open verdict yesterday in the death of Mrs. Alex L. Levy, 54 years old, wife of a wealthy Chicago architect. She was found asphyxiated by carbon monoxide gas yesterday morning at the wheel of her car in a closed garage in the rear of the Levy residence, 150 Park avenue, Glencoe. Prostrated by grief, Mr. Levy was unable to attend the inquest. The family physician testified she had recently been in ill health.

Police See Link Between New Killing and M'Laughlin Case

Police theories yesterday linked the killing of Aloysius Kearney, a collector for the National Garage Owners' association, who was fatally shot in front of 115 South Troy street, with the murder of Eugene [Red] McLaughlin, jewel thief, gunman and gangster, whose body was taken from the drainage canal Saturday.

Lieut. William McCarthy of the homicide squad, said Kearney had a long criminal record, including charges of larceny, robbery and carrying concealed weapons, and he had served several sentences in the House of Correction. At one time he was a supervisor for the Checker Cab company, of which Robert McLaughlin, brother of Eugene, the slain gangster, is now president.

Hired to Collect Dues.

"Kearney was hired by Nathan Maltz, president of the Garage Owners' association, to collect dues from members," Lieut. McCarthy said. "It appears that was a job requiring a man of Kearney's type, as many of the garage men were reluctant to pay."

The present organization is the outgrowth of the old Midwest Garage Owners' association, which was organized by Maltz and then became the private property of David Ablin, alias Cockeyed Mulligan, who was racketeered out of control of it by George Barker and his gang, all of whom excepting Barker are now dead, according to McCarthy. Barker is now business agent of the coal teamsters' union and Lieut. McCarthy said he was wanted for questioning on the subject of racketeers again seeking to depose Maltz and take control.

"Kearney, however, was at one time friendly with young McLaughlin and I believe they were together in some deals after McLaughlin came back from Florida on May 16," the lieutenant said.

The Chicago police were convinced the attempt to kill Frank R. Thompson near Rockford, Ill., was not a part of the Chicago gang warfare, although Thompson at one time was furnishing machine guns to the various Chicago hoodlums. Thompson, near death, refused to tell who shot him or why a note he had written was believed to contain the motive. It read:

"Dear father and mother. If anything happens to me I want you to keep your money intact for my baby. Marg is too proud to ask for anything, but baby is not to blame. It did not ask to come."

At Freeport, Ill., it was said Thompson was keeping company with Mrs. Margaret Van Wall, whose husband had been imprisoned at the Vandalia prison with Thompson.

Probe Report of Shooting.

A reported shooting at Michigan City road and Torrence avenue, near Calumet City, kept county highway police busy all day seeking to learn if any one was wounded.

Chief of Detectives Stege said he had been invited to appear before the police committee of the city council this morning and explain why Detectives Drury and Howe were taken from the pickpocket squad and assigned to other work. He said he would be glad to inform the aldermen that the arrest of Hymie Levin and Harry Gusick, Capone gangsters, had nothing to do with the reassignment of the detectives.

Seize Three Trying to Collect Extortion Money

Police yesterday seized three alleged extortionists as they were about to collect from their intended victim, Philip Oliver, of Streator, Ill. Tom Walsh, 32 years old, 4016 Gladys avenue, Ralph Scala, 25 years old, 2135 West Harrison street, and Fred Vanuca, 30 years old, 3220 Flournoy street, were the men arrested. Posing as prohibition agents they demanded $2,400 of Oliver in his Streator soft drink parlor last Friday. He made an appointment in Chicago and notified police who met the three men.

STOCK FIRM IS MILLION SHORT; SEIZE MANAGER

Cincinnati Bank Also Is Heavily Involved.

Cincinnati, O., June 9—(AP)—Stock market operations of its manager were blamed tonight for a reported shortage of $1,000,000 or more in the accounts of the Cincinnati branch of Henry L. Doherty & Co., of New York, specialists in Cities Service stock.

State banking examiners also were examining the Cosmopolitan Bank and Trust company to see if that institution was affected, after reports reached them that A. W. Shafer, district salesmanager of the Doherty company, had large operations with that bank through the company's accounts.

The situation came to light today when Shafer was arrested at his home on a warrant charging embezzlement of $10,162.50. Shafer was removed as manager during the day.

Defalcations May Reach $1,500,000

Dudley Outcalt, assistant county prosecutor, said this was only one specific item and that when an audit of the books is completed the shortage probably will exceed $1,000,000 and may run as high as $1,500,000.

It was learned today that the bankers became aware of the situation Saturday and held hurried conferences in an effort to straighten out the difficulty. The Cincinnati Enquirer said tonight other bankers learned the firm's accounts with the Cosmopolitan bank were short $535,000. The capital and surplus of the Cosmopolitan at its last published statement, as of March 7, was $637,377.

Shafer, after his arrest, declined to make a statement. He was released on $30,000 bond signed by his father, O. J. Shafer, president of the O. J. Shafer Pattern works.

Check Kiting Charged.

The warrant was sworn by Edward W. Korsmeyer, New York, an official of the Doherty company. Korsmeyer said a complete audit of the company's books was being made and that the exact amount of the shortage could not be determined until that is completed. He indicated, however, that it would be far greater than the amount charged in the warrant.

GUN WAS WARRANT IN RAID; 1 KILLED AND 6 WOUNDED; NO LIQUOR

Europa, Miss., June 9.—[Special.]—"My gun is my warrant" are asserted to have been the words used by Justice of the Peace Lee Ferguson yesterday in the affray in which Ferguson's wife was killed and six other persons were wounded as the outcome of a raid on an all day singing fête. Tom Brown Elkins, one of the wounded, is near death.

Elkins, with three other persons, was sitting in his auto when dry officers demanded to search the car. Elkins declined permission without a search warrant. Ferguson drew his pistol. Elkins grabbed the gun, which was discharged. The bullet struck Mrs. Ferguson in the abdomen. A deputy sheriff threw Elkins to the ground, and some one shot Elkins in the back, when a general mêlée began.

BROOKLYN JUDGE FACING CHARGES RESIGNS HIS JOB

New York, June 9.—[Special.]—County Judge W. Bernard Vause of Brooklyn, the subject of four investigations and three indictments growing out of his connection with questionable pier leases and operations of a finance concern, today resigned from the bench on account of "ill health."

Judge Vause was supposed to go on trial in the United States District court tomorrow on the mail fraud charge in connection with the $400,000 failure of the Columbia Finance corporation, but United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle agreed to a postponement.

Judge Vause is supposed to have received a fee of $250,000 from the United American Lines for negotiating pier leases—which are now under fire—and one investigation of a charge that he fraudulently obtained $25,000 from the Clinton Capital corporation is now under way.

Dr. William F. Doyle, whose eight years of practice before the board of standards and appeals is estimated to have netted him and other considerably more than $2,000,000, was adjudged in contempt of court today by Federal Judge John M. Woolsey for refusal to tell the grand jury the names of persons with whom he had split fees received for this work in the years 1922, 1923, and 1924.

2 Dead, Many Ill from Eating Tainted Meat

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—President Hoover may speak in Illinois when he passes through on his western trip this summer. Mrs. Medill McCormick, Republican nominee for United States senator from Illinois, called at the White House today and asked Mr. Hoover to speak at Urbana either on his way west or on his return to Washington.

President Hoover did not indicate whether he would be able to accept the invitation.

Forfeit Bond of Attorney in Auto Theft Case

Edgar D. Fageros, an attorney of New Ulm, Minn., did not appear when called for trial on charges of violating the Dyer motor vehicle act yesterday and Federal Judge Woodward ordered his $1,000 bond forfeited. Assistant United States Attorney James C. Leaton informed the court that Fageros had made a statement implicating a Chicago attorney. This charge is being investigated, he said.

SON OF CONSTABLE DROWNED.

ELECTROLUX

makes your ice cheaper than you can buy it

SUPPOSE you could have a noiseless little ice plant in your home. One that needed no attention yet made you ice at wholesale prices, brought the cost down to half what you pay now. Wouldn't you like it? That's exactly the service that Electrolux gives you.

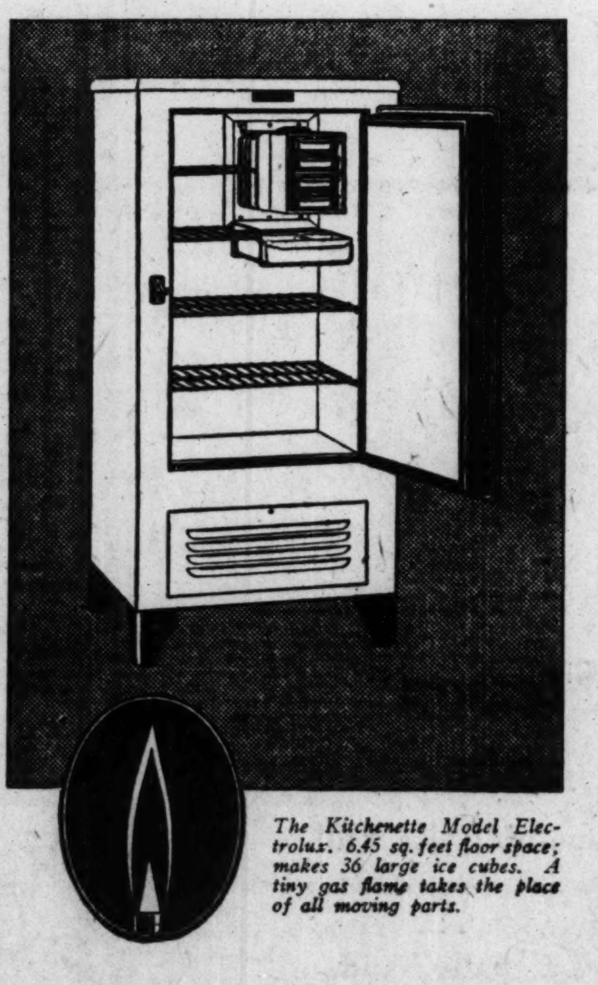
It not only freezes your ice cubes, but in addition it keeps your food perfectly; chills your salads and desserts; maintains constant steady cold that varies scarcely at all from the ideal point.

And all this for a few pennies a day. Compare that with what you pay for ice, and look at the saving!

And this refrigerator is different from others in its operation, too. You could stay in your kitchen all day long and never hear it. There isn't a sound from Electrolux, because there is nothing in it to make sound. Instead of using machinery to make the ice, to maintain the cold, it uses a tiny gas flame and flow of water so small you can scarcely notice it. There's nothing to wear and vibrate as time goes on, because this refrigerator has no moving parts at all. It will be as silent years from now as it is today.

QUICK FACTS!

1. Permanently noiseless.
2. Absolutely safe.
3. Only a few cents a day to operate.
4. Lasts indefinitely.
5. No mechanism to wear, to vibrate, to need oil.
6. Free from trouble.
7. Perpetual, steady cold.
8. Plenty of pure ice cubes.
9. Tested and endorsed by national authorities.



The Kitchenette Model Electrolux. 6.45 sq. feet floor space; makes 36 large ice cubes. A tiny gas flame takes the place of all moving parts.

Moreover, Electrolux costs no more than other refrigerators, size for size. Prices range from $195 to $430 f. o. b. Evansville. Purchase terms are liberal. Many models to choose from. But to realize how silent, how economical this refrigerator is you must see it in action. You can do so at display rooms listed below. And complete illustrated information may be had by phoning or mailing the coupon.

SOUCEK'S ALTITUDE RECORD CONFIRMED; GIVES U. S. ALL TYPES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—The United States again holds the world's altitude record for all types of aircraft. Official checking of the barographs carried by Lieut. Apollo Soucek, naval flyer, on his land plane altitude flights last Wednesday disclosed today that he had climbed 43,166 feet, smashing existing records by an ample margin.

In driving his Wright Apache biplane to the greatest altitude ever reached by any human, the naval flyer broke the record now held by Willi Nuenhofen of Germany by 1,372 feet. The German pilot's record was 41,794 feet.

Lieut. Soucek now holds the landplane and seaplane altitude records, both made in the same plane. His seaplane mark of 38,560 feet was made exactly one year previously—June 4, 1929. Both records have been officially recognized by the National Aeronautical association.

By climbing to 43,166 feet Soucek passed for the first time the unofficial balloon record of Capt. Hawthorne C. Gray, army air pilot, who rose to a height of 42,740 feet.

Soucek was married just a week ago.

COUNTY'S 1930 ROAD PROGRAM IS ABANDONED

Ask Country Towns to Aid State Work.

BY HAL FOUST.

Cook county's $8,000,000 1930 road building program, which received so much publicity last winter, will not be built in 1930. Already six or eight weeks later in starting to pour concrete, the highway department yesterday said that finances will prevent letting of contracts before Aug. 1, if then.

Gov. Emmerson's $19,000,000 biennium program for the metropolitan area will gain headway tomorrow when bids will be opened for forty miles of pavement to cost $1,700,000. The state has awarded only $941,820 worth of work in this district since Jan. 1. It expects to let contracts for $427,310 worth of construction within a few days.

Let Contracts in July.

In July, the state plans to let contracts for 38 miles of metropolitan area construction to cost $1,617,000. An August letting is to care for 55 miles of pavement, costing $2,725,000. These are pavements urgently needed.

The county board has formally rescinded its official resolutions on the program recommended by a citizens' advisory committee. This program was to care for paving through routes within Chicago as well as new construction in the rural sections.

County Highway Superintendent Quinlan yesterday called in his controller and explained the situation. He said his department has $70,000 and has uncompleted contracts for $2,250,000 worth of work, contracts let last year or the year before.

Apply Gas Tax Funds.

Two weeks ago President Cermak of the county board and Commissioner Busse, chairman of the road committee, petitioned Director Cleaveland of the state department of public works to permit Cook county to spend its state aid refund of $395,000 and its 1929 gas tax of $1,550,000 on old contracts rather than on the 1930 program.

Director Cleaveland granted the request, providing a portion of this money would be set aside for purchase of rights of way for state construction. Of the $1,945,000 the county has set aside $400,000 for state and county rights of way.

"We'll still need $700,000 for existing contracts," said Quinlan.

"Our only chance of making a dent in the 1930 program is our alloted $4,666,000 from tax anticipation warrants against 1930 taxes. But we can not sell more warrants until the banks are relieved of the 1928 warrants from the current collections. We'll probably get this money in August."

Director Cleaveland complained that the failure of municipalities near Chicago to pass set back ordinances was interfering with the governor's plans to widen arterial highways on the existing sixty-six foot rights of way providing set back rules were established to assure future acquisition of one hundred foot rights of way.

Calls Special Meeting.

President Cermak called a special meeting of the county board for June 20 to urge the enactment of the set back ordinances. The various municipal authorities were invited.

The county highway department, a couple of months ago, sent letters to the municipalities, repeating the state's proposition—set back rules or no pavement widening.

The following municipalities, according to the records, have not responded to the state's request: Chicago Heights, Cicero, Berwyn, Broadview, Westchester, LaGrange Park, Brookfield, Lyons, Riverside, Barrington, Palatine, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, DesPlaines, Niles, Wheeling, Justice, Riverdale, Hillside, Berkeley, Bellwood, Niles Center, and Evanston.

SEVEN DROWNED WHEN CAR DROPS INTO OLD QUARRY

Philadelphia, Pa., June 9.—(AP)—Seven persons were drowned yesterday afternoon in the plunge of an automobile into fifty feet of water in an abandoned quarry on the Souderton-Hatfield road, 28 miles north of Philadelphia.

The bodies of two women were found in the quarry today along with two men's straw hats and a baby's milk bottle.

A truck driver was about to dump rubbish into the water filled quarry today when he saw a woman's body floating. He summoned the police.

Shoots Robber Before He Is Slugged and Wounded

One of the robbers who yesterday afternoon held up a gas station in Elgin was shot in the stomach by Elmer Pfaffinger, attendant, before he himself was slugged and shot through the arm. The robbers obtained $336. Pfaffinger will recover.

CARAWAY MAY AID COMMITTEE TO QUIZ CANNON

Admits Effect of Interview on Hearing.

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—Senator T. H. Caraway [Dem., Ark.], chairman of the senate lobby committee, today complicated the controversy over whether Bishop James Cannon Jr. is in contempt of his committee by an apology to Senators T. J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.] and J. J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.] for the "unfortunate statement" on which the bishop based his defiance of the committee by refusing to answer its questions last week.

In explaining his statement issued at Little Rock, Ark., Caraway not only declared that he "would not sustain Cannon in snapping his fingers at the committee" and bolting its hearing, but intimated that he might join Walsh and Blaine in a move to punish the churchman.

Admits a Mistake.

Arriving in Washington this morning, Caraway immediately conferred with Walsh and Blaine and later publicly admitted that he had apologized to them for issuing the statement which, in denying that the committee was authorized to investigate Cannon's political activities in the 1928 presidential campaign, subjected the two senators to the bishop's charge of persecution by "wet and Roman Catholic interests."

Caraway today emphasized that the statement was meant merely to point out that the bishop appeared as a voluntary witness and that a committee investigating lobbies had no jurisdiction over "purely political activities" of individuals.

Was Put to Bad Use.

"The statement was subject to misunderstanding and was put to a bad use," said the Arkansas senator. "It was an unfortunate thing that I saw fit to comment without having all the facts before me. I am sorry to have embarrassed Senators Walsh and Blaine, because no two men ever have been or could be more courageous, honest, and sincere in carrying out an investigation."

He denounced as "infamous lies" the intimations that, having laid the groundwork for cross-examination of Cannon by himself questioning E. C. Jameson of New York, who contributed $65,300 to the bishop for the anti-Smith campaign in southern states, he claimed a previous speaking engagement in Arkansas as an excuse to be absent when the bishop appeared. Likewise he denied reports that his statement at Little Rock, Ark., was influenced by Dr. A. R. Miller, prominent southern Methodist minister and editor, who was Cannon's chief defender when the bishop faced charges at the recent general conference of the church in Dallas, Tex.

DIVORCES STAR

ELISE BARTLETT.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 9.—(AP)—Elise Bartlett, stage actress, was awarded a divorce today from Joseph Schildkraut, motion picture actor. Schildkraut did not contest the suit. He will pay his wife $250 a week alimony, under an agreement reached out of court, and divide community property valued at $20,000.

The couple were married in the Philadelphia city hall April 7, 1922, and separated Jan. 12 last.

The actress testified her husband called her "a rotten actress" and "a fool, ignoramus, and less printable things.

"He said it was too bad a great actor such as he was bound to one of such meager ability," she testified.

She charged that although Schildkraut earned from $1,500 to $1,750 a week, he gave his wife only $75 a week.

BUSH DIVORCED; REWED SAME DAY BY SAME JUDGE

Reno, Nev., June 9.—Irving T. Bush, president of the Bush Terminal company, New York, won his marital freedom this evening, but the divorce decree went to Mrs. Maud H. Bush on a cross-complaint alleging neglect and mental cruelty. A property settlement was made out of court.

From the courtroom Bush went downstairs to the office of county clerk, where he obtained a license to marry Miss Marion Spohr, known as the "Angel of the Bowery," and the wedding took place shortly thereafter in the apartment of Miss M. F. Barclay, where Miss Spohr has been making her home while in Reno. Judge George Abarett, who signed the divorce decree, performed the marriage.

PICK SLATE TO AID KOHLER AS HE RUNS AGAIN

Anti-La Follette Forces Hold Caucus.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Oshkosh, Wis., June 9.—[Special.]—Gov. Walter J. Kohler's campaign for reëlection is to get its official start at the Republican state convention which opens here tomorrow.

A state slate is to be picked with which to do battle with the La Follette group in the Republican primaries in September. The convention, which is composed of regulars, is to adopt a platform which will dwell on chain stores, corrupt practices, and prohibition. The avowed aim tonight is to cut a swath down the middle of the road between the radicals on one hand and the extreme hardshells on the other.

The convention in reality is a glorified caucus. It represents the regular wing of the party, and its purpose is to pick the candidates they will back in the Republican primaries through an open house of delegates, instead of in a back room.

Kohler vs. La Follette.

Tomorrow's conclave will revolve around Gov. Kohler and his administration and the stage will be set for the coming battle between the governor and Philip F. La Follette, who is heralded as the pick of the La Follette group.

Warm contests are developing over some places on the state slate. Harry Dahl of La Crosse seems to have the field to himself for lieutenant governor. John Puehlicher of Milwaukee has been talked of for state treasurer, but has indicated he does not want it and the regulars tonight say it's a guess who is to be pitted against the redoubtable Sol Levitan, the progressive incumbent.

For secretary of state, Mrs. R. W. Bowen of Augusta and William Knauff of Chilton are in the running and there is also mention of Fred R. Zimmerman, former governor.

A warm battle started today over attorney general. Michael Eberlein of Shawano and Robert Reiser of Madison have a rival in Assemblyman Wallace Ingalls of Racine, whose friends are booming him tonight. The Ingalls supporters say that southern Wisconsin wants a place on the slate and that Mr. Ingalls has a unique stance on the wet and dry question. He is personally a wet and has openly opposed prohibition, but last year he fought repeal of the Wisconsin state prohibition act during the referendum battle. His arguments against repeal were used by the Anti-Saloon league and the W. C. T. U. Mr. Ingalls' friends are pointing out that he was the father of Wisconsin's workmen's compensation act two decades ago.

The keynote speech tomorrow night is to be given by A. B. Fontaine of Green Bay, who presided over the Green Bay convention two years ago, which put Mr. Kohler into the field for governor. Mr. Fontaine has been actively denouncing chain stores and his speech is to deal with economic and industrial changes as well as politics. William J. Campbell of Oshkosh, who headed the first Oshkosh movement a few years back, is to be temporary chairman.

A tentative draft of a platform in readiness for the labors of the resolutions committee tomorrow was prepared tonight. Among those in the conference were Charles B. Perry, speaker of the house; Richard O. Wipperman, Roy Reed of Ripon, George Gilkey of Merrill, Senator Walter Goodland of Racine, W. L. Piepjow of Milwaukee, Mr. Campbell, and Mr. Fontaine.

Some Tentative Planks.

The tentative planks include the following proposals:

Prohibition.—Calls upon congress to provide a nation-wide referendum at the congressional election next November on whether congress shall submit repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the states. Wisconsin repealed its state prohibition law last year after a referendum.

Corrupt practices act—A declaration that the state act should be revised to conform to the findings of the state Supreme court and of the interim committee of the legislature which is studying the question.

A tentative plank on chain stores as drafted for consideration of the platform committee would call for legislation to give the state licensing powers over such absentee owned companies.

The draft may be chopped up by the resolutions committee and the lobby talk tonight is that the wet and dry plank may stir a debate. The convention will last two days.

DRY AGENT KILLED, FELLOW OFFICER IS SHOT IN RUM RAID

Alturus, Cal., June 9.—(AP)—Albert Brown, federal prohibition officer, was shot and killed, and Robert Davis, a fellow officer, was wounded at Indian Springs today when they attempted to arrest an unidentified man on a charge of selling liquor at a gasoline filling station. The slayer escaped.

Says Shooting Drys a Mistake.

New Albany, Ind., June 9.—(AP)—Edward Huth, 26, surrendered today on charges of assault and battery and resisting federal officers in connection with a shooting during a raid at the home of his father, Jacob Huth, 56, near here, Saturday night.

Huth said he thought the agents conducting the raid were hijackers. Two dry agents, Charles I. Rukes and Warren P. Allender, both of Indianapolis, are in a hospital. Other federal agents said that as they prepared to search the Huth premises they were met by a volley from the gun of Edward Huth.

"Don't use just any soap Palmolive is best...safest for lovely skin"
EVA O. STERM
Distinguished Chicago Beauty Expert

"YOU need soap and water to keep your pores free of accumulation, to keep your skin conditioned to the abuses of modern life. But not just any ordinary soap," says this expert. "Palmolive, with its delicate olive oil content, is best."

The choice of world's experts

Unless it was truly unusual, no soap could win the approval of the great beauty specialists as Palmolive has. And 19,813 experts, all over the world, advise Palmolive, you know. They consider it best because they have tried it, their lovely patrons have used it, and found its results superior to ordinary soaps.

Vegetable-oils have a unique action in soap. They make it not only efficient, but gentle and soothing in its action. Certain women have a notion that they cannot use soap on their face. That is probably because they are using the wrong kind of soap. A vegetable oil soap is safe for the most sensitive skin, and it leaves the surface of the skin smooth and lovely.

The celebrated Palmolive treatment

Massage a fine lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water tenderly into the skin for about two minutes. You can actually feel this lather routing out the impurities in your pores—those hidden accumulations that so often are the cause of blackheads and pimples. Rinse with both warm and cold water, gradually letting it cool till it is almost icy. This astringent treatment will close the pores and keep your skin safe from dirt and germs. That is the treatment advised by more than 19,800 world-famous beauty experts today—experts whose business it is to know what is best, experts who have studied for years the best methods of protecting facial beauty. They find Palmolive best because it is a fine vegetable oil soap, untouched by artificial coloring methods, with a delicate odor that makes the addition of heavy perfumes unnecessary.

Try Palmolive tomorrow. Use it for the bath as well as the face. It costs no more than ordinary soap, you know, and the results will delight you.

When women of Chicago want expert advice on beauty care, they turn to Eva O. Sterm of the Congress Hotel and The Stevens Hotel.

It is such experts as this who are raising the standard of beauty culture throughout America, and these experts consider Palmolive Soap invaluable for home use.

"Don't think any soap will do what Palmolive does. Its penetrating, soothing vegetable oil lather cleanses without irritation, leaving the skin smooth, colorful, lovely."

Snow Reports Downstate Interest.

BY PARKE BROWN.

First reports of the circulation of the petitions for a triple referendum on prohibition at the Illinois election next November are that the canvassers are received warmly and are meeting almost no refusals to sign.

"Not only that," said Chairman B. W. Snow of the Republican county central committee yesterday, "but requests for petition blanks have started to come in from downstate cities to such an extent that we foresee the gathering of many thousands of signatures from outside Cook county.

May Get Downstate Petitions.

"As we initiated this program solely on our own responsibility we had not planned to extend operations into the downstate territory; but the indications already are that they want petitions in most of the large cities and there is a possibility that other county committees will vote to coöperate with us.

"While we feel sure we'll gather 400,000 signatures here, we naturally welcome this assistance, and if the offers mount sufficiently to warrant it we may get out downstate blanks. They would have to be different from our forms because of the headings we used to protect them from imitation by hostile forces.

"We are much encouraged by the reception given our precinct workers. I had a meeting of my own precinct captains last night to hear of their first experiences. Without exception they reported that they were welcomed nearly everywhere and that there were many volunteers willing to help gather names.

Hears No Opposition.

"It is remarkable that out of all the persons who have spoken to me or written to me there has not been one who opposed the referendum."

Chairman Snow displayed the protective heading. It bears a fac-simile of his signature and includes this text:

"These petitions are prepared and circulated by the Cook county Republican central committee. The purpose is to enable the voters of Illinois, under the public policy act, to officially record their position upon three outstanding questions of public policy.

"By the use of a separate ballot, where voting is not influenced by any partisan political bias, the attitude of Illinois will become a powerful factor in a final settlement of the problems involved."

NEW YORK SOCIETY WOMEN COOL TOWARD PROHIBITION APPEAL

New York, June 9.—The appeal of Mrs. George Holt Strawbridge of Bala, Pa., to women to organize for prohibition and abolish drinking at social functions met with a deluge of unfavorable replies today.

Mrs. John S. Sheppard, chairman of the New York division of the women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, made public nine replies from members of her group, all of whom expressed themselves emphatically on prohibition and refused Mrs. Strawbridge their coöperation.

Miss Mary Hoyt Wiborg went farther and declared: "You have a large responsibility, you and your band, in undertaking such a campaign, and to have brought upon this country the mockery of the world."

Mrs. Kenneth O'Brien wrote that she was bringing up her children to see the "fruit of the vine properly used in their parents' home."

$10,000 Bond Set for Two in Doctor Kidnaping Case

Bonds of $10,000 each were fixed yesterday by Judge John Sbarbaro for two of the defendants in the case growing out of the kidnaping last Friday of Dr. Frank L. Nathanson, 3846 West Madison street. Mrs. Carmella Lupresto, 626 North Kedzie avenue, and August Pusateri, 1209 Fry street, were placed under the high bond when the case was continued to June 13. The physician is himself accused of performing an abortion in counter charges.

COUNTY BOARD TAKES WHAT IT CAN GET IN PINCH

Members Squirm, but Vote for Relief Bills.

The county commissioners yesterday gave unanimous approval to the legislative program for financial relief which has been presented to the special session of the legislature by the Strawn citizens' committee. The board is the second government agency to approve the relief bills, the city council having indorsed them last Friday by a vote of 40 to 2.

The approval was voted only after the bills had been discussed in a stormy session of the commissioners sitting as the finance committee. Objections were raised that the bills do not provide sufficient relief and the commissioners stated that the restrictions on their power to transfer funds between accounts will hamper them in emergencies.

"Some one is trying to muddy the water here," charged Attorney William H. Sexton, representing the citizens' committee, shortly before the finance committee recessed until the afternoon without taking any action. "We are merely trying to help you. You understand that the members of the legislature from Cook county are not backing these bills with any great assurance."

"And I am telling the county board that we will be at least $2,500,000 short this year and in the hole everlasting thereafter," retorted Michael J. O'Connor, assistant deputy controller. "When I agreed to the program at Springfield I took the best we could get."

The commissioners, however, agreed upon the resolution after J. L. Jacobs, their efficiency expert, and Hayden N. Bell, their attorney, agreed that while the bills are not entirely satisfactory in their present form they will suffice providing the county board practices rigid economy.

$23,000,000 TAX VALUATIONS PUT BACK ON BOOKS

A total of $23,000,000 in assessed valuation left off the 1928 assessment rolls through errors or action by the board of review is being restored on 1929 records by Harry S. Cutmore, director of the reassessment. The total represents $1,150,000 in tax revenue.

More than one-half of the sum represents errors discovered by the assessors, which were ignored by the board of review, Cutmore said. Another $10,000,000 represents unwarranted reductions, erroneous assessments, and fraudulent manipulations discovered by the auditors for the state tax commission, he said.

"Notices to come in and show cause why the assessments should not go on the books are to be served on property owners who benefited," Cutmore said. "Where the books are in the hands of the board of review we will prosecute the replaced assessments there, if the owners complain. If owners file objections in the County court we will fight them on evidence which we are now collecting. The final total of replacements will increase as we continue investigation."

A. OF C. READY TO ANNOUNCE CITY POPULATION

Plan Celebrations for the Event Tomorrow.

Additional plans for celebrating the announcement of Chicago's approximate population, which will be made public at the Chicago Association of Commerce's luncheon in the La Salle hotel tomorrow noon, were made yesterday. It is anticipated that the announcement will consist of a figure somewhere in the neighborhood of 3,300,000, but this may vary substantially in either direction.

Special census exercises will be conducted in all the public schools during the day together with athletic games, Supt. William J. Bogan announced yesterday. This agreement by the board of education to formally recognize the census import follows similar announcements made previously by the south, west, and Lincoln park boards. It is planned in this fashion to give recognition to the youngsters whose numbers have been important in registering the population increase.

Events at Playgrounds.

The municipal and park boards playgrounds will be open to children and word will be relayed to the schools and these recreational places the moment the estimate is announced downtown.

The figure will be announced by Col. Robert Isham Randolph after he has computed the totals of the six census districts which will be given to him by the district supervisors, each total in a separate sealed envelope.

It appeared yesterday that the official returns from the districts will be coming in for the remainder of the month and that this "official" figure will be only in the nature of a close approximation. Corrections are being made in some of the districts and a number of these were announced during the day by Supervisor Ralph L. Goodman of the 5th district.

Corrections in Nine Wards.

43	57,429	57,413
44	40,394	59,474
45	53,807	52,842
46	53,529	57,894
47	65,821	65,058
48	64,396	65,331
49	95,795	95,652
50	108,497	101,253
Totals	609,479	604,409

While the business men are celebrating downtown, about 250 neighborhood business organizations and clubs will hold special meetings in their districts to consider their own figures.

ST. LOUIS INCREASES 44,437 IN 10 YEARS; POPULATION 817,334

St. Louis, Mo., June 9.—(AP)—The population of St. Louis was announced today as 817,334, a gain of 44,437, or 5.7 per cent, since 1920. The figure fell short of estimates by the chamber of commerce, which had hoped St. Louis would go above Cleveland, now sixth largest city with 901,482.

Drift of population to suburbs was the apparent reason for the comparatively small growth within the city, limits of which have not been changed changed since 1875. The population of St. Louis city and St. Louis county, which are separate, is expected to exceed 1,000,000, while the population of the metropolitan area, including St. Clair and Madison counties, Illinois, is expected to exceed 1,250,000.

Des Moines Has 142,469.

Des Moines, Ia., June 9.—(AP)—Des Moines has a population of 142,469 by the census count, Supervisor R. W. Colflesh announced today. This was an increase of 16,001, or 12.6 per cent over the total of 126,468 for 1920.

Including the suburbs and adjoining townships in Polk county, the population of greater Des Moines was given as 167,048.

ASSOCIATED PRESS FIGURES.

The Associated Press in conjunction with the census bureau announced the following figures:

City—	1930 pop.	Gain.	Per cent inc.
Ames, Ia.	10,261	3,991	63.6

MICHIGAN U. TO SPEND COOK GIFT ON LAW SCHOOL

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 9.—[Special.]—Announcement that the law quadrangle of the University of Michigan, the gift of the late William W. Cook, would be completed, was made tonight by President Ruthven following the filing of the will of Mr. Cook in New York today. The will names the university as the beneficiary for the income from virtually all of the $12,000,000 Cook estate. Mr. Cook, who was a lawyer and a graduate in the class of 1882, had already given $8,000,000 to the university.

A new classroom building and another dormitory unit will be constructed. The classroom building will be called Hutchins hall, after the late Dr. Harry B. Hutchins, a close personal friend of Mr. Cook's. The building will cost about $1,000,000. Work will be started next fall and it will be ready for occupancy by Sept. 1, 1931.

The last unit will be the dormitory, which will be extended from the John P. Cook unit, now being built. The completion of this building will make the law college a complete unit, extending entirely around a city block.

EFFORT TO SAVE BORDER FORESTS AS PARK IS KILLED

Quetico-Superior Bill Dies in House.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—Hope for favorable action at this session of congress on legislation to preserve the Quetico-Superior region in northeast Minnesota for recreational purposes was virtually abandoned today when the Shipstead-Nolan bill was stricken from the consent calendar of the house.

The purpose of the bill is to preserve the timber and water levels in a wilderness area of 14,500 square miles along the Canadian border. It has been indorsed by many civic and sports organizations of Minnesota.

The house today approved a bill by Representative George J. Schneider [Rep., Wis.] directing the secretary of the interior to make a survey to determine the feasibility of transforming into a national park the Menominee Indian reservation in Wisconsin. It previously had passed a measure for a similar survey of the Apostle islands, located in Lake Superior north of Ashland, Ws.

OLD GUARD GETS BUSY TO DELAY VOTE ON TREATY

Young Turks Counter with Speed Move.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—While the senate foreign relations committee wrestled today with the situation produced by President Hoover's refusal to furnish documentary information on the negotiation of the navy limitation treaty, the Old Guard and the Young Turks were waging a furious battle of round robins.

Senator George H. Moses [Rep., N. H.] of the Old Guard was enlisting signatures to a round robin memorializing the President to consent to the postponement of action on the treaty until after the autumn elections. Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] was aiding in the circulation of this round robin on the Democratic side of the chamber. They claimed twenty signatures to their appeal tonight and were counting on more than a score of other senators, who said they would vote for postponement, though unwilling to sign the round robin.

Young Turks Start Circular Move.

Roused to action by this move of the Old Guard, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] and Senator Henry J. Allen [Rep., Kas.], leaders of the Young Turks, put a counter round robin in circulation committing its signers to action on the treaty in the present regular session or at a special session of the senate to follow immediately upon the adjournment of the regular session. They claim 22 signers up to date.

The session of the foreign relations committee was devoted entirely to discussion of the action of the President in withholding the information regarding the treaty, requested by the committee at the instance of Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.], leader of the opposition to the London agreement.

Mr. Johnson opened the discussion with a comprehensive argument setting forth his view that the senate, as the constitutional co-partner of the executive in the making of treaties, is entitled to every scrap of information pertaining to such negotiations.

Reed Defends Hoover.

Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], who was a member of the American delegation to the London conference, defended the position of the administration. He said that much of the correspondence and memoranda withheld is of an extremely delicate character. Its disclosure, he said, would be exceedingly embarrassing to some of the participants in the conference. He mentioned Japan and Italy as among the nations that would be embarrassed by revelation of various steps in the negotiations.

"Do you mean to say that there are documents of that character connected with this negotiation?" demanded Johnson.

"There are," replied Reed.

"Then I should like to know why it is that certain members of this committee are allowed information concerning this negotiation which is denied to other members," Johnson shot back, without eliciting a rejoinder.

Senator Johnson said that he is receiving a constantly increasing volume of letters from all parts of the country opposing the treaty in about the proportion of 10 to 1. He said many of his letters are from Illinois.

LABOR ASKS HOOVER TO KEEP NAVY YARD UNEMPLOYMENT DOWN

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—William Green, national head of the American Federation of Labor, today urged President Hoover to accelerate the navy's construction and modernization program in order to avoid a further increase in unemployment at government navy yards.

Figures Mr. Green had with him showed that 2,141 men had been laid off in the navy yards from November to April, with a corresponding pay roll reduction of $376,572. In November 29,361 men were employed in ten principal yards, with a pay roll of $4,766,790; in April there were 27,220 employés with a pay roll of $4,390,218. Further reduction of 4,000 men is in sight.

No information was forthcoming from the White House regarding whether President Hoover would take steps to see that the battleship modernization program would not be halted next March when modernization work on the Pennsylvanian and Arizona is completed.

2 JAPANESE NAVY CHIEFS QUIT OvER LONDON TREATY

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, June 9.—Vice Admiral Yamanachi has resigned as vice minister of the navy in connection with the controversy over the London naval treaty. Vice Admiral Suyetsugu, assistant chief of the naval staff, has also resigned. Both resignations have been accepted.

Yamanachi told Admiral Takarabe, navy minister, when the latter returned from the London conference of his intention of resigning. He sat as a representative of the navy department in the cabinet meeting which decided to accept the Reed-Matsudaira compromise. He made known his opposition to the plan, but he was overruled by the cabinet.

Vice Admiral Suyetsugu's resignation is believed to be the result of his action in issuing a statement denouncing the treaty when the government decided to accept it. Both officers, however, will remain in the navy. Yamanashi is expected to be appointed to the navy general staff. Vice Admiral Kobayashi will be appointed to succeed Yamanashi as vice minister.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

OPPONENTS OPEN HEADQUARTERS IN TRANSIT BATTLE

Ickes Statement Hit by Union Official.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The Citizens' Committee Against the Traction Ordinance opened headquarters in room 1444 of 127 North Dearborn street yesterday. The nonpartisan committee favoring the ordinance has headquarters at room 1302 Foreman National Bank building.

The opposition announced the committee in charge of their campaign. It is headed by David Rosenheim and its secretary is Mrs. Charles K. Mohler. Some of the other members are: Wiley W. Mills, S. J. Konnenkamp, O. F. Carpenter, E. W. Bemis, Lloyd Bemis, Otto Cullman, Earl George Gubbins, Jacob Grossberg, Florence C. Hanson, Newton Jenkins, Peter Foore, Prof. Robert M. Lovett, Prof. R. L. Mott, Donald R. Richberg, J. Mullenbach, Judith Lowenthal, William H. Holly, Henry M. Ashton, William E. Rodrigues, George A. Schilling, L. A. Stebbins, John J. Walt, Dr. Walter Verity, the Rev. U. M. McGuire, Eleanor Spaeth, George A. Mead and Carl D. Thompson.

Liberal Club Hits Ordinance.

The Liberal club put out a criticism of the ordinance of considerable length. The club charges that it is a perpetual franchise, that the capitalization of the new company is excessive, and that the ordinance as a whole is detrimental to the public. The club predicts an increase in fares and submits figures which the club says indicate that the rates will be raised above 10 cents.

Mary McEnerney, secretary and treasurer of the Bindery Women's union, issued a statement against Harold L. Ickes. She said that "he heads the gold coast opposition to the demands of working men and women for more and better transportation," and attacked "insinuations" in his reference to "the labor leaders who, either mistakenly or for some less praiseworthy reason," favor ratification.

Seen as Business Aid.

At a banquet of the West Englewood Business Men's association, Ald. McDonough asked: "Isn't it queer that none of the critics has charged that the ordinance will not provide needed transportation?"

At a meeting of the Illinois Retail Coal Dealers' association S. Charles Iverson predicted that the acceptance of the ordinance "will greatly benefit Chicago in better transportation and in a revival of business."

To the Northwest Federation of Improvement clubs, Sidney S. Gorham said that the franchise is not perpetual. He declared that "if the ordinance is as tremendously valuable as some critics claim the city will soon find a new buyer and can make a new bargain."

FORMER LIVELY COAL TOWN DESERTED WHEN MINES ARE SHUT DOWN

Kortkamp, Ill., June 9.—(AP)—Only a few years ago considered one of the most progressive coal mining and industrial towns in central Illinois, with business booming like a veritable Klondike, Kortkamp today is practically a deserted village.

Overproduction and the development of strip mines in several sections of the state are said to have resulted in the closing of the mines here and at Witt, a sister city. Tall weeds and other vegetation nearly cover the hundreds of vacant dwellings once the homes of miners.

Wrecking of the mammoth tipple and top works of the Kortkamp mine, No. 11, owned by the Indiana and Illinois Coal corporation, started Saturday. The colliery has been closed and sealed since May 22, 1923, and the miners have gone elsewhere.

OAK PARK WIFE ASKS $100,000 IN ALIENATION SUIT

Mrs. Lola Alwood, 40 years old, 1150 Wenonah avenue, Oak Park, yesterday filed a $100,000 alienation of affection suit in the Superior court against Miss Caroline Brown, 5120 Blackstone avenue, eye training specialist. The bill, drawn by Attorney Barratt O'Hara, charges Miss Brown with stealing the affections of Lister A. Alwood, advertising man.

Mrs. Alwood declares that her husband began taking eye training treatments several months ago when Miss Brown opened her clinic. According to the bill Miss Brown, "trained not only his eye, but his heart and caused Alwood to love her and forget his wife." The Alwoods have a son who is to graduate today from the University of Chicago.

Miss Brown denied the charges in the bill. She said that both Mr. and Mrs. Alwood had taken treatments from her and that she and Mrs. Alwood had a disagreement in which Alwood was not concerned. Miss Brown is represented by Attorney B. Fain Tucker.

SIX MEN KILLED, SIX ARE INJURED IN TUNNEL BLAST

Explosion Occurs in Tube Under Detroit River.

Detroit, Mich., June 9.—[Special.]—An explosion in the nearly completed million dollar water intake tunnel under the Detroit river took the lives of six workmen and injured six more at 10 a. m. today. The men were working at the head of the tunnel 225 feet below the surface of the river. They were off the head of Belle Isle more than two-thirds of a mile out from the shore of Water Woods park.

Water board officials believe the explosion was caused by a charge of dynamite which had failed to explode just before quitting time Sunday. The charge was permitted to remain in the ground. It is believed that men clearing away rock at the tunnel head today struck the dynamite with a pick or drill.

Rescuers Bring Up Dead.

A rescue corps of policemen, firemen, and workmen brought the dead and injured out of the tunnel. It was at first believed that a number of men had been trapped in a small offshoot of the main tunnel by débris, but these men later were accounted for.

It was said by engineers on the job that it was the custom when a charge failed for the crew coming off duty to report this fact so that no premature drilling would be done by the next crew until the charge had either been fired or removed. It was believed by these men that failure to observe this precaution led to the explosion.

7 Killed in Explosion.

Oakland, Cal., June 9—(AP)—Seven workmen were killed and one injured by an explosion last night in the Calaveras tunnel of the Hetch Hetchy water project in the Alameda county hills, twenty miles southeast of Oakland. All the bodies were removed today to the Livermore morgue where attempts were being made to complete their identification.

A natural gas pocket uncovered by a dynamite blast and ignited by a spark from the motor on the tram or from a pick was given as the probable cause of the explosion.

So terrific was the blast that men on the surface first believed an earthquake had occurred. Piles of gravel at the north of the tunnel, nearly a mile from the scene of the explosion, were leveled.

ADDED PENSIONS FOR CIVIL WAR VETERANS APPROVED BY HOOVER

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—The rate of pension of every veteran of the civil war was raised today when President Hoover signed two pension bills, one of which added $12,000,000 to the annual sums received by the veterans and widows of the war of the rebellion. The act revising and equalizing the rate of pension for civil war veterans affects approximately 50,000 soldiers and 27,000 widows. A second civil war pension bill signed by Mr. Hoover added a number of soldiers and widows to the civil war pension list.

The equalization bill raised the pension rate for veterans from $65 a month to $75 a month and grants a $100 per month rate to all veterans requiring the aid and attendance of another person. In brief, this bill increases the rate of pension of all invalid veterans now receiving $72 or $90 a month to $100 and lowers the age limit for widows and former widows to 70 years for the $40 a month rate. The present law allows a pension to widows after they have reached 75 years of age.

BRITAIN RUSHES WARSHIPS AND TROOPS TO INDIA

Warlike Tribesmen Mass at Khyber Pass.

BOMBAY, India, June 9.—(AP)—Encouraged by reports that the war office had dispatched troops and warships to India, harassed officials tonight assumed a more optimistic attitude toward a situation in the Peshawar district which was regarded as critical.

With their hands full coping with the irritating passive resistance campaign for which Mahatma Gandhi is interned at Yeravda prison, Poona, Indian government officials surveyed the reported massing of thousands of Afridis beyond Khyber Pass, on the fringe of the northwest frontier, with alarm.

Tribesmen Mass at Pass.

The Afghan tribesmen, stung by repeated bombing raids of British airmen, when some 5,000 projectiles were dumped on them in their mountain retreats, were said to be swarming like hornets through the district and watching the pass as a cat watches a mouse.

Advices from London indicated that the third destroyer flotilla and a Lincolnshire regiment were on the way and there was hope of another contingent leaving soon. How soon actual mobilization in India would take place hinged upon developments in Peshawar.

Tonight India was somnolent. There was an air of suspense, awaiting the report of Sir John Simon, although it would be forthcoming only in its first section, with findings but without the recommendations on which depended the trend toward peace or further civil resistance.

Two Slain by Police.

MADRAS, India, June 9.—(AP)—The Madras Mail reported tonight that two persons were killed and six seriously wounded by police, who fired to halt a fight between Moslems and Hindus at Vellore. The quarrel arose in connection with a Moharram procession. The Moharram is the first month of the Mohammedan year and is observed as a period of lamentation.

Sentence Soldier for Shooting.

PESHAWAR, India, June 9.—(AP)—Corporal Cummings of the Yorkshire light infantry today was sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment for accidentally shooting two children beside the Kabuli gate May 31, a mishap which started a riot.

PROPOSE FAST LAKE TAXI LINE FOR NO. SHORE

Fast marine taxi service between University pier, Evanston, and Tribune square, Chicago, is proposed by the American Water Transport company, which, in a communication read at the Evanston city council meeting last night, requests a five year franchise.

The company proposes to operate three 38 foot cruisers and guarantees a 28 minute trip between University pier and the Michigan avenue bridge.

Points to Problems of Home Rule Grant.

dan festival known as Baqr'Id. Even the calendars of the two faiths clash, as, for instance, when an anniversary of Moslem mourning comes on the day of Hindu rejoicing.

Hatreds Result in Riots.

"Out of these hatreds arise most incidents, causing frequent fatal communal riots. The problem of any government is to devise a system by which all religious divisions are given fair representation, the interests of the minorities protected, and peace kept between them.

"Another problem is the widely differing stages of progress and culture. Some provinces are equal to any country in Europe, while others are 1,000 years behind the present western civilization."

The language question is one of the greatest difficulties, the report goes on. Two hundred and twenty-two vernaculars have been counted in India and there are many more sub-languages. English is the only medium of general communication by the educated classes, and in the peninsula there are only 2,500,000 able to speak it. This works out to 16 per 1,000 men and two per 1,000 women, according to the commission.

Burma Better Advanced.

In this connection the commission was impressed with arguments for separating Burma from the rest of India. The standard of civilization is believed highest there.

All these points are vital when one considers the total area of India is 1,800,000 square miles, or more than 20 times the area of Great Britain. Approximately 700,000 square miles lie within the boundaries of the Indian states, which are not British territory at all, though they are under the suzerainty of the British crown.

The states are nearly 600 in number and vary in size from Kashmir or Hyderabad, the largest, with an area greater than England and Scotland, to properties of a few acres. The rest, which constitutes British India, is made up of nine "governor's provinces" together with certain other areas, of which the most important is the northwest frontier province. Burma, the largest of the provinces, covers an area greater than the whole of France, and Assam, the smallest, is of the size of England.

Average Income $8 a Year.

British India had a population of 247,000,000, and the Indian states of 71,900,000. British India has therefore nearly two and a half times the population of the United States.

The average income per capita, the report states, is only little over $8 a year. Over 51 per cent of revenues for provincial governments are derived from taxes, including income tax, .16 per cent; salt tax, 6.35 per cent; opium, 2.35 per cent, and railways, 6.25 per cent.

While the tone of the whole volume is carefully restrained and every effort has been made to avoid prejudging the verdict or anticipating the plans, which will be given in the later volume, it is evident that the commission is not of the opinion that India is ripe for Mahatma Gandhi's demand for immediate self-government.

GRIEVING WIDOW KILLS SELF.

Logansport, Ind., June 9.—[Special.]—Grief over the death of her husband three months ago led to the suicide of Mrs. Eliza Bitters, 68, today. Her body was found in the gas filled kitchen of her home.

What $16,000 buys in The American Weekly

A full page in color nearly three times as big as any other magazine page in the world . . . 6,000,000 families at a cost of less than ⅓ cent per family . . . The attention of the entire family instead of a single buying factor.

MIGHTY factor in the commercial life of our times, the chain store sells to millions who pass America's busiest corners with money in their pockets.

Woolworth, Atlantic & Pacific, Grant, Kresge, J. C. Penney, United Cigar Stores, Kroeger, Safeway, Piggly Wiggly, Liggett's, The May Company, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward and others are names to be conjured with.

The advertiser who is interested in the markets covered by these great chain store organizations will find in The American Weekly a publicity medium not easy to ignore.

In one out of every four of the buying homes of the nation, The American Weekly, greatest of all magazines, lays the national advertiser's message before the tremendous total of nearly 6,000,000 families concentrated in the rich areas where chain stores thrive.

To demonstrate how this nearly six million circulation influence carries far beyond the major markets, an analysis of The American Weekly's circulation shows that in more than 1,000 small cities and towns, wherein J. C. Penney Company Stores are located there are 3,876,444 families.

In these centers the circulation of The American Weekly is almost twice as great as that of any other publication—1,149,083 American Weekly readers against 640,725 for its nearest competitor, and a coverage of 29.64%.

The significance of these facts is well known to some of America's most successful advertisers who have invested heavily and profitably in American Weekly white space.

Their significance is well known also to chain store executives whose shelf space is valuable and who only understand the language of consumer demand.

The tremendous driving force of this mighty medium has registered time and again on the chain store's sales reports.

So irresistible is its power that chains regard it as a barometer of buying.

When it goes to work in earnest for a product chain store buyers stock the merchandise to meet the demand they know inevitably will come.

Why the great effectiveness of this medium?

First of all, The American Weekly concentrates and dominates in 536 of America's 812 towns and cities of 10,000 population and over.

In each of 185 cities, it reaches 1 out of every 2 families.
In 132 more cities, it reaches 40 to 50%.
In an additional 102 cities, it reaches 30 to 40%.
In another 117 cities, 20 to 30%.

And, in addition, nearly 2,000,000 families in thousands of other communities regularly buy The American Weekly.

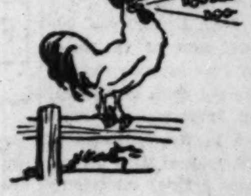
The cost? Amazingly low. The lowest, in fact, of any magazine media in America! For less than ⅓¢ per family, a manufacturer can reach this vast market with a full-color page almost three times the size of any other magazine page in the world.

He can display his package life size in actual color, include recipes, coupon, and still have plenty of room to tell and illustrate dramatically his story.

The most buyers in the richest markets at the lowest cost. No wonder the Social Register of American Business directs an ever increasing per cent of its advertising appropriations into this advertising channel.

Where can you spend your advertising dollar more effectively?



Cock-A-Doodle-Doo

1929 was a banner year and American Weekly revenue for the first five months was the greatest for any similar period in its history. The first five months of 1930 show a substantial increase in American Weekly advertising over 1929.

WHY TRAIN RIDES DECLINE.

For ten years the number of passengers on railroads has declined. From the peak of 1,269,912,881 in 1920 the train riders of America have come down annually to 779,045,000 in 1929. The per capita decline has been even greater. In 1900 America had 7.5 train rides per capita. In 1929 there were 6.5 train rides per capita. In the face of huge increases in other forms of communication this looks bad for the railroads.

Much of the decline is the fault of railroad management. If one-tenth of the attention had been given to increasing the comfort of rail transportation that has been given automobiles and other agencies of communication this decline would be less striking. The noise and stench of trains, the soot and dirt, like the barbaric uproar of the street car as it rattles down the street, drive riders to other forms of transportation. Electrified trains, smooth and dustless roadbeds with silent cars are not impossible, and when the railroads need passengers badly enough they will work towards these improvements.

For clean and noiseless transportation the public no doubt would not complain at higher fares. In effect such higher fares are now in being, on the special price trains. But without sootless riding the gain is not so great. A progressive management of the railroads and of traction companies with an eye towards the world of 1950 instead of 1870 will ease out many of the railroads' troubles.

THE MEXICAN QUOTA.

The senate has passed a bill to place Mexican immigration on a quota basis, but the measure has been sidetracked in the house, though it has the indorsement of the house committee on immigration. Efforts are being made to bring it to a vote. Washington dispatches say that the state department, fearing to disturb existing good relations with Mexico, is seeking to stifle the bill.

If this is so, the state department is giving orders where it ought to receive them. The right of a nation to admit or exclude immigrants arbitrarily and without consultation is unquestioned. If the state department is so inept that it cannot maintain good relations when its case is as good as is the American case for restricting Mexican immigration, then it is time to change hands.

Is the Mexican government so unreasonable as to bear a lasting resentment at being placed in a class with England, France, and Germany? It is a point of honor with Japan to obtain a ratio. The law would not be an unfriendly act, but merely an application of a well established regulation required by conditions. It would be indefensible weakness to give up the case. Friendly relations cannot be based on such terms.

NORTH CAROLINA BACK IN THE FOLD.

Senator Furnifold M. Simmons has been defeated for renomination by the Democrats of North Carolina. Josiah W. Bailey, a Raleigh attorney who ran against the senator more in sorrow than in anger, has defeated the venerable statesman by at least 60,000 votes. The state has confessed its sin, punished the responsible author of it, and has returned as a penitent to the temporarily fragmented solid south. Thus North Carolina has done the Republican party all the good it could and much more than it would confess as an intention.

It had listened to a traveling man and had left home, but is back again and nothing more will be said about it. It has a new pair of shoes, a fresh frock, and will live quietly for a while. A great many of the good people of the state regret that it was necessary to punish Senator Simmons, but when he Hooverized in the presidential election he misused the trust a confiding state reposed in him and in spite of his able and long career, full of good works, North Carolina felt that the incident needed an example as a warning that it should not happen again.

The benefit given the Republican party is great if the party management and the administration will convert it to all its uses. When parts of the south broke from tradition and old loyalties the motives were not admirable and the consequences threatened to be worse. The propulsion which ripped Virginia, Florida, Texas, and North Carolina out of the solid south was found in intolerance, prejudice, clerical politics, and sectarian ambitions for control. The votes which could be influenced thus were a liability to the party which got them. They were a plague if they could stipulate what the party had to do and what program it should carry out.

These southern electoral votes had not been needed by the Republican ticket, but the administration has been apparently concerned to hold them for another election, although the necessary conditions of doing so were damaging to the party in the north. The votes were delivered by political clerics and the price was on the article. It was unconditional surrender.

The North Carolina primary election indicates that the Republican party can about face and look north again.

STATE DEPARTMENT SECRECY.

Senator Hiram Johnson, leading the opposition to the naval treaty, asked the state department to submit all the correspondence and exchanges relating to the agreement. Mr. Stimson, secretary of state, has replied that some of the documents will be given to the senate but that it would be against public policy to make all of them known. In withholding some he says he is aware that opponents will infer that this course is taken to cover secret agreements or mistakes but that such an inference is nonsense, there being nothing to cover.

Mr. Stimson is right in thinking that there must be some such inference, whether it is warranted or not, and to understand it he has only to consider the circumstances of treaty making. The conference followed the Geneva meeting which failed because American interests were not yielded. It was preceded by the visit of Mr. MacDonald and the talk with President Hoover on the Rapidan, nothing definite being made known as to its purpose or consequences. The American negotiators selected for London were obviously pliant to administration purposes. The expert opinion of the navy was discouraged before the conference and dismissed during it. The American big cruiser program was whittled from 23 to 21 to 18 to 15. Japan was boosted out of its Washington ratio. The great majority of American naval authorities oppose the treaty before the senate.

In view of these facts, Mr. Stimson must be prepared to find that the withholding of the complete record is regarded as significant.

CAROL AS A ROYAL GOOD FELLOW.

Carol of Rumania has sent his son to the nursery and has taken the throne himself. He decided that it was better to be a king at home than a profligate in France, and this appears to have met general approval in his country. He gave up the succession for a mistress and now gives up the mistress for the crown. About the only position Carol could have qualified himself for by his manner of life is that of king. For that job character, mentality and physical fitness are not required. A gentleman carefully nurtured in principles of profligacy and perfidy may step up to the throne and clap on the crown without offending his subjects' ideas of the proprieties. He could not get a place as night watchman in a warehouse, but in countries of the monarchical tradition any bounder in the succession is good enough for the court, the army, the clergy and the people. He will have royal precedent for ages in monarchical countries to keep him in countenance and grace.

Carol had developed a nuisance value. His morganatic wife, Zizi Lambrino, had tried in the French courts to make him acknowledge his son, which he refused to do. His wife, the Princess Helene, had divorced him. He said he abandoned his right to the throne because he wanted Mme. Lupescu and life in Paris, and he abandoned that lady to get back what he had given up. King Michael is taken out of the picture and the regency shuts up shop. Conduct which would be deplorable in a cobbler is adorable in a king.

The war seemed to give the monarchical institution a paralyzing blow, but addiction to it elsewhere than in France, Germany and Russia is a prevalent form of human debasement and futility. There haven't been six kings of mettle and leading mentality in Europe in as many hundred years, but nevertheless the order prevails. The British took back the Stuarts. The French took back the Bourbons. The Hohenzollerns think they will go back into Germany. The Romanoffs do not wholly despair of Russia. The institution survives revolutions and the character and conduct of its figureheads. The best break it gives the subjects is to produce amiable mediocrities. It maintains caste, privilege and place without worth.

Aristocracy protects and fosters it because aristocracy knows that it hangs from the crown as a chandelier from the ceiling. If the throne were overturned the whole system of superiority without merit would fall.

The institution cannot hold its nose at Carol. He will not bring it a distinctive reproach. Many a throne has been notable for the most accomplished blackguard of his time in Europe.

Editorial of the Day

[New York World.]

With respect to the question that we raised the other day as to what became of the ancient custom of awarding magnificent belts to heavyeight boxing champions, Mr. Ned Brown comes along with some more information. The thing was abandoned, it seems, simply because it became too expensive, not in initial cost but in upkeep. John L. Sullivan, for example, who finally got possession of the most celebrated belt ever offered in this country, had a habit of hocking it whenever he got cold, or hungry, or thirsty; and kind hearted sportsmen, William Muldoon in particular, shocked at the spectacle of so sacred a relic reposing cheek by jowl with pistols, spyglasses, guitars and the other articles on display under the sign of the golden massé shot, were constantly put to the necessity of redeeming it. This ran into money, and in the end proved futile. For Sullivan resorted to the stratagem of prying the diamonds loose from their silver setting, hocking them separately, and then of hocking the setting. What became of the stones is not exactly clear, but the setting was eventually sent to the United States mint in Philadelphia and melted into 429 silver dollars, that being the end of one fine belt.

All of this suggests that the Ring Magazine may have been hasty in ordering the handsome gaud that it proposes to award to the winner of the Sharkey-Schmeling fight next month. Perhaps it would have been better to have reverted to the old Spartan idea of money, which was that, lest it corrupt the soul of its possessor, it should be made of iron. A belt made of this metal, suitably chased and engraved, would vividly symbolize the kind of fist that it takes to win a championship; at the same time we guarantee that it would appear in no hock shops, for your uncle, as it happens, cares nothing about sentiment, being interested only in intrinsic values. However, the modern champion does not seem to visit hock shops as often as his predecessors did, so we shall see what happens to the belt.

WILLIE WAS WAITING.

"Willie," said his mother, "your clothes are wet. You have been in the water again."

"Yes, mother," said Willie bravely. "I went in to save Charlie Jones."

"My noble darling!" cried his mother. "Did you jump in after him?"

"No, mother," replied Willie, "I jumped in first so as to be there when he fell in."—Vancouver Star.

"GAS ON THE STOMACH."

ABOUT six out of ten people with digestive disturbances of all sorts and kinds are belchers. Dr. Winklestein tells us that old people with high blood pressure are belchers, as a rule. It is general among people with heart disease. Nervous people, on-edge people, and neurotics are given to this indulgence. Gallstone cases and persons with infected gall bladders are apt to have attacks of belching, especially at night. Persons who have abdominal adhesions and who have periods of reverse peristalsis also have attacks of belching.

In none of these groups is fermentation within the stomach a factor. Probably gas never forms in the stomach in the sense we think, and, by the same token, taking charcoal tablets, stomach antiseptics, pepsins, and other remedies to prevent stomach fermentation is a waste of effort, not to mention money. The term "fermentation of the stomach" has disappeared from the vocabulary of physicians and about the only place where it still hangs on is on the labels and wrappers of patent medicines.

Most of the "gas on the stomach" is ordinary everyday air. We swallow much air with our food, especially if we eat rapidly. Babies do, and when they suffer we say they have colic. When a grown man follows the example of the baby he becomes uncomfortable, but for his complaint we have no good term—none comparable to "baby colic."

If the stomach is vaguely uncomfortable from any cause we are liable to swallow air, consciously or unconsciously, as a means of relief, and then, having blown up the stomach like a balloon, we belch it empty. When a man with a belching attack, due to an infected gall bladder, pleads with his doctor to give him something to "bring up the gas," the doctor might tell him to quit swallowing air and he would quit belching gas. However, that would not help with the real trouble. The man feels something "wrong" down there and he swallows air in his effort to get relief. The doctor knows that if he would stop swallowing air he would stop belching, but that would not relieve the real "something wrong."

And that brings us down to cases. The discovery that food rarely ferments in the stomach and that the use of antiseptics to prevent such fermentation is useless, merely means that a wrong explanation has been overthrown. The need to find what's wrong is still there. Belching is a sympton of something. It may be bad eating habits, nervousness, stomach ulcer, cancer, heart disease, gall bladder infection, or gallstones. The symptom calls for search for the cause. Swallowed air may cause intestinal symptoms in adults just as it may cause colic in babies. If there be no cause except nervousness there may be symptoms due alone to gas.

TREATING HAY FEVER.

Mrs. C. C. B. writes: I have lived with hay fever for thirty-one years and get along with it much better than in earlier years. By taking a tablespoonful of castor oil every night during the hay fever I escape the asthma part. Of course, castor oil will never be a popular preventive of asthma, and I must acknowledge that I let several seasons pass without using it after I heard of its beneficent qualities. I also found that for months afterwards my digestion was better than before taking it. I have never taken it for more than four weeks, although, of course, hay fever remains for longer than that, but that sees me through the worst of it.

MAY BE DUE TO EXPOSURE.

A. P. F. writes: Beginning with this season of the year, small blisters form under the skin on various parts of my fingers and hands. The blisters do not itch, but seem to spread, dry up, and form small scales at the edge of which new blisters form. Could you tell me what this might be and what I could do to remedy it? Is there anything I could include or omit in my daily diet to help this condition?

REPLY.

If you can find the cause and avoid it your trouble will be at an end.

Eruptions on the hand are generally due to some exposure incident to occupation. Therefore, your occupation is the first field in which to search for the cause. What is there in your work that is peculiar to this season?

Diet is not the probable cause in your case.

JUNIOR CLERKS' EXAM.

LANDLORD AFTER HIS MONEY.

Chicago, June 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I broke a lease this winter because I was out of work and couldn't pay my rent. I put my furniture in storage and also some things that were loaned to us.

Now I find that the landlord has put a judgment against my furniture and it's up for sale the middle of this month.

1. Can he sell my furniture and leave us without a thing in the world?

2. Has he a right to sell those things that were loaned to us and that really don't belong to us?

The furniture was bought and paid for by my wife, but it's in my name at the storage house. T. J. B.

1. It seems probable that your lease was so worded as to authorize the course that he has taken.

2. No. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PATROLMEN A-PLENTY.

Chicago, June 4.—[Friend of the People.]—Please advise when the next examination for the Chicago police is going to be held. K. S. B.

No examination is scheduled at this writing for patrolman, as we have a large list. However, we have placed this name on our mailing list for notification of the next examination called for this position.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WE HAD OUR SUSPICIONS AND NOW WE KNOW.

Har ass (har as) (F. har asser, cf. OF. harer to set (a dog) on). 1. To fatigue; to exhaust; to weary by importunity; to cause to endure excessive burdens or anxieties. 2. To harry, to lay waste; to raid as an enemy's country. Mil. To worry and impede by repeated attacks. From the works of the late Noah Webster. We have to put that all in, as nobody except the word-hounds who work crossword puzzles ever heard of Mr. Webster. Anyhow we're glad the treasury department told the customs boys not to harass the returning Gold Star mothers. Which is as it should be. They ought not to be harassed. But if special instruction to this effect is given regarding the Gold Star mothers then we cannot escape the conclusion that the customs inspectors are supposed to harass the ordinary traveler. We didn't know that the customs boys had specific instructions to fatigue us when we landed in New York, but now we see the lads aren't to blame. That's their job. That's why they've exhausted us and caused us to endure excessive burdens or anxieties. That's why they've worried us by repeated attacks. That's why they've harried our luggage and laid waste our new pajamas and our best laundered shirts. That's why they raided to the very bottom of our trunks and impeded our getting to a hotel by repeated attacks. In coming through the customs we're supposed to be harassed. And we'll tell the cockeyed world that the customs lads are true to their duty.

DON JUAN'S FAREWELL.

Now I shall smile, though there be dread in laughter;
Now I shall say: "Farewell, my love! Be gay,
Nor sorrow that you learn the rue which follows after
The tender muted note of lover's roundelay."

From eye to eye, from heart to heart inflowing,
We yield at dawn to contemplate . . . the dregs.
A lover may not know (since when had love foreknowing?)
How love vain surcease from the present begs.

And so, Farewell! Whatever is of Beauty
Wavered indeed one moment in your eyes.
Yet now is Beauty sped,—and elsewhere rests my duty:
And new heartbreak in love's vain enterprise.
STARSHAFT.

OLD ART BRISBANE, in discussing Mr. Einstein's w. k. theory, says: "In plainer words, how could you lead a cow unless you had a rope fastened to her?" That, Art, does not make the Einstein theory entirely clear, because you could lead a cow without having a rope fastened to her by grabbing the recalcitrant heifer by her horns and saying in a loud and racuous voice, "Kem on, gul darn yuh, er I'll kick yer liver out!" It is plain, Art, that you were not raised on a farm.

THE AUFA is the name of a twenty foot sloop in which a Portuguese sailor is going to voyage across the Atlantic. Aufa is probably short for aufadangerous.

OH, GEORGE, GEORGE, WHAT HAVE THEY DONE TO THEE!

Secretary Stimson quoted a piece from one of George Washington's messages, proving conclusively (he said!) that George had opposed the idea of giving secret documents relating to treaties to the Senate. Which ought to hold the Senate for a while, said Our Stimmie. But Hiram Johnson, the old meanie, hustled right over to the Library of Congress and asked to be shown George's speech. Heigho, he said, and what's this, George's speech is addressed to the House of Representatives and not to the Senate! How-come Secretary Stimson didn't notice that? And look a here, said Hiram, lookit what Washington said right after the part Secretary Stimson quoted! Lookit, will you! Washington says here as how while it's none of the House's business what goes on when treaties are being formed, the Senate is something else again. The Senate, of course, says George right here, has a right to all documents so they can pass on treaties with their eyes open, and all documents were turned over to the Senate when it was asked to ratify. Now it's funny, said Hiram, that Secretary Stimson stopped reading Washington's message just before he got that eyeful! Darned funny! Well, Hiram, Our Stimmie's "mistake" is funny all right, but no funnier than the way pro-treaty editorial writers didn't see your discoveries about the Washington message in the newspapers and still insist that Mr. Stimson in suppressing the secret documents on the London treaty is only following a precedent established by Washington. Louder, Hiram, louder and funnier!

Yea, It So Often Does.

Hughes and Miss Ely went to country high school together in Johnson County, Kansas, and their marriage will stop a romance begun between them there.

AN S. O. S. from a mysterious steamer in the Atlantic was declared to be the cause of the cutting off of ex-Senator Reed's broadcast Saturday night just as he reached the point where he gave a fine bawling out to the Radio trust. If this should meet the eyes of the said mysterious steamer we would like to beg it to please do its stuff and S. O. S. all over the place whenever the ambient air is being filled with the strains of "I'm in the Market for You." Hel-lup! Hel-lup! S. O. S.

LAGNIAPPE.

GOODNESS! See what happened to Furnifold! Thirty years senator and political czar of North Carolina, he rooted for the Republicans and against his own party at the last presidential election. And now Sen. Simmons has been licked by an obscure man to the tune of 60,000. It looks like the handwriting on the wall for a certain gentleman from another region also below Mason and Dixon's line. (Boy, page Thomas J. Heflin.)

OUR NEW Board of Trade building, forty stories high, opened yesterday, and the afternoon papers headlined their market news, "Stocks go to new low." Gosh, this is a contrary old world, what!

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 10, 1865.

CHICAGO.—"The conquering hero comes," stated THE TRIBUNE'S editorial column. "Gen. Grant arrives in Chicago at 12 o'clock today over the Michigan Southern railroad. Let his welcome be such as his preëminent services merit. What he has done seemed impossible."

CHICAGO.—"THE TRIBUNE completed the eighteenth year of its existence yesterday and enters today on the nineteenth volume. For the first two years it was printed on a sheet just half the size as that on which it is now issued, and struggled along with a few hundred subscribers. Its weekly circulation is now thirty times greater, for its triweekly edition has reached 10,000. It has grown in patronage and public favor more rapidly than any daily paper in the west, and bids fair to maintain the same rapid ratio of expansion for many years to come."

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Troops are beginning to arrive from the front to be mustered out.

NEW YORK. — Advices from San Salvador state that President Duenna has issued a decree declaring the entire republic in a state of siege and is establishing martial law. He also declares the rebellion unimportant in itself.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 10, 1900.

TIENTSIN, China. — Gen. Nieh's troops are now fighting the Boxers beyond Yang Tsun. He telegraphed the throne that the Boxers had surrounded his troops. He tried to disperse them with threats, but to no avail. He considers that unless the Boxers are put down there will be serious trouble between China and the foreign powers. Many converts were murdered at Feng Tai and eleven at Huang Tsun. Missionary work in north China has been crushed for many years to come.

NEW YORK.—Mayor Van Wyck, in sworn testimony before Magistrate Gaynor of the Supreme court of Brooklyn, demonstrated that he was a true follower of Richard Croker and Tammany in taking advantage of "everything good" that came his way. He confessed, in proceeding under the anti-Tweed charter, that he now owns 4,200 shares of the stock of the American Ice company, known as the ice trust, and that a large part of it is not paid for.

CHICAGO.—The gambling and pool hall fraternity is preparing to reap a harvest of dollars. New pool halls have been opened in the downtown district and are in full blast. More are to be opened as soon as the word is given that the time is ripe, speculation placing this on the date Mayor Harrison leaves for his summer vacation.

CHICAGO. — Lincoln park, during the first five months of 1900, has shown the blighting effect of politics, not only in frequent changes in the personnel of the board but also in the financial administration of its affairs. The west park system has given forth evidence of a similar nature. The pay rolls in both instances have been increased and taxpayers complain that the improvements do not correspond to the amount of money spent.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 10, 1920.

CHICAGO.—Early this morning the subcommittee appointed to draft the Republican national platform at the convention adjourned after an all day session had failed to reach an agreement on the league of nations plank. The committee was facing threats of a bolt in the party by the Johnson-Borah group of irreconcilables. These threats had followed the rejection by the "reservationist" group, headed by W. Murray Crane, of a compromise plank on the league. While it became increasingly evident that eastern leaders are maneuvering for the nomination of Senator Knox of Pennsylvania, developments in the factional conferences foreshadowed a mighty struggle between Gen. Wood and Gov. Lowden. Senator Johnson gave notice that he would take measures of reprisal against any delegates pledged to his support by the results of primary elections who did not "stick." He declared his opponents were using means of every kind to take away the allegiance of some of his supporters.

BIRD SANCTUARIES.

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 26.—So many people seem to think that all you need to do to have a bird sanctuary is to buy the desired land, put up "no trespass" signs, and the project is completed. If this were done and left for a few years all you would find would be plenty of vermin and to your surprise very few birds. To have a successful sanctuary will mean months of hard labor fighting the foes of birds and building the necessary traps. It will certainly be worth your effort in a few years to see thousands of wild ducks come to you for protection, feed and rest, and know they are safe from their enemies. In time you will have as your guests the Canada geese, which make the long V's in the air, and are continually honking while in flight. These fellows are very wary, but soon learn where they are safe. The ring neck pheasants, quail, and grouse will come to you if you have the proper facilities for their care. You can look for most every variety of song birds if the proper housing and feeding are provided for them.

If you care for just the upland game and song birds, your best location would be land where a small creek wound its way with an abundance of tall marsh grass along its edge. In back of this there should be small thickets and a few large trees. Pheasants do not seem to care for large wooded coverings. You will generally find them in the tall grass near a stream. There should be hundreds of brush piles on the high land. These make a very good hiding place and in the winter protection from the cold winds. You will find the quail will use these hiding places and are protected from their enemies.

If you prefer both upland birds and waterfowl, you have a task very different to undertake. In this case, a small lake anywhere from thirty acres on up would be very suitable. If this has running water through it, so much the better. But you should consult your state laws in regard to fencing through these streams. There should be plenty of cat tails, grass, and such feeds as the wild fowl will relish. This lake should not be too deep. A shallow, grassy lake is much more desirable. If there is marshy ground, small islands, and swales near by they will make wonderful feeding and breeding grounds for the birds. Should there be woods on any side of the lake be sure and include them with your land. You must have windbreaks to protect from the cold winds. You will be extremely lucky if by chance there is timbered land lying at the north, west, or southwest of your lake. In most cases the trees will be close together and it would be advisable to have an expert from your state college look them over and mark those which should be cut down. White oaks are valuable. Do not destroy fruit trees.

Meadows are very valuable, especially the early grasses. I know of one lake where the Canada geese stay and they will graze up to within five rods of the farmer's house. Of course they are never molested, but still they are the wild geese and are there by the thousands.

Bird sanctuary work is in its infancy and if you bird lovers who are financially able will build these sanctuaries with an eye toward the future, it will not be many years until the game of America will be restored and you will create a monument which will be much more than a marker in the cemetery. Otherwise our children will only know of our wonderful birds through the books they read.

WHY MEXICANS EMIGRATE.

Roswell, N. M., June 1.—The controversy excited by the proposal to place Mexico on the quota has neglected an important phase of the problem. Before Woodrow Wilson employed the American army and navy to force a Socialist régime upon Mexico, few Mexicans came to the United States, because Mexicans abandon the fatherland only under the pressure of dire necessity.

Since 1914 Socialist misrule has so disorganized, disrupted, and disjointed every enterprise except political murder and blackmail that countless thousands have been driven to seek a livelihood in the United States.

The itch of certain American clericals to alter the religious complexion of Mexico has resulted in an alliance between them and the gunmen and gangsters in Mexico who, through clerical pressure upon Washington, enjoy the favor and protection of American politicians. The consequence is a growing hostility in Latin America against Americans through fear that the fate of Mexico is prophetic of a like dark future for other Latin Americans.

As Washington is responsible for the conditions compelling Mexicans to seek refuge in the United States, any proposal to restrict Mexican immigration is particularly shameful, cowardly, and contemptible.

THE TENNIS PLAYING SEX.

Chicago, June 5. — In the Vox Pop column of June 3 there was an article by "A Girl" on tennis court vandals. The three sentences she wrote were clearly indicative of her intelligence, the one in particular in which she stated she could imagine boys playing on a muddy court and ruining it, but gave the girls credit for better sense.

It is a wonder that there are any courts left at all since the nit-wit females have infested them. They not only play on them when they are muddy, but they take forever to play a set when the courts are playable. While waiting at various courts to get a chance to play I've watched the fair sex go tripping about between the tapes with absolutely no thought on the game and then stand and giggle when the ball went out of bounds or was missed completely, which happened habitually.

There are some girls who can handle a racquet to perfection, but they are the exception and not the rule. Three cheers for the girls; may there always be plenty of them, but not on the tennis courts!

INDIRECT BY MAIL.

Chicago, June 6.—Can you tell me why business houses insist on sending literature through the mails without checking up their patrons' addresses from time to time? I bought a dress on the west side about two years ago [I live north] and since then have moved, but once a month I get a card advertising the wonderful bargains that are on sale. This is lots of work for the postoffice employés to redirect these cards and I doubt if I'll every buy anything in that store again. I have notified them of change of address, but all mail still goes to old address.

YOUNKER'S OPENS NEW FOOD SHOP

Younker's Inc. CHICAGO

A New Store and, We Trust, a Helpful One Is Making Its Initial Bow to the Chicago Public Today.

The management with an accumulated experience of years in merchandising hopes to indicate to the public by the best business policies and methods a real value to the food buyers of Chicago.

The name of Younker has been known by hundreds of thousands of people in the middle west for a business period of nearly seventy-five years. The department store of this name originated in a small town in Iowa and is today probably the largest and most influential business enterprise in that state.

The leader of this new store was for many years the executive head of that business. We tell this story only to evidence that this new store is a serious business undertaking with a serious business purpose, and is in no way haphazard or experimental.

The aim of this store will be to sell food of quality and character at a price that anyone can afford to pay. Besides, we maintain that the person of limited income as well as those who can satisfy their taste at any price will find this store's merchandise of a sort to suit both purse and appetite.

This store is in no sense a neighborhood store excepting as it places its excellent facilities within easy and convenient reach of people in this neighborhood.

THIS IS A STORE FOR ALL CHICAGO. It is a loop store—situated in Chicago's new and fast growing business center. You will like this store and enjoy shopping here. Drive your car to our door and take time to do your shopping.

Food Is Not a Detail

It is a thing of prime importance. Your good health—good disposition—and the chance to live your allotted time depend upon your food.

Some people will have good food no matter what the cost. Others will pay willingly for anything except food. There is usually so little difference between the cost of absolutely good food and that on which you take a chance that it isn't worth considering.

This store will specialize on good food, and, what is equally interesting, it will also specialize on prices that are as attractive to the shopper with a limited income as to the one to whom price is a secondary consideration.

This store is at your very threshold—as near as the receiver on your telephone—why not utilize its many advantages?

Signed

A. Younker.

STORE'S EFFORTS MAKE SHOPPING AGREEABLE TASK

Woman President of Younker's Outlines Service Career.

By Miss A. G. Crane.

After a lapse of some time, I am very glad to be again in touch with the food buying public of Chicago. The associations and friends I have made in former years have always been a pleasant memory.

We are establishing a new store that is the result of many years of intensive experience with the food buying public. Everything we have learned that may be of advantage to the shopper we have endeavored to incorporate in this store. The merchandise, which, of course, is of prime importance, has been most carefully selected and will be sold at a price that we know is as low as any store could possibly sell it.

We have surrounded ourselves with a most intelligent organization and I believe you will find in our sales force and in our department people those qualities of courtesy and helpfulness which are always a help to the shopper. Our telephone sales people have been thoroughly drilled and have a full acquaintance with the stock in the entire store, and they have been cautioned with such exactitude as to their relations with their customers that I believe you will find them in every instance reliable in their statements and helpful in suggestion and information.

May I add a word to persuade you to visit this store regularly. It is not the ordinary kind of a grocery store. It is full of interest and is like a great Food Exposition. I know you will enjoy personally shopping here as much as you possibly could in any other store.

NEW INSULATED TRUCKS GUARD FOOD'S CONDITION

Rapid Delivery Service with City-Wide System.

There has been a rapid delivery system organized for the purpose of bringing our merchandise to people who will want the foods of this store.

Besides city deliveries we will make trips to the North Shore suburbs and also to the west as far as Oak Park. These delivery cars are insulated so as to protect foods from either excessive heat or excessive cold, and you are assured of getting whatever you buy in good order and promptly.

We are prepared to make shipments to any part of the United States or to any section of the civilized world, England, France, Germany, in fact, anywhere reached by transportation. Packages will be securely wrapped so as to reach their destination in good order.

Use the telephone as often as you please. Use it for information regarding foods or to place an order. Use it by calling our adjustment department whenever you should find us remiss in anything in any part of your relation with this store. Use it to suggest anything that you think this store ought to do to make it more useful to the public. We want not alone your acquaintance but your friendship and will appreciate any consideration shown us. The telephone is Whitehall 5300.

"Black Thorn Farm" Is Mark of Fine Meats

How beef, mutton, pork, and selection of Black Thorn Farm brand they are converted into steaks, chops, bacon, or broilers, is an important element entering into the personal selection of Black Thorn Farm brand meats sold at Younker's. Only by careful and scientific feeding may meats be produced which are succulent, tasteful, and nutritious.

Thus, only milkfed veal, Iowa or Wisconsin (grain fed) pork and specially fed beef are found in the spacious meat shop, here.

Poultry (Poule D'or—golden chicks) under this label represents the highest quality to be had—these are personally inspected, all hand picked and selected from thousands of others—daily shipments have been arranged for, so you may rely upon selections from a new lot every day or two.

A selectively developed cure for bacon and hams—and the old time, southern style of pork sausage and corned beef—these are particular attractions in a shop of choicest meats and fish.

PERFUME, TOILET GOODS DEPT'M'T IN NEW STORE

By Harriet E. Montgomery.

Madame's problem in perfume, face powder, and rouge is a considerable one. For that very reason, Younker's, Inc., have installed a special department devoted to perfumes, powders, rouges, and other toiletries for the convenience of the shopper purchasing her staple foodstuffs. Do you realize, madame, that there is a separate and distinct perfume for each and every one of your separate moods? Do you know that there is a separate and distinct perfume used on formal occasions that is not at all identical with the scent to be used for casual occasions? There is even a separate perfume for sportswear.

The discriminating woman aware of her obligation to be always lovely, consults not only her own good taste but that of her perfumer, who must, perforce, be long experienced in the scientific study of toilet requisites, their use, action, and results in lending subtle charm to the person. Are you tall and a brunette; Or are you tiny and a blonde? Perhaps you are both tall and a blonde. There is a precise necessity in perfume for whatever your particular combination of stature, coloring, and complexion!

When necessity arises, we even blend perfumes for combination types. There are correct shades of powder and rouge for various occasions, even for use in the various times of day. These will be recommended to you in the toiletries section of Younker's, by an experienced person.

And as for the famous French, English, and Russian imports, we have them all here. Any of the well known brands, and any of those that are less easy of access will readily be found on our shelves.

I have had the privilege of advising thousands of women during the many years I have spent in this work, including famous stars of the stage, and I now hope to be of service to very many of Chicago's beautiful women.

Officers and Executives of NewFoodShop

The organized personnel and methods of Younker's, Inc., was developed and evolved through long years of experience. Many individuals in this organization have been with Mr. Younker for many years. The executive personnel consists of the following: Miss A. G. Crane, president and general manager; Edward Younker, vice president and treasurer; W. S. Donahue, secretary, and Aaron Younker, chairman of the board.

Each separate department in the store is in charge of an expert of long experience in his line of work, who is responsible not only for the efficient conduct of the department, but for seeing to it that each and every item that passes through the hands of his department into the possession of Chicago buyers is of full and exact quality as represented by its label and its advertising. This is a service which very few food stores in the country renders to their buying public; that of a quality check on every individual item which the store sells.

FRESH CUT FLOWERS ARE RECEIVED DAILY

A flower for your lapel—or a great bower of roses for a bride—these are equally available at Younker's. Indeed, a landscape expert with years of experience will lay out a whole estate in bloom or evergreen, velvety lawn or rustic wilderness.

Fresh flowers received each day may grace a church of wedding; or a thoughtful beau may stop on his way to the theater with Her, for a dewey, sweet-scented corsage.

The flowers will vie with the nearby section devoted to delightful gift baskets and packages.

Noon Day Luncheons at Marble Soda Bar

There can be only one kind of "finest soda fountain service." Ours will be that service where, on really comfortable seats, one may be served, at moderate price, confections prepared from freshest and most toothsome fruits; syrups and ice cream; where sandwiches and lunches are running over with flavor and are sweet with fresh bread and choicest "fillings."

The spacious soda bar at Younker's offers those things which are nutritious and satisfying, as well as entrancing to the taste, are the offerings on the complete menu card.

A hot plate luncheon, served at scarce more than the cost of a good ice cream soda, is dietetically complete, rounded out with every food element necessary to keep bodies active and minds bright and keen, without the heaviness and dullness of mere bulk.

Of All That is Good in Foods, Younker's Affords the Best

NEW "CHESHIRE CHEESE" OPENS ON NEAR NORTH SIDE!

By the Boulevardier.

In the new Younker's store, situated at Chicago avenue and Cass street, there will be a restaurant known as Black Thorn tavern, destined, we believe, to be as well known to Chicagoans as Zelli's is to Paris, Cheshire to London, or the New Amsterdam to New York. In other words, it is to be a dining place of atmosphere. Younker's is more interested in having this restaurant known as a place where Chicago's famous personalities will gather, than in doing a large volume of business.

The style of the restaurant is early Elizabethan; the mode that prevailed in England during the golden age of her writers and artists. It was in such a tavern that Ben Johnson and his cronies held their famous discussions. Shakespeare composed many of his plays after he had pushed away the dishes of a generous English repast. In such a place Marlowe and Sheridan made history for English letters.

This restaurant is modeled after an old tavern in Dublin where Johathan Swift wrote his best work during his political exile from England.

We are sure you are going to like the Black Thorn tavern. It is a handy place to drop in after the theater. Will be open every night until 2 o'clock.

FOOD GRADES AS DISTINCT AS IN FABRICS

Why Not Give It at Least the Attention Given the Purchase of a Handkerchief.

Food is food to many people, but to the discriminating there is a wide difference in the various grades of food.

For instance, canned fruits come in three grades: Fancy, which is the best, then Choice and the last Standard.

And when you understand this you can easily realize that there may be a justifiable difference in the price of foods.

Due to the difference in temperature, weather conditions, and other crop variants, a canning factory will not receive, day in and day out, exactly the same grade of fruits or vegetables for their use. The best they receive are labed "fancy," and the other grades accordingly.

Then, again, different sections of a fruit-bearing country produce better or worse varieties of fruit. The broker in fruit products needs excellent judgment and long experience to enable him to buy for his clientele the best that is obtainable, and to see to it that the product reaches them without the slightest misrepresentation as to its quality.

Butter, on the other hand, is graded by scoring. Butter scorers give it an arbitrary figure of say from eighty-nine units for edible butter at the lowest to a range of ninety-three to ninety-six at the highest. The merchants' judgment and experience can tell by various simple tests whether the butter he has purchased at the top score fully measures up to its label. The Younker store, whenever there is any doubt of the exact quality of a shipment of butter, sends samples of the shipment to two experts, who quickly report the exact quality of the product.

Such service in the matter of foods is your protection and insurance that you are getting what you pay for. The American public are an intelligent and discriminating people. The Younker store believes that success will attend a careful merchant who sees to it that his clientele gets exactly what is represented to them.

SHOPPING EASY IN SUN-PARLOR OF THE LOOP

Parking Facilities Adjacent.

Not the least of the advantages possessed by this wonderful new store is its easy and convenient accessibility by the automobile shopper. It is within five minutes' drive from the center of State street. By following State street over the river and turning east at Chicago avenue, one would be surprised how quickly the trip is made.

Parking facilities are convenient and you can spend as much time as you please enjoying the many varied products that are gathered here for you to see. Asia, Africa, China, Japan, besides all of the European countries, have sent their edible products to this store, to say nothing of the many beautiful and delightful foods from our own country which you rarely see on account of the impersonal relation of the general food buyer and the store that supplies him.

Whatever you do, make a trip to the Younker store today or as soon as you can find it convenient.

ECONOMY AND QUALITY IN CITY WIDE SERVICE

FOOD IS EXALTED

Its Character Is Guide to One's Social Index.

The kind of food you would be glad to serve to your friends, you may have perpetually on your own table—and have it there economically.

Food has a respectability, an atmosphere. Its character, on your daily board, is an index of your attitude toward life.

Good food—and only the best should be called "good"—betokens thoughtfulness toward others, and toward yourself. It displays a knowledge of those things which make for well being. And it provides an intellectual stimulus.

More than snowy damask, gleaming silver, or crystal glassware, is required for a dinner which is to mark a social standing which is founded on appreciation of the amenities of life. Without pleasing, palatable, choice food, the gorgeous background of perfectly appointed service seems a hollow mockery. One will not dust off a piano with an orchid.

But where good food is, there is social grace. There is warm friendship. There is an atmosphere of physical and mental well being—though the service be of humblest china.

The thoughtless often exercise greatest care and taste in purchasing all their needs in life—except, alas, food. Yet food is the mainspring of all their activities—the one standard by which their friends will judge their proper position in life.

On only the best food may any one build mental and physical standing—whether he be one of those whose financial position permits him to choose what he will, or one or more modest means. Yet either may as readily enjoy good food as the other—and as economically.

tions here instead of doing something helpful or constructive for their country."

He continued this line of thought by asserting there were indications a time was coming when the most fertile brains of the country would not be engaged in attempts to strangle big business, but in devising sane ways to control and regulate large industries that supply the wants of the people.

Sterling Tells Downstate Attitude.

Lieut. Gov. Sterling asserted that there was no basis for the prevalent belief that downstate Illinois is antagonistic to Chicago and its business interests, and added his opinion that the general assembly will pass taxing bills to give the city relief from its financial pressure.

"Chicago ought to quit knocking itself," he said. "It is not half so bad a place as most of the cities that are doing the outside knocking. Now and then an innocent man is killed, as happened today on the streets. But the good things outweigh the bad here and I am glad to be here as the representative of Gov. Emmerson and tell you that it was downstate senators who prevented you gentlemen from having to move the Board of Trade outside Illinois several years ago."

Commissioner Wolfe pictured Chicago as the center of a great inland empire which will in future support a population many times as great as the one now living here.

Other notables at the speakers' table who were introduced by Toastmaster Bunnell, were Henry A. Rumsey, chairman of the Board of Trade building committee; Col. John A. Holabird, of the firm of Holabird & Root, architects in charge of it; John C. Hegeman, of Hegeman-Harris, builders, and Albert H. Wetten. Charles Marshall, tenor of the Chicago Civic Opera company, and the Chicago theater symphony orchestra gave the musical program. Speeches and music were broadcast on a nationwide radio hookup.

Building Opened to Public.

The new Board of Trade building was thrown open to the public during the morning. The exercises began with an assembly of the membership of the board in the temporary quarters occupied during the last eighteen months, and a parade, led by the drum and bugle corps of the Board of Trade post of the American Legion.

Arrived at the new structure, the members proceeded to the trading floor of the fourth story level. There Mr. Bunnell accepted from the lieutenant governor replicas of the five flags that were carried into civil war battles by the Board of Trade batteries.

At 10 o'clock President Hoover in Washington touched a golden telegraph key and gave the signal that set trading in the new teakwood pits in motion. It had been announced that the floor would be cleared of visitors to let the traders work unhampered, but this was too difficult, and the unusual spectacle of traders shouting bids and offers in the center of the pits while an interested audience of men and women clung to the upper steps throughout the day.

The desire to inspect the new building was so strong among the people of Chicago and the visitors who had heard of the magnificence of the new structure that there were at times during the afternoon lineups on the streets. Even the elevator facilities were overtaxed and thousands of volunteer inspectors climbed four flights of stairs to reach the trading level.

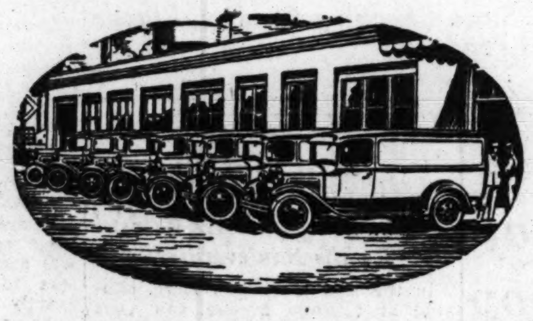
RECALL 1865 BANQUET

Leaders in finance and industry sat about a banquet table in the Stevens hotel last night celebrating the opening of the new home of the Board of Trade. On Aug. 28, 1865, another inaugural banquet had been held in what was then the Board of Trade's new home. A survey of the menu of the 1865 banquet indicates that the early traders feasted as lavishly as the present board, in fact that their appetites were, if anything, less delicate.

The game course, for instance, consisted of roast prairie chicken, roast wood ducks, broiled teal ducks, broiled prairie chicken, roast mallard ducks, and broiled snipe. All of the game was caught in the wooded districts about Chicago, according to Tryggve A. Siqueland, vice president of the Foreman State National bank, who has temporary possession of an original menu.

SERVING MANY BUSINESSES

Experience of large fleet owners reveals the unusual reliability and economy of the new Ford



A SIGNIFICANT TRIBUTE to the value of the new Ford is found in its increasing use by Federal, state and city governments and by large industrial companies which keep careful day-by-day cost records. In most instances, the Ford has been chosen only after exhaustive tests of every factor that contributes to good performance—speed, power, safety, comfort, low cost of operation and up-keep, reliability and long life.

Prominent among the companies using the Ford are the Associated Companies of the Bell System, Armour and Company, The Borden Company, Continental Baking Corporation, Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, General Electric Company, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Kellogg Company, Knickerbocker Ice Company, Morton Salt Company, Pillsbury Flour Mills Company, The Procter & Gamble Company, and Swift & Company.

Each of these companies uses a large number of Ford cars and trucks. The Associated Companies of the Bell System use more than eight thousand.

Modern business moves at a fast pace and it needs the Ford. Daily, in countless ways and places, it helps to speed the production and delivery of the world's goods and extend the useful service of men and companies.

Constant, steady operation over many thousands of miles emphasizes the advantages of the sound design of the Ford car, its high quality of materials, and accuracy in manufacturing. Beneath its graceful lines and beautiful colors there is a high degree of mechanical excellence.

An example of the value built into the Ford is the use of more than twenty ball and roller bearings. They are hidden within the car and you may never see them. Yet they play an important part in satisfactory, economical performance. Their function is similar to the jewels of a fine watch.

Throughout the Ford chassis, a ball or roller bearing is used at every place where it is needed to reduce friction and wear and give smooth, reliable mechanical operation.

At many points, as on the transmission counter-shaft, clutch release, fan and pump shaft, and front drive shaft, these ball and roller bearings are used where less costly types of bearings might be considered adequate.

Additional instances of the high quality built into the Ford are the extensive use of steel forgings, fully enclosed four-wheel brakes, Rustless Steel, four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves, torque-tube drive, three-quarter floating rear axle, and the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield.

The Ford policy has always been to use the best possible material for each part and then, through large production, give it to the public at low cost.

BUSINESS IN PHILADELPHIA

BUYS AND SELLS THROUGH

The Evening Bulletin

PHILADELPHIA—unusual in the variety and volume of her manufactured products, distinctive as the City of Homes and home owners, noted as a stable, sales-producing market—is unique also in the history of her newspapers.

For thirty-five years, The Evening Bulletin, under its present owner, has recorded the day's news for Philadelphians. Building upon the firm foundation of the confidence and respect of business, of the home.

A program of sane publishing which avoided sensationalism, which ignored forced circulation, obtained by premiums and circulation contests.

The history of that third-century of newspaper-making is the story of Philadelphia, itself,

Lower your distribution costs by getting close to your consumers. Philadelphia offers, not only her own billion-dollar sales potential, but also the quickest and cheapest means of reaching thirty million people. Distribute from Philadelphia. And sell and advertise your product here, where one newspaper reaches nearly every home. (View taken at The Philadelphia & Reading Freight Terminal at Port Richmond.)

572,600 homes in city and suburbs; a daily circulation of 555,711 copies, almost entirely concentrated in this area. More than double the circulation of any other Philadelphia evening newspaper, almost as large as all morning papers combined.

A coverage so thorough, a confidence so justified by results, that Philadelphia Business buys and sells through this newspaper to an unparalleled extent.

More retail advertisements appear in The Bulletin, in six days, than in all other Philadelphia newspapers, morning and evening, daily and Sunday, combined.

And more national advertising lineage appears in The Evening Bulletin, in six days, than in any Philadelphia seven-day newspaper.

Today, when markets are being selected for the net profits they can produce, when waste must be pruned from advertising costs, Philadelphia, with its billion-dollar sales, and The Bulletin, reaching nearly every home, offer the solution to economical and profitable marketing.

CHINA REFUSES TO HELP RUSSIA CRUSH REVOLT

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, June 9.—Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang and the Chinese administration of north Manchuria, according to a Harbin telegram tonight, have formally refused the request of the soviet government to be allowed to transport troops over the Chinese Eastern railway for the purpose of suppressing peasant farmer revolts in eastern Siberia.

Train Is Blown Up.

The soviets wanted to pass through China instead of using the all-Russian railway paralleling the Amur river due to the danger of peasant gangs blowing up trains.

One train was blown up between Kabarovsk and the station of Botchkarivo. Several were killed and many were wounded. Another train was derailed at the Kundar station due to the removal of rails.

Fierce Battle Rages.

HANKOW, June 9.—(AP)—While continuing its month old fighting to hold back the northern rebel invaders who crossed the Yellow river into Honan and Shantung provinces, the Nationalist government today was fighting a defensive battle against the southern rebels at Yochow, Hunan province.

The Kwangsi province rebels, reinforced by thousands of bandits, were reported to have charged 50,000 strong against 40,000 Nationalists intrenched south of Yochow.

The southerners' drive is directed toward Hankow, Wuchang, and Hanyang, important sister cities of central China, 175 miles down the Yangtse river from Yochow.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., June 9.—Toronto today became the largest oasis on the North American continent. From the United States the first 100,000 Shriners and their guests entered the city from all directions and easily located the liquor stores provided by the government. They are here for the international convention of the Ancient and Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

And yet tonight, with liquor of every kind and quality legally available, there was no sign of debauchery and no evidence of drunkenness.

Visitors and citizens regarded the first day as a triumph for the government control system. Shriner after Shriner spoke enthusiastically of the Ontario liquor laws.

Law Obeyed to Letter.

Police officials stated that the Shriners had obeyed to the letter the restrictions forbidding drinking in public places. In the first exuberance of getting legal liquor, bottles were waved by groups in impromptu parades, but the seals were still intact.

Policemen directed visitors to the liquor stores, and told them where they could buy permits.

Medinah temple of Chicago, with its huge band, arrived this morning after a pre-convention tour, which took them to the ancient city and wine taverns of Quebec.

Pastor Finds Toronto Dry.

Medinah Temple's Shriners are quartered just outside the Canadian National exhibition grounds, headquarters for the Shrine frolics. The largest exhibition plant on the continent is converted into Arabic gardens for the festival. A warning was issued by Shrine officials tonight that the Shrine would not tolerate any attempt to smuggle Canadian government liquor back to the United States.

The Rev. J. C. MacKenzie of Boston, in a statement tonight, expressed the hope that the United States would become as dry as Toronto. At the height of the Shrine festivities, he said, Toronto was still dryer than large American cities.

Despite drastic regulations to handle traffic the whole downtown district was badly congested today and new regulations will be issued tomorrow. Residents have been asked to leave their cars at home and whole streets may be closed to motor cars.

Shriners joined this morning in paying tribute to Canada's war dead. Following a parade to the cenotaph wreaths were laid and volleys fired. This was the outstanding ceremony of the day. The convention itself does not start until tomorrow.

Corns All Gone Big and Small Radox Took Them Roots and All

In England they have a sensible, easy way to get rid of corns in just a few days—a joyous, invigorating foot bath every night for 3 or 4 nights—then lift out the corn—out to stay.

Ask any drug store for a package of Radox, first time on sale in America. Hard corns—soft corns—callouses—hard skin on heels and toes—it's all the same to Radox—you'll have new, strong, flawless feet a week from now—ask for Radox and enjoy walking—dancing.

ADVERSE REPORT ON BILL HITTING AT INJUNCTIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.] — Anti-injunction legislation reached the floor of the senate today, but with an adverse recommendation from the committee on judiciary. Senator George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.], chairman of the committee, will submit a minority report favoring the bill. He announced that he would seek to obtain an agreement for a vote on the bill on a definite date soon after congress reconvenes in December. Senator Frederick Steiwer, [Rep., Ore.], who will submit the majority report, has no objection to such an agreement. The American Federation of Labor, it was announced, will endeavor to force action by the senate at the earliest possible date.

The bill reported adversely by the senate committee is a substitute for the original Shipstead bill framed by a subcommittee composed of Senators Norris, John J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.], and Thomas J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.]. It restricts the issuance of injunctions by federal courts in labor cases.

Until June 20 was allowed to file the majority and minority reports.

Attorney General William D. Mitchell had declined the judiciary committee's request for an opinion as to legal phases of the bill, citing precedents under which he is authorized to supply legal opinions to the President and heads of departments but not to either house of congress.

Attorney General Mitchell had also been asked as to the possible effect of the bill upon padlock cases under the Volstead act.

HER 'DEAD' HUBBY POPS UP TO HALT LOVE BALM SUIT

Fremont, Neb., June 9.—(AP)—Fists flew in District court here today when an allegedly "dead husband" was dramatically produced in the midst of a breach of promise suit.

The final outcome of the battle was an admission from Mrs. Eva Rouzee, 39, that her sut, which sought to collect $35,000 from James M. Rice, 37, filling station owner, was groundless.

Charles G. Rouzee of Kansas City, the supposedly "dead" husband, was produced in court after Mrs. Rouzee had testified he was dead.

Her son, Czerney, swung his fist several times at his father before court attachés hustled Czerney off to jail. Mrs. Rouzee fainted and turmoil swept the court room.

Dr. Hedblom Improves in Fight Against Infection

Dr. Carl A. Hedblom, well known surgeon, who underwent an operation Saturday after a serious infection developed in his right arm from the prick of a fine needle in his index finger a week previous, was reported to be in an improved condition yesterday in St. Luke's hospital. It is believed he will recover.

Army, navy, and civilian planes will gather at Elgin today to take part in the dedication of Elgin's new municipal airport. The dedication address will be made by Rear Admiral Walter S. Crosley, commandant of the Great Lakes naval training station, following an address of welcome by Mayor Earle R. Riley of Elgin.

A squadron of planes from the Great Lakes station and two squadrons of army planes, one from Selfridge Field, Mich., and another from Dayton, O., will perform during the afternoon's program. Pilots from Wright field will demonstrate night flying. There will also be parachute jumping and a demonstration of glider flying by John Livingstone, winner of the 1930 national reliability tour.

The body of Earl Shutes, commercial artist of 433 Wrightwood avenue, one of three young men drowned when Shutes' sailboat Wagtail sank in Lake Michigan off Waveland avenue on May 24, rose to the surface off North avenue yesterday afternoon and was recovered by a coast guard crew. The bodies of his companions, Lloyd C. Bishop, commercial artist of 6006 Kenwood avenue, and Joseph Raioum, 19 years old, 611 North Kedzie avenue, are still missing.

Talk about Opportunity... get into MEXICO!

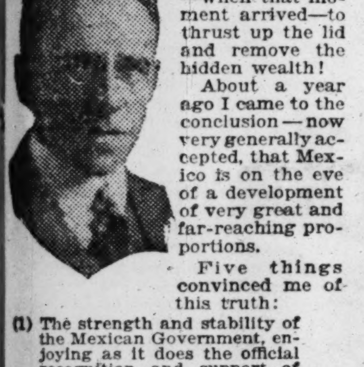
The tree from which this illustration was made was photographed on the Shively properties. It is a Caoba—the well-known true mahogany of commerce. This particular tree is 8½ feet in diameter and 60 feet to the first branch. Experienced lumbermen estimate that lumber from the Caoba trees on the Shively properties, laid down at New York, would cost not more than $78 per thousand feet, board measure. The quoted wholesale price at New York is $200.

GET in SOON and GET in RIGHT!

by N. O. SHIVELY



IF YOU were shown a treasure-chest (Mexico, by the way, is known as the Treasure Chest of the World), and were told that when the moment came you could open it and take out a fortune . . .

. . . You would be mighty prompt, I believe—when that moment arrived—to thrust up the lid and remove the hidden wealth!

About a year ago I came to the conclusion—now very generally accepted, that Mexico is on the eve of a development of very great and far-reaching proportions.

Five things convinced me of this truth:

(1) The strength and stability of the Mexican Government, enjoying as it does the official recognition and support of the United States;
(2) The character of the men who control her destinies—I refer not merely to President Rubio, powerful and fearless leader, but also to the many capable and aggressive men who comprise his administration;
(3) Mexico's stupendous natural resources, as yet virtually untapped — her forests of precious hardwoods, her minerals, and her tropical land so eminently suited to the raising of bananas, pineapples, coffee, citrus fruits, cocoa beans and many other tropical products;
(4) The realization on the part of the Mexican Government that foreign capital is absolutely needed to promote and develop these resources;
(5) The tremendous sums recently poured into Mexico by American investors (a total now in excess of one and one half BILLION dollars), in anticipation of the speedy development of the last remaining treasure-land on the American continent—and the richest of them all!

On the basis of these facts, I acquired control of more than 100,000 acres of the choicest timber and fruit lands in tropical Mexico.

By "tropical Mexico," I refer to a strip of land 200 miles wide and 150 miles long lying 300 miles south of Mexico City, and in the heart of the tropics . . .

—Where virgin forests of precious hardwoods—trees ranging from 14 inches to 12 feet in diameter; mahogany, native oaks, walnut, maple, birch, yellow poplar and dozens of others—rise from a soil of unbelievable richness . . . trees whose lowest branches are sixty feet above the ground and whose timber cuts better than 10,000 feet, board measure, to the acre . . .

—Where the soil is from ten to thirty feet in depth . . . where ninety per cent of all the fruits in the world and most of the cereals can be grown in luxuriant abundance . . .

—Where bananas, pineapples, coffee, oranges, grapefruit, limes, cocoanuts, cocoa-beans can be planted without even clearing off the stumps, and with every assurance of immensely profitable crops . . . .

—Where railroads and modern highways and navigable rivers invite American investors to explore this land and to remove the wealth so easily developed from its golden soil and to carry it away to American and European markets.

The Richest Land in All Mexico

Before investing my own money to acquire control of 100,000 acres of the choicest virgin forests and fruit lands in tropical Mexico, I spent many weeks in Mexico City, talked with scores of Government officials, thoroughly investigated their attitude toward American capital.

I selected land that was level, away from the mountains, where the timber could be readily removed and where the soil could be easily cultivated.

I selected a location where the most profitable of all tropical products—such as bananas, pineapples, coffee—could be grown abundantly and at the least expense.

My attorneys in Mexico City traced every title to its source, proved it absolutely clear and free of all incumbrances.

My forest engineers cruised every section of the land I finally acquired, estimated the proportion of each variety and the number and size of the trees. They furnished me a detailed report, with specific plans for mill locations and mill layout for the marketing of timber. In this report they place a conservative valuation on the standing timber alone at $150 an acre.

But most important of all, I established to my own satisfaction the fact that in offering this property to American investors on the basis which I shall presently describe I could make them beneficiaries—to an extraordinary degree—in one of the most profitable regions on the American continent.

An Opportunity to Reap Extraordinary Profits

Let me explain to you now just why I am offering this property at all—and how you may become a landowner in this great enterprise.

When you consider the amount of capital required to engage in so great an operation—clear the timber, ship it to market, reforest the land, or plant it to bananas, pineapple, coffee, or any other of a score of tropical products—the reason why I do not keep all the profits myself is readily apparent. What would be difficult, if not impossible, for a single firm or individual becomes quickly practical where there are several thousand investors. Here, then is the plan which makes this tremendous operation possible:

You purchase, let us say, a two-hectare unit (approximately 5 acres) at the low price of $185. (Monthly payment plan can be arranged if you so desire.)

We reserve an undivided one-half interest in and to all timber and/or natural resources for a period of fifteen years. You execute a power of attorney, empowering us to remove and market your undivided one-half interest in all these resources for a period of eighteen months, or if you so desire you may do this yourself. If you have received a minimum of $250 per unit during this eighteen-months' period, the power of attorney is renewed for another eighteen months if a minimum of $250 during this second eighteen months, it is renewed for two years; if $750 during this two years' period it is renewed for ten years.

The proceeds from your undivided one-half interest in timber, minerals or tropical products taken from your property will be deposited with the trust department of a Chicago bank with which we have a contract, when and as received, together with a sworn statement as to the source of such funds. As these moneys come in, you will be immediately notified that they are awaiting your disposal. Your account will be open for your inspection at all times.

In this connection, let me emphasize the fact that the land thus purchased would be absolutely yours. We would hold merely your power of attorney, which if faithfully performed would be the only factor in effect against your property for a period of fifteen years. At the end of fifteen years the power of attorney would automatically cease, and you would have your land with title absolutely clear.

How greatly your profits should exceed our minimum estimates of $1250 for a five-year period, it is impossible to determine. But this I do know: with the purchase of one or more units you will take title to tropical land as fertile as money can buy — land already covered with some of the most magnificent forests of precious hardwoods on the American continent—land ideally located for the continuous cultivation of immensely profitable crops—land conveniently accessible to the big shipping ports on either side of the Isthmus—land that can easily be made a source of unending wealth. Basing comparisons on prices paid for good orange-producing land in Southern California such land, when fully developed, could easily sell at a price in excess of two thousand dollars an acre.

Send for Free Booklet on Modern Mexico

Upon request—and without obligation—I shall be happy to furnish you a beautifully illustrated booklet in colors on Modern Mexico, show you where our properties are located, give you proven figures as to profit-possibilities, in reforestation and in the growing of bananas, pineapples, coffee and other tropical products.

I particularly urge prompt action because my first tract is almost sold out—I am arranging to begin timber operations on this tract within the next few months — and the sooner you can make such investigations as you may deem necessary and can make your purchase, the sooner the timber on your property can be converted into profits.

The coupon will bring you full particulars. You will find it profitable to place it in the mail today.

In my opinion — based on months of investigation — Mexico, and particularly the Isthmus territory, offers greater possibilities for profit during the next five years than any other spot on earth. Whether you buy property through my company, through some other company, or go direct to Mexico to buy, I recommend that you buy in Mexico. My firm will gladly place at your disposal any data we possess that may assist you in selecting and purchasing such properties as most appeal to you. I cordially invite you, without obligation, to avail yourself freely of our experience and counsel. — N. O. SHIVELY.

Sometime a Sign May Save Your Life

Signs on the highways guard the motorist. Sometime in the past a sign may have saved your life. A sign properly placed may save your life at any time—tomorrow perhaps.

The Chicago Motor Club erects signs at dangerous curves or intersections, schools, railroads, hospitals, and through streets.

P. J. O'Connor, secretary of the Ninety-Fifth Street Business Men's Improvement Association, Chicago, writes: "Thank you for the safety signs at the intersections of Loomis street at 97th and 99th streets and for the signs at 97th and Throop streets. I have no doubt that the erection of these signs will be the means of preventing many serious accidents, and the entire community will appreciate the service your club has rendered."

Civic work, such as good roads work, road widening, fighting speed traps, and working for sane laws and ordinances, are among the other general services.

A few of the services available to members are:

Free mechanical first aid and towing service at any hour of the day or night.

Travel service, which provides you with maps, logs and the most complete and up to the minute advice on road conditions.

Bail bond service, which guarantees your appearance in traffic violation cases, where a bond not in excess of $100 is demanded.

Accident prevention work, which seeks to cut accidents, especially among school children, by means of safety posters and by fostering school boy patrols.

Home district service, which attends to special conditions around your home, such as seeing to it that refuse is promptly removed.

Insurance service, which provides the following features: The valued form policy, which in the event of total loss, pays the face value of the policy. Accessories are covered without additional charge. Last year the "exchange" returned cash savings to subscribers amounting to $711,332.11. Automobile insurance sales amounted to $3,894,706.04.

These are a few of the many money-saving services. Write or call for further information.

BY HIS TWEED CAP YOU KNOW IT'S MR. JACOBS

Never Mind How He Got Schmeling.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Binghamton, N. Y., June 9.—Joey Jacobs trots about the place wearing an idiotic tweed cap that he picked up in Paris with a woolly sprig of tuft where the button ought to be, like the foliage on a radish. Anything for a laugh. Joey answers the telephone. Joey sends the telegrams and holds the watch and the water bottle. If it is necessary, in the course of business, for some one to go out and drink a few drams with the newspaper boys or the politicians, Joew will attend to the drinking of the drams, too.

JOE JACOBS.

Joey Jacobs is a little Hebrew from the tough Irish section on the west side of New York called Hell's Kitchen, where the patrolmen used to walk two-by-two and the detectives now go in teams of three. He is the manager of Max Schmeling, German prizefighter, with a chance to win the heavyweight championship of the world, which is worth, roughly, something between one million dollars and two million.

Joey Afaid He'll Lose Him.

Never mind how Joey got his fighter, but fighters are unfaithful and all alike, and Joey knows it. He always seems a little afraid that some one will come along and steal his fighter back. The manager's share of a prizefighter's money is 33 1-3 per cent, and remembering how he got his fighter, Joey should worry.

Max is big and healthy and swarthy, with a squinty expression of the eyes, but Joey is small and not too strong. He had double pneumonia a couple of years ago and almost didn't make the hill. His visible teeth are just a couple of dark stumps. Nowadays, at all hours, he wears, protruding from his thin, sharp face, a cigar as big as a cargo boom, the symbol of opulence.

Max sleeps nine or ten hours a night and doesn't drink tea or coffee, and Joey shields him from intrusion, imposition, and trouble. I seem to detect a mutual lack of confidence or a mental reservation between these two. Joey knows that Maxie had another manager when he came to this country, unknown, in the fall of 1928, and it is just possible that some one else will get Max the way he got him. Before a fight for the heavyweight championship a fighter is always the agreeable, obliging young adventurer.

Willard Fired His Managers.

After he wins it he changes. Jess Willard fired all his managers as soon as he won the title, and they not only got him the match with Jack Johnson but went first to Mexico and then to Cuba to produce it, furnishing the backing themselves. Old Uncle Will Gibson traveled far and sat up many a night advancing Gene Tunney to the first match with Jack Dempsey, but when Tunney had won the title Uncle Will was reduced to the status of a not very confidential clerk, and his emoluments were reduced accordingly.

Moreover, I believe that Joey Jacobs, like Uncle Will in Philadelphia, is a manager of little faith. He has been watching prize fighting long enough to know that his fighter is easy to hit and to realize that one

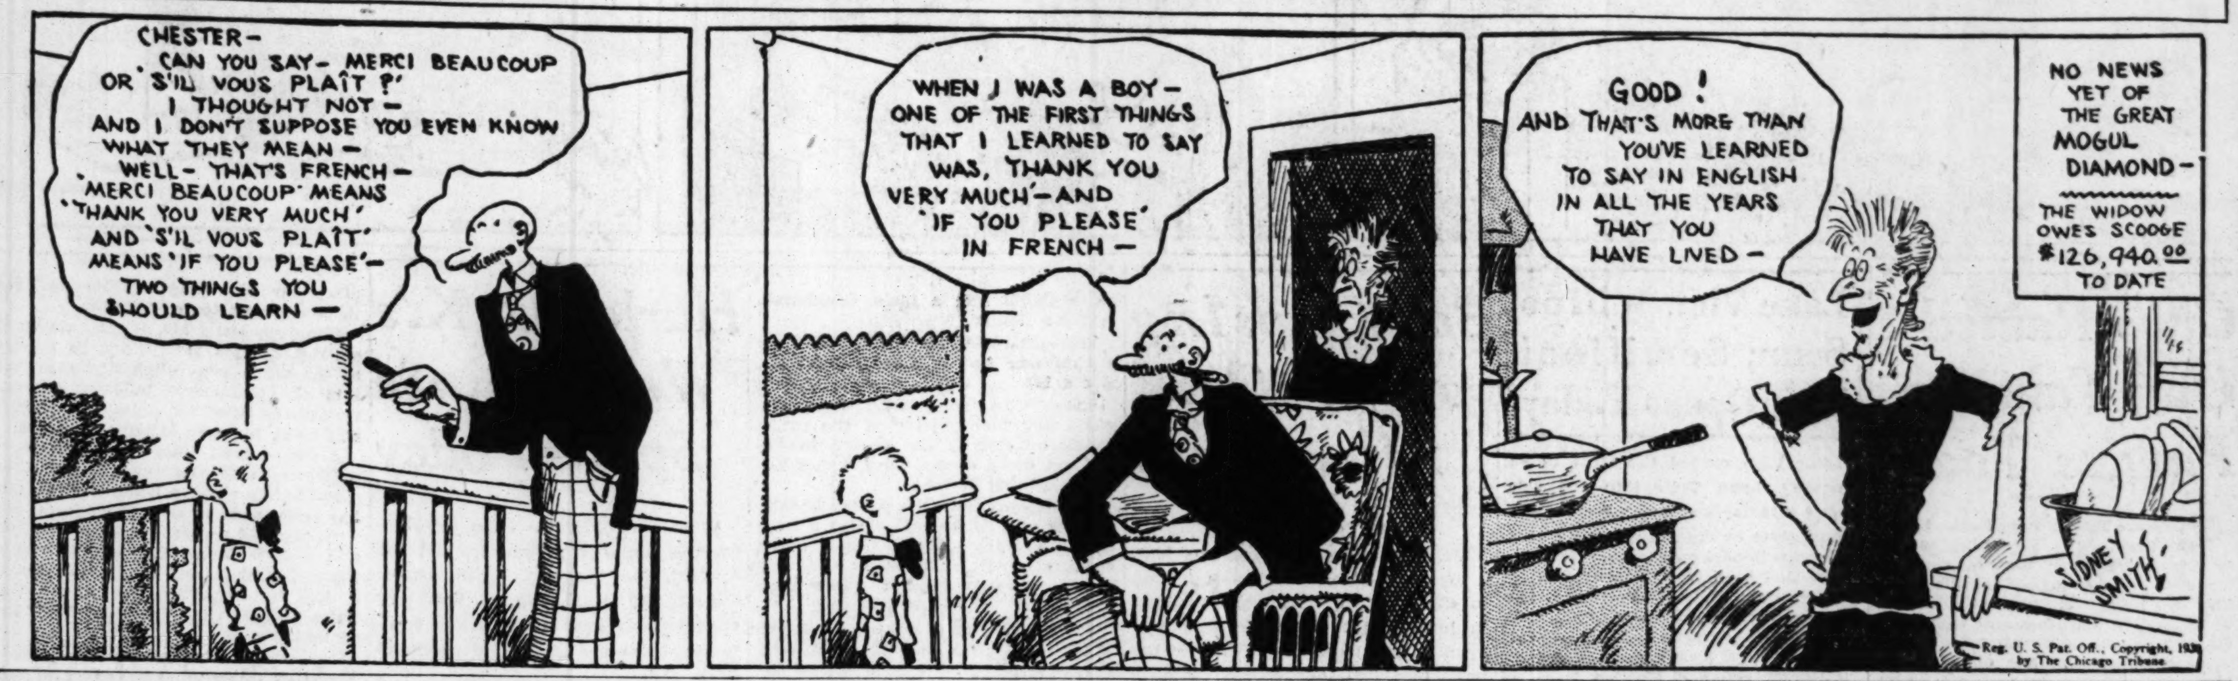
Heavyweight Title Fans Add $40,000 to N. Y. Milk Fund

New York, June 9—(AP)—The ardor of the faithful, undimmed by the consistent mediocrity of recent heavyweight exhibitions, stood the final test of a cheerless and steady rain today to rally round the box offices of Madison Square Garden.

The coffers of the milk fund were swelled by some $40,000 during the day as growing interest lined up the vanguard of the last minute customers in a steady parade to purchase tickets for Jack Sharkey's fifteen round title joust with Max Schmeling in the Yankee stadium Thursday night. With $90,000 in cash taken in Friday and Saturday the promoters jubilantly announced that the big show is certain to draw a gross gate of over $700,000. The prices are $2, $5, $13 and $25, plus tax.

While a small army of carpenters and architects worked in the rain at the stadium to fit the ball park for a crowd of 70,000, Schmeling's handlers prepared for a last ditch fight at a meeting of the New York State Athletic commission tomorrow to restore Joe Jacobs to temporary grace. The solemn fathers have refused so far to determine the standing of the Teuton's manager of choice who has been suspended here for some time. Indications were that the commission would grant Jacobs a temporary license in time for him to enter Schmeling's ring.

THE GUMPS—WHEN I WAS A BOY



In the WAKE of the NEWS

BELMONT AND DERBY.

ORANGEBURG, N. Y., June 9.—It was the Wake's first presence at a Belmont stakes Saturday, although we have attended other events at the beautiful Belmont Park course out on Long Island, about forty-five minutes from New York by train. Those present told us the ovation given a great horse, as he sped down the stretch comfortably in advance of one considered greater before the test of this stamina-trying route, was the greatest of recent years.

Yet with all the shouting and tumult, it did not carry to us quite the thrill of those crowds at Louisville which greet the Kentucky Derby winner. We think the difference is between New York and Louisville. Here a great turf event, amid other big sporting events, amid the whirl of finance and big business, is not the holiday that it is in Louisville, or rather in the whole state of Kentucky.

So far as tradition is concerned, the Belmont antedates the Derby, for it first was run in 1867 at old Jerome Park, later at Morris Park, and has had its habitat at Belmont Park since 1905.

"OLD BONES."

While visiting Schmeling's training quarters at Endicott we motored to Binghamton to visit W. E. Kilmer's Sun Briar farm, where Exterminator, now 15 years old, is spending his final years without family cares, for the old chap was an unsexed racer.

"Old Bones," as he was known when racing, no longer is "Old Bones." The chestnut veteran is sleek. While lacking the aldermanic front developed by many ageing humans, he has taken on weight since his racing days. He romps around the meadowy infield of a small training camp with a pony called "Peanuts," about half his size, as a playfellow. They posed for us with evident pride and memory of past achievements, if a horse has memory.

"What a horse and what a stayer he was," mused Mr. Kilmer. "You know, he won over a quarter million dollars in his 100 starts, 50 of which he won. How much do you think those earnings would have been, based on present value of the same races?"

The Wake wished to be polite and still not foolish, so we hazarded $450,000 as a guess. "I figured it out just for curiosity, and the amount was between $900,000 and $1,000,000," replied Mr. Kilmer.

EASTERN BETTING METHOD.

New York state does not permit pari-mutuel wagering such as we have in Chicago. Instead, the oral system, or "betting on the nod," as it is termed, is used. To wager, you establish credit with a bookmaker, either by depositing currency or, if sufficiently known, promising to pay if you lose. Against this credit you wager whatever amount you elect. Theoretically, no money changes hands at the track, but settlement is made by check.

That theory is true of large speculators, but small betters need not fear they cannot get down a bet. Along the walk from trains to stand are young men, ever alert not to be nabbed by Pinkertons, who inquire if you have betting connections established. If not, they will show you. If unknown, you deposit cash. Any one's cash is good. At the end of the day your residue or your original deposit with accretions is slipped to you covertly.

Do You Remember Way Back When: John L. Sullivan, instead of the present Jack Sharkey, was called "the Boston Strong Boy"?

EYE TROUBLE FORCES HAFEY TO LEAVE CARDS

St. Louis, Mo., June 9.—(AP)—Manager Gabby Street of the Cardinals, already confronted with a variety of troubles, today had another problem to solve through loss of Chick Hafey, outfielder. Hafey, whose eyes have been handicapping him this season, has been forced to leave the team and will return to St. Louis for treatment.

With Frankie Frisch, Charlie Gelbert and Ernie Orsatti out because of injuries, Street had been depending on Hafey to supply a large part of the team's punch. George Watkins probably will replace him.

JOVIAL SHARKEY STAGGERS SPAR MATES IN DRILL

Scowling Jack of Old in Playful Mood.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Orangeburg, N. Y., June 9.—Jack Sharkey, one time sneering and supercilious Bostonian, was in a playful, jovial mood today as he took what camp regulars described as his best workout since coming to these training quarters just outside the little town of Orangeburg, which is 35 miles from New York.

JOHNNY GROSSO.

This playful, jovial mood, the first I have ever noted on Sharkey's part in watching him train for three different battles, was supplemented by activity and earnestness, or in boxing parlance, by speed and ferocity, quite different from the usual brand of Sharkey training. It seemed as if he might be practicing for the rôle he hopes to assume after next Thursday night of a popular American champion. Cheers in the past have been as strange to Sharkey as good nature has been to those who watched him.

Ascribe Change to Articles.

There were those present who ascribed his greater activity to two scathing newspaper articles which he had read. Writers of those articles said Sharkey's work yesterday was slow and uninspiring. They questioned whether he had not gone stale. In surprise this aroused a spirit of combativeness and determination to prove the contrary.

Because of drizzling rain, the boxing was held in the indoor gymnasium instead of the open air arena, before 500 persons. Appearing shortly before 2:30 o'clock in fighting trunks of black with red trimmings, a thin white gymnasium shirt and the regulation fighting shoes with rolled socks, Jack punched the air filled bag for five minutes, a form of work which Max Schmeling disdains at his Endicott quarters. Then he donned sixteen ounce gloves for bouts of two alternating rounds with Johnny Grosso and King Solomon, whose battered countenance looked of Solomon's vintage.

Grosso, perennial sparring partner, said after his bout he never had received such a buffeting from his heavier playmate. Once in each round, Grosso was so groggy that he would have toppled if Sharkey had not leashed his attack and held Grosso on his feet. The blows of upsetting type were left hooks delivered with terrific force. They followed a sequence of straight lefts, which is Sharkey's best blow, then a right cross and finally the left hooks. That he landed these blows was not surprising, for Sharkey can of course outbox his mock adverseries but seldom in training has he attempted such force.

Drills on Body Attack.

Against King Solomon, Sharkey practiced feinting, head slipping and body attack which once caused the veteran to call "Let up." Meantime, the crowd was cheering and Sharkey was smiling and almost strutting at his new found popularity.

After the boxing, Sharkey, streaming with perspiration in the closed auditorium, walked over to Manager Buckley and asked, "Anything more?"

"Yes, four rounds of shadow boxing," replied Buckley.

"Thank you," laughed Sharkey, in feigned appreciation.

At the conclusion of these four rounds, Jack walked in the direction of the critics of his condition and remarked to Buckley, evidently for their benefit, "It seemed like only two."

Sharkey's weight was announced officially as 199 pounds after his work.

This was the writer's first visit to this camp. Sharkey looked and worked better than I expected. Perhaps another day's impression may lead to more definite conclusion.

RACING COMES TO THE FRONT

BY ARCH WARD.

COL. MATT J. WINN, president of the Washington Park Jockey club, where the American Derby will be run Saturday, predicts that within five years Chicago will be the racing center of America.

"Chicago has demonstrated that it wants racing," he said recently. "Washington Park is the only track in the country which has shown an increase in business this season. New Orleans had an unsuccessful meeting, the attendance and wagering at Louisville were far below 1929 figures, and conditions at the Maryland tracks were almost as bad. Belmont also is running behind," Winn stated.

"Business at a race track usually is a reliable barometer of general industrial conditions," he said. "But this doesn't explain why Washington Park is gaining while other tracks are losing. The employment situation in Chicago probably is no worse or no better than in other metropolitan centers. We must look elsewhere for a reason," he said.

This is the theory Mr. Winn advances for the prosperous condition of the plant at Homewood:

"Racing at New Orleans, Louisville, and New York had been at its peak for several years. When hard times came along racing naturally was affected. People had less money to spend. The sport in Chicago is nowhere near the crest of its popularity. It merely has scratched the surface. Consequently, the increase in newcomers attracted to the ponies more than offsets the loss through economic conditions."

TAKING THE JUDGES' WORD.

One of the greatest track meets ever held was run off at Stagg field Saturday afternoon. Most of the nation's leading sprinters, hurdlers, and distance runners were among the fields striving for national collegiate titles. The events were conducted with minimum delay. The track was fast and the weather pleasant.

There was only one flaw from the spectator's standpoint. He couldn't see the show. When Frank Wykoff of Southern California sped past George Simpson of Ohio State to win the 100 yard dash track history was established. Few of the fans in the stands knew what it was all about until the announcer made known that a world record had been broken.

We had a seat near the finish line about half way up. It looked like a choice location. There was nothing to obstruct the view of the javelin throw, shot put, high jump, and the track events which finished on the opposite side of the field. But the event most of the fans came out to see was the 100 yard dash. It was run over a straightaway on the north side of the field close to the first tier of seats. We heard the announcer call the men to their marks, heard the report of the starter's gun and once we got a glimpse of the man running on the inside lane. We had to accept the word of the judges that Wykoff won the race. Nobody in our section was an eye witness.

If track and field meets are to win new followers or hold their old ones, it would be well to give the spectator some consideration.

ROCKNE AND THE SHIFT.

They used to say that the only things certain in life were death and taxes. You can add another. No man who stutters will officiate in a Notre Dame football game.

Asked what effect legislation against the shift would have on his team's play next fall, Knute Rockne commented as follows:

"None that I can see. We are making no plans to change our attack. Our back field comes to a complete stop after every shift. That is all opponents of this type of play demand. The rules provide that an official must count up to six rapidly. Most of them can do that fast enough to suit us. If an official doesn't stutter, he will have no trouble with us."

It is Rockne's contention that if rules makers slow up the shift until its value is nullified, football will lose its popularity.

"Opening up the game so spectators can see what is going on has had more to do with the sport's success than any other factor," he said.

"If I thought that football was returning to a spectacle of brute strength, I wouldn't stay in the coaching game two minutes," he concluded.

TRIBUNE GOLFERS HAVE ONE WEEK LEFT TO QUALIFY

Last Cards Must Be In Next Monday.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Golfers have only one more week to play two 18 hole rounds for a chance to qualify in THE TRIBUNE public links tournament. The last cards must be in the hands of the golf editor by next Monday.

The number of scores which came in yesterday's mail indicated that Sunday afternoon's rain squall broke too late to interfere with the finish of an intensely active week-end. In both men's and women's divisions new leaders made their appearance and public courses in widely separated parts of the Chicago district earned temporary representation in the first 32.

Women golfers who have a chance to play during the day are urged to start out at once instead of waiting until the week-end, so as to avoid a last minute avalanche of scores. The men who have to report at the office every morning may be able to get in a round before going to work or in the evening upon their return.

After each 18 holes have your card signed by at least one member of your foursome. Write on it your address and telephone number and mail it to THE TRIBUNE golf editor. If your total for 36 holes is among the 32 lowest you will qualify for match play.

NOTES OF THE GOLFERS

Harry Spear of the Hyde Park hotel shot 81 to win low gross in the Chicago hotelmen's tournament yesterday at Olympia Fields. Leonard Hicks of the Lorraine was second with 85. Low net was won by Mixe Fox, his score being 91—17—74.

The Chicago Women's District Golf association will begin two days of match play this morning at the Beverly Country club. This will be the organization's first tournament. For 25 years all play in this region has been under the supervision of the Women's Western Golf assoication, but protests were made that too much money was being spent on events for Chicago golfers.

Hence the Chicago Women's District Golf association was organized and is financing itself independently of the Western association by levying a fee of $5 on all women who intend to compete in the summer's events.

Paavo Nurmi Adds 6 Mile Run to His List of Records

LONDON, England, June 9.—(AP)—Paavo Nurmi, the famous flying Finn, who holds more track records than any other man, smashed the world's mark for the six mile run in a race at Stamford bridge today. The Finn covered the distance in 29 minutes 36 3-5 seconds as compared to the record of 29:59 2-5, set by Alfred Schrubb of England in 1904.

Gallant Fox and Whichone Out of American Derby

The withdrawal of Gallant Fox and Whichone from the American Derby field yesterday caused the owners of other three year olds to take heart.

They made such a rush toward the entry box at Washington Park it began to appear last night as if there may be 20 starters when the battle begins for the $50,000 prize on Saturday afternoon.

And it might be said right here that the western owners were not the only ones about to be scared out of the race by Gallant Fox and Whichone.

After definite announcement came that the two stars from New York would not travel west for the Derby the owners of other eastern candidates took on just as much courage as the westerners.

Easterners Reserve Stalls.

W. R. Coe reserved stalls for Caruso, Maya and Black Majesty. Gifford Cochrane wired for reservations and it is presumed he is shipping Flying Heels, St. Marco and Xenofol, and Walter J. Salmon announced that Swinfield and Snowflake would arrive on Wednesday to fill the Derby engagement. Willis Sharpe Kilmer announced that his colt Dark Sea would be here to run in the Derby and the Wheatley stable, owned by Mrs. H. C. Phipps and J. Ogden Mills, arranged to ship Hornpipe here to seek the prize.

Out here in the west, Gallant Knight and Flyer from the Audley Farm stable were on the job and ready for action. Kay Spence, who trains Gallant Knight, says the son of Bright Knight, which finished second to Gallant Fox in the Kentucky Derby, did not run his race in the Cleveland Derby last Saturday. "Throw that race out," Trainer Spence told his friends at Washington Park yesterday.

Trainer Dan Stewart admitted that he might start both Sydney and Ladrone in Johnson N. Camden's silks. Alcibiades, the Kentucky Oaks winner, worked out during the afternoon, stepping a mile in 1:43 1-5 and pulling up at the end of a mile and an eighth in 1:58 3-5. She looms up as a certain starter, and Galaday is another filly which may go in the race.

Tannery in Trial Today.

Prose and Poetry, Prince Atheling, Plucky Play, Michigan Boy, Uncle Luther and Thistle Ann were other westerners awaiting the Derby call. Tannery will start in the Derby trial and if he runs a good race, will be given another opportunity to display his greatness on Saturday afternoon. He

Arlington Park Elects Wrigley and Insull Today

Samuel Insull and William Wrigley Jr. are to be elected directors of the Arlington Park Jockey club at a meeting to be held today, it was learned last night.

SAMUEL INSULL.

John Hertz, Charles A. McCulloch, Warren Wright, Otto W. Lehmann, John R. Thompson, Albert D. Lasker, Thomas E. Wilson, William M. Wright, Laurence Armour, Vincent Bendix, Britton I. Budd, Edwin N. D'Ancona, Leonard S. Florsheim, Paul E. Gardner, Charles F. Glore, Edward N. Hurley, Roy D. Keehn, Weymouth Kirkland, Silas H. Strawn, Charles S. Pearce, Earle H. Reynolds, and Lawrence F. Stern are the holdover directors who will be reëlected, it was reported.

The Arlington Park Jockey club operates the Arlington Park race track on a non-profit basis and its members will be joined by many wealthy easterners when they stage their annual summer meeting beginning on June 30.

TO MEET AT ARLINGTON

New York, June 9.—(AP)—Gallant Fox, champion of them all, today rested in his box at Aqueduct with the prospect of becoming the greatest money winner of the American turf before closing his 3 year old career.

Gallant Fox's next important engagement will be the $80,000 Classic at Arlington Park, Chicago, on July 12. The Classic will be the greatest of the mid-western 3 year old events, as it will bring another meeting between the Preakness-Kentucky Derby-Belmont winner and his main rival, Harry Payne Whitney's Whichone. Whichone may start in the Dwyer stakes here on June 28 as a prep for his second meeting with Gallant Fox in Chicago.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Bob Weiland was a great lefthander for eight innings yesterday. But a regulation ball game is nine innings, and, as all Chicago fans learned last autumn, the world champion Athletics have a way of utilizing that final inning in a most selfish way.

If Weiland had been a great pitcher for one more inning the White Sox would have defeated the champions, 2 to 1. But there was that ninth—the A's scored two runs and won the ball game, 3 to 2.

Weiland struck out seven of the champions, including three in the first inning when the visitors got the only score they made prior to the ninth. Maybe it would have been better if he hadn't done so much striking out, for he fanned Jimmy Foxx twice, making Jimmy angry and causing him to smack a single in that ninth.

Faber to Hurl Today.

The Sox this afternoon will have a chance to avenge the mean way the A's treated Weiland. The teams will engage in the final of the series and Faber is scheduled to oppose Mehaffey.

The loss not only was tough on Weiland but it deprived J. Smead Jolley of a pleasant day. J. Smead isn't such a hot fielder, but those who know him say he has the perfect ball player temperament. And the big boy, after taking a heavy razz on his fielding Sunday, came right back and scored the Sox's first run after singling in the first inning and drove in the other one with a tremendous triple in the fifth inning.

Both teams scored in the first inning, the A's getting a run on one hit and the Sox getting one on three hits. The game started with a pass to Bishop, who stole second as Haas struck out. Cochrane struck out and Weiland had two strikes on Simmons when Al connected for a double, scoring Bishop. Then Foxx struck out.

Reynolds Out at Plate.

In the last of the first inning, Kerr flied to Simmons and Watwood fanned. Then Jolley singled to center and stopped at third on Reynolds' double to right. Cissell singled to right, scoring Jolley, but Reynolds was thrown out at the plate, Miller to Cochrane.

The Sox took the lead in the fifth. Kerr singled and was forced by Watwood. Then Jolley tripled to right, Watwood scoring. Jolley died on third because Reynolds fanned and Cissell lined to Foxx.

Haas led off the sixth with a double, but failed to score. He died on third when Foxx fanned the second time. Miller led off the seventh with a single, but never got around because Jeffries made a nice play to catch him stealing third.

All of which leads us up to the disheartening Philadelphia ninth. Weiland juggled Cochrane's tap toward third and it was scored as the fifth hit off Bob. Simmons walked. Foxx singled through short, scoring Cochrane with the tying run and putting Simmons on third with none out. McKain relieved Weiland. Miller sent a sacrifice fly to Watwood and Simmons came in with the winning run. McNair fouled to Shires and Kerr threw out Boley.

Quinn Tames Pinch Hitters.

In the ninth Pinch Batters Hunnefield, Clancy, and Harris were soft for Old Man Quinn, finishing pitcher.

The game again illustrated the punchless character of the lower half of the Sox batting order. Shires couldn't deliver with two on in the third, nor could he get the ball out of the infield with a man on second and one out in the eighth. Jeffries, hitting No. 7, couldn't get the ball out of the infield all afternoon, and the battery produced one hit, a single by Autry with two out, in the second. Reynolds and Cissell folded up the fifth inning rally, but past performances should spare them from criticism.

INDIANS DEFEAT SENATORS, 5-4; NEAR 2D PLACE

Morgan Leads Tribe with Homer and Triple.

Cleveland, O., June 9.—(AP)—The Indians advanced within a half game of second place today by defeating the Washington Senators, 5 to 4. It was the Indians' second straight over their rivals for runner-up honors in the American league.

Walter Miller, Cleveland southpaw, and big Fred Marberry engaged in a pitching duel, with the former having the better of the argument, as he kept the Senators' eight hits scattered.

Eddie Morgan was the big gun of the Cleveland offense, hitting his ninth home run of the season with one on in the third and connecting with a triple in the sixth. Joe Cronin hit a circuit drive for the Senators. Score:

St. Louis, Mo., June 9.—(AP)—Getting away to an early lead while Al Crowder was pitching, the New York Yankees today defeated the Browns, 8 to 5.

The Yanks scored seven of their runs in the first three innings, but thereafter found Chad Kimsey, who relieved Crowder, a puzzle. Ruffing, formerly of the Red Sox, went along easily until the eighth, when the Browns threatened and he was taken out in favor of Johnson.

STRIBLING HERE TO TRAIN FOR VON PORAT BOUT

W. L. (Young) Stribling arrived at the Dearborn station yesterday, accompanied by his mother and father, Pa and Ma Stribling, and a sparring partner, to start training for his bout with Otto Von Porat at Chicago Stadium on June 18. Stribling will train at Kid Howard's Arcade gymnasium, 326 West Madison street. Von Porat already is in training at Barry's gym.

"We came here to beat the hardest puncher in the world," Pa Stribling said. "We are confident W. L. can trim this fellow, and after he has gotten rid of him there will be nothing stopping us from a crack at the champion, which I hope will turn out to be Jack Sharkey. If it's Sharkey, W. L. will prove that he was unfit to fight the night he lost to Jack in Miami and that he really is the better man."

MOON MULLINS—POOR POLICY

Cubs Rained Out; Take On Phillies Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 9.—Owing to the variety of weather that discourages business at the turnstiles, the Cubs and the flighty Robins, who happen to be leading the league at this time, did not stage a skirmish today. The same weather prevailed on Saturday and Sunday and there was no thought of a postponement, but Monday is a different day. So the argument scheduled for this afternoon was delayed until a double header may draw a suitable number of patrons.

As there was no further need for their services hereabouts, the Cubs moved out this evening at dinner time in the direction of Philadelphia, which holds no pleasant memories for them or anybody else. The purpose of this short journey was to fulfill a schedule which calls upon them to meet the Phillies in four games starting tomorrow.

For the opener tomorrow the pitching probably will be attended to by Pat Malone. The big right hander was slated to do the honors today against the Robins, but the added 24 hours of training will not harm him. In fact severe training is what he needs more than anything. He is a little bit overweight and this undoubtedly is a handicap for him when he endeavors to labor through nine innings. Claude Willoughby probably will pitch for the Phils.

Lake View Whips Senn; Semifinal Play Opens Today

Lake View earned the right to accompany Lane Tech into the City league semifinals as north section representatives by defeating Senn, 6 to 2, at Logan Square yesterday. The two teams had been tied for second place in the sectional play. Brownstein and Bergdahl held Lake View to six hits, but the winners made every one count, and were aided by two Senn errors.

Calumet defeated Morgan Park at Hamilton park, 13 to 3, and will represent the south section with Bowen in the semifinals, which open today. Harrison and Bowen will meet at McKinley park, while Calumet clashes with Marshall at Mills stadium. The remainder of the schedule follows:

TOMORROW.
Tilden vs. Lake View at American Giants' park.

FRIDAY.
Harrison vs. Calumet at Hamilton park.
Marshall vs. Bowen at Bessemer park.
Tilden vs. Lindblom at Normal park.

BY BOB BECKER.

Mr. Fisherman, have you ever kept a log of a day's brook trout fishing to check up on how many changes in lures had to be made, and how much fussin' there was to interest the trout in a little excitement? Such a log reads best when the day is unpropitious for fly fishing and a fellow has to try everything to induce the fish to strike.

Here is a sample of our "program book," dated about a week ago when we were fishing a northern trout stream which was high, roily and in no condition for ideal fishing. It would indicate that to catch a ten inch brook trout under those conditions requires more fussin' around, more equipment and more changing lures than that involved in hooking a 100 pound tuna.

Here is part of the log. It gives some idea of the efforts made to please trout that are gorging themselves on natural food brought into the stream by rains.

8:10 a. m.—Bright, warm sun shining. Ben, the guide, says that we'd better start with a spinner and brown hackle fly combination.

8:25—No strikes. We change to a spinner and grey hackle fly combination. Add a split shot to make lure go deeper.

8:40—Saw one rise in a long oily pool, so we shifted to wet flies. Put on a Cahill and a plain Coachman. Nothing doing.

8:45—Changed flies again. This time a Professor and a number 8 Trude. Not a hit.

8:50—"Come on," said Ben, our guide and manipulator of the canoe paddle. "Put on the garden hackle and get down deep. They're not hitting anything else."

8:55—Ready with the garden hackle, spinner and split shot. Tried a deep pool. Nothing doing. Canoe eased down into swift water below a roaring rapids. Bang! a strike in fairly shallow water. Small trout landed.

9:10—A stretch of foam near several logs under an arching cedar tree. Beautiful place for a fish. Draw the spinner through it. Another trout.

9:40—Saw a small trout rise in a deep pool. Back to wet flies we go.

So it goes throughout the morning. Fishing for the red spotted inhabitants of the streams is a fussy business when they are not eager to strike.

Hurley O. K.'s West Point's Sports Policy

Washington, D. C., June 9.—(AP)—On the basis of preliminary reports by Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, inspector general of the army, Secretary Hurley today announced that he firmly supported the conduct of sports at West Point.

The war secretary cited charges by Representative Fish of New York that subsidies had been granted athletes, that stars were permitted to leave the service when their playing was finished, and that scouting had taken place for new players. He declared these charges to be "untrue."

Simultaneously Mr. Hurley reasserted the Army's policy not to adhere to the three year eligibility rule and said the academy's holding did not violate the rules for amateur athletics laid down by the Carnegie institute.

A full report, whether favorable or unfavorable to the academy, will be made public when a complete analysis has been made of Gen. Drum's report.

"When the report has been finished and if it is found that there is anything reprehensible at the academy, it will be corrected, but up to this time nothing has been found," the secretary said.

BY HIS TWEED CAP YOU KNOW IT'S MR. JACOBS

Never Mind How He Got Schmeling.

more year of experience and waiting would do Max great good and Sharkey no good at all. I don't think Joey really thinks Maxie will win the prize fight Thursday night.

Then Schmeling doubtless appreciates the weakness of Joey's political position in New York. There is only one way for a heavyweight to assure himself complete success in New York. He must ally himself to the prize fight commission's most favored manager, and Schmeling, in his early days in this country, made the mistake of turning down the prize fight commission's favorite manager. Joey, being a competitor of the commission's man, naturally is a bit of a hindrance to his fighter, politically.

Keeps Close to Maxie.

So Joey keeps close to Maxie, asserting his authority or flaunting his managership, as you might say, at all public moments. He makes the excuses, explains things away, and attends to the sordid work, including the belittlement of Sharkey.

That fellow, Lou Barba, was poking your fellow on the chin plenty this afternoon," says you, and this is a fact, for the Barba boy is young and springy, unlike most sparring partners and he probably has an idea that he could lick Schmeling in a fight one year from now.

"Yeah, wuzzee?" says Joey. "Well, that's Max's style. Barba is a tough, fast kid. He'll hit anybody a couple of times in two rounds. Sure, he hit Max. That's what we have sparring partners for. But you didn't see Max back off, did you?"

"What does your fellow weigh?" says you.

"Oh, hunert eighty-seven-eight," says Joey.

"He looks lighter. Will you put him on the scales?" says you.

Two Square Fellows.

"What for?" says Joey. "Sure, I'd put him on if there was any reason to. But you can't go putting a fighter on the scales every ten minutes. He'll weigh hunert eighty-seven-eight when the commission weighs them."

"How are you two fixed for a contract?"

"O, we're all right," Joey Jacobs says, sighting along his cigar like a man squinting down a gun barrel. "Our agreement's all right. He's got confidence in me and I got confidence in him. Two square fellows. He ain't no Willard nor no Tunney. Wait'll you see."

And Joey hustles off to send some telegrams and order supplies and attend to the necessary counter-plotting regarding the rules and the referee. That is important nowadays in a heavyweight championship fight, with the value of the title risen beyond a million dollars.

Never Seems to Doze.

It seems odd finding Joey with a championship fighter in hand. Joey has been one of the boys on Broadway and around the Garden and up and down the country for years. You used to see the top of his cap over the seatbacks of the day coaches a few years back, going somewhere with some guy to fight some one for $800 guaranteed and two round trip tickets. The fighter might be dozing on his cauliflower ear with his lips agape, but Joey seems never to doze.

He served a spell with Boo Boo Hoff, the celebrated sinister character of Philadelphia, as roving manager of Mr. Hoff's numerous pugilists, and he later bobbed up in New York as a partner of Mr. Will Duffy, the genius of Primo Carnera's current triumphant tour. So, altogether, you will see, there is little managerial strategy that Joey hasn't been schooled in. And, now that he has a fellow going for the championship, you may rely on Joey to give of his art and his wiles and energy until there isn't anything more to give.

Battles Four Sparring Partners.

Perhaps it should be mentioned that Schmeling fought his hardest with four sparring partners today and couldn't put any of them down. Charlie Berlanger fought a hit and run bout of two rounds and made him miss badly with his right. Barba belted him severly on the head in two more rounds of enthusiastic walloping. One Jimmy Bush then boxed one round with him, defending himself pretty well, and finally a hopeless case named Jack Shaw was let into the ring to be assaulted without reserve. And, though Schmeling flogged this Shaw with the utmost abandon, Shaw still was upright, though teetering ,when they finished.

This training camp is petering out now. The social life has waned, and Max and Joey will fly to New York together Thursday morning.

has been a big disappointment to his followers this season.

Whiskery, Kentucky Derby winner in 1927, won his first race in more than two seasons in the Windsor park purse at Washington Park yesterday. He was in a running mood and showed his heels to the 2 to 5 favorite Ellice, from the Camden stable. Ironsides ran third. Jockey Pichon was loafing on Ellice in the run down the stretch or Whiskery might not have caught him. In the betting Whiskery paid $9.30 to win, and his time for the seven furlongs was 1:26 2-5.

Pigeon Hole was the winner of the Steward Ridge purse, which was the companion feature. Only four went to the post in this race and Pigeon Hole led Galahad to the wire, pulled up, by four lengths. Martinique was third. The track was slow.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, June 9. — Aidan Roark saved England's Meadowbrook players from defeat in an international polo trial test at Hurlingham today. The score was England, 6; The Rest, 6. Roark scored on the last stroke of the game.

England's team consisted of Lewis Lacey, Gerald Balding, Pat Roark and Aidan Roark, and totaled thirty-two goals on handicap, while The Rest was made up of Capt. George, Marquis of Villa Gragima, Col. Wise, and John Trail, a thirty-four goal combination.

This was the first occasion in many years that four nine goal players have taken part in a London match.

STEPHENSON 1ST, RUTH TRAILS IN BIG SIX BATTING

[By the Associated Press.]

The National league half of baseball's big six was idle yesterday, but the American circuit members failed to take advantage of the opportunity to improve their standing. Sam Rice and Al Simmons collected one hit each, while Babe Ruth retired from the game after failing to connect the first two times at the plate. As the result Rice and Simmons lost ground, the latter dropping into a tie for fifth place with Paul Waner, who along with the pace setting Riggs Stephenson and Babe Herman was idle. Ruth's hitless day again sent him into last place alone, after sojourning with Waner in that position for twenty-four hours. The standing:

BUSINESS NOW SEEN SLOWLY ON THE MEND

Financiers Look to Future Strength.

BY O. A. MATHER.

It may take most of this year to away the effect of depression, even then a boom is not to be expected. But 1931 should prove a year, with trade and industry the upgrade, whereas this year be subnormal. These observa- and forecasts are the consensus financiers throughout the country, set forth in the current American Bankers' Association Journal.

"Underlying business forces are slowly but surely orienting themselves the direction of recovery," the Journal says. "It may even be said that majority of these basic factors is headed in the right direction. Some lines are due to recover much quickly than others, and a few still down grade, but a certain degree of irregularity in our highly diversified economic system is an old story.

Groundwork for Belief.

"Belief that the tide is rising is founded on an examination of fundamental factors and strengthened by more optimistic feeling now held leading executives in the industrial, merchandising, public utility, banking fields. Probably this hopeful sentiment has not yet spread widely throughout the public, the reason that it is not so apparent on the surface as it is to those touch with plans and policies for future.

"The present outlook, to summarize opinions of those regarded as authorities, is that little tangible improvement has been made thus far. date of expected revival has had postponed a few weeks, but should be clearly apparent this fall, we should go into the new year things generally upgrade. Therefore 1930 will, on the whole, be subnormal, but 1931 ought to be good. does not mean a boom year but ordinarily good business year. Few, in fact, expect any business boom for time to come.

"Conditions in the present depression are different from 1921, when were two outstanding factors to business back to normal and —namely: a huge building construction program to make good the shortage created by war time and a tremendous expansion in the motor industry. These factors are not now present.

"It may be that over the next five ten years business will be on a replacement basis, instead of being carried forward by unusual expansion one or two particular lines. This would by no means indicate that a satisfactory volume of business not come from replacement coupled with normal growth."

Should Prove Helpful.

Termination of uncertainties engendered by tariff discussions and easy money are two factors that should be helpful in stimulating the improvement in business already under way, according to Frank T. Hulswit, president of the American Commonwealth Power corporation.

"The uncertainties engendered by tariff discussions have caused merchants and manufacturers to hold in abeyance substantial commitments," he said. "But the discussion is about over. The factors of easier money and credit have not yet been fully availed of and should soon take their place in stimulating commerce and industry, especially the building trades."

Buying of general merchandise priced at $1 or less has been showing increasing activity since the first of year, according to B. A. Rowe, president of the W. T. Grant chain stores.

"Although the large increases in sales during April and May of this year, against the same period last year, are partly due to the operations new stores," he said, "we find the sales in the old stores also indicate a definite increase over the same period last year. This leads us to believe that there has been much undue pessimism as regard the buying power the country as a whole."

Investment Trend Swings Back to Fixed Obligations

BY SCRUTATOR.

Any suspicion that this country is lacking in funds for investment can be destroyed by an appeal to statistics.

New financing in the United States for the five months ending on May 31 called for a total of $3,462,436,000 of the public's money. This was greater by fifty million dollars than the total of new financing during the same period in 1929, assuming that the compilations of the statisticians are correct.

One of these compilations was made by the National Statistical service and showed that the new financing, excluding municipals, was $2,869,079,000 this year and $2,874,874,000 last year. This comparatively small loss was far more than made up by the larger flotation of state and municipal issues. The Bond Buyer's figures show that such issues increased from about 538 millions last year to more than 593 millions this year.

Sees Confidence.

Not so much can be wrong with a financial situation — separating this branch of business from the underlying production and trade—in which the originators of such issues are confident that they can dispose of nearly three and a half billion dollars in less than half a year.

It could hardly be assumed that the wise men in the investment banking houses are taking long chances in a year of depressing talk. The logical assumption is that they are pretty sure of disposing of what they put out.

A trend that may be significant is the changing ratio of stock issues to bond issues. It has been assumed that the public became so stock minded in the years from 1924 to 1929 that bonds were something taken only by institutions that were prevented from buying stocks. In the five completed months of 1930 bond issues, including municipals, far exceeded three billions and stock issues were less than 366 millions; which makes the score about nine to one in favor of bonds.

Market Is Large.

There are opinions to the effect that only a little industrial activity is needed to turn the tide back again to stocks. Yet it can hardly be denied that there is a tremendous market for fixed obligations; that there is a great investing class in the United States which prefers the relative lack of speculative value to prospects of great increases.

The best arguments in favor of stocks as against bonds grew up in a period when a rising level of commodity prices made fixed incomes in money shrink in purchasing power. The present condition of a stable or even slightly falling level of commodity prices, without indication of sharp changes in the near future, may be bringing bonds back to their former preëminence in the minds of investors with more than a shoestring.

WESTERN STEEL PRODUCERS CUT DOWN OUTPUT

Western steel producers are starting operations this week at 75 to 80 per cent of capacity, as compared with 80 to 85 per cent in the week just ended. There is a possibility that a further curtailment will be made in the next few weeks, but mill officials do not expect to go far below the present rate.

Youngstown district steel operations this week continue unchanged at 68 per cent of rated capacity, with increases in the output of pipe, for which an unprecedented demand has developed, offsetting the reduction in sheet output.

The Western Bar Iron association and the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel, and Tin Workers have agreed on a revised wage scale, with the elimination of the guaranteed minimum of $1.90 per hundredweight.

EXPORT MANAGER OF GEN. MOTORS CORP. HITS AT TARIFF BILL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 9.—Harry Tipper, vice president and general manager of General Motors Export company, which sells about $300,000,000 of General Motors products throughout the world, returned on the Leviathan from a six months' tour of the world, during which he made a study of trade conditions in relation to the Howley-Smoot tariff bill, now pending in congress.

The results of his survey, Mr. Tipper said in no uncertain language, is to reveal that the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill must be defeated if American prosperity is to be maintained at home and if American good will is to be maintained abroad. His views were echoed by Graeme K. Howard, vice president and European regional director of the General Motors corporation, also aboard the Leviathan.

"The United States stands in the position today of having its greatest opportunity to promote world trade," Mr. Tipper said. "If we defeat the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill we will not only save the United States' position in world trade, but also will reëstablish our leadership in friendliness to all. The actual helpfulness to other nations will be a thing so concrete, so understandable, that international amity will be immeasurably advanced.

Chicago Stocks Are Forced Down; Support Is Lacking

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Lack of nourishment in the way of public support compelled the stock market to hitch its belt a few more notches yesterday. That the diet of professional trading on which the market has been living for days was a poor health builder was apparent in the manner in which the Chicago stock list was affected by the selling.

Stocks were unable to withstand the attack and sank from one to five points without showing much resistance. Such fight as the market did show came at the end of the first hour and again at midday, but it was not enough to turn the tide.

Transactions for the session totaled 380,000 shares, indicating the extent of the liquidation, which was fairly well distributed throughout the list.

Hit New Lows.

Among the issues which found their way to new lows for the year were Auburn Automobile, off 5 points, Cord Corporation, down a fraction, and Super Maid, which dropped to 18. General Theaters fell an even 5 points on comparatively light trade in contrast with the strength it has shown in other recent market slumps.

Middle West Utilities sold off to 30½ following announcement of the complete wholesale distribution of its $50,000,000 issue of short term notes. Other utilities fared about the same. Insull Utility and North American Light each lost 2 points. Cities Service gave about a point. Missouri-Kansas stubbornly resisted the trend, ranging fractionally higher and closing unchanged from Saturday's final quotation.

Atlas Stores gave way 5 points on moderately heavy dealings. Grigsby Grunow displayed stout resistance and was off less than a point at the close. Transactions in the stock exceeded 42,000 shares, the largest turnover of the day. Majestic Household was more erratic. Climbing to around 59 in the rally, it later dropped back to 52¼, to close there with a loss of 4¼. Dealings in the stock approximated 30,000 shares.

Pines Winterfront Net.

Directors of the Storkline Furniture company, preference stock of which is traded in on the exchange, took no action yesterday on the dividend of 25 cents on common stock, which is due at this time.

The balance sheet of the Pines Winterfront company as of April 30 shows current assets of $2,239,988 and current liabilities of $284,896. The company reports net income for its fiscal year ended April 30 of $768,458 as compared with $555,554 in the previous year. Earnings for last year were equivalent to $2.36 a share on common stock as against $1.81 in the preceding twelve months.

Directors of Houdaille-Hershey late in the day declared a quarterly dividend of 62½ cents on the A stock and a 30 cent quarterly on the class B stock. Both are payable July 1 to stockholders of record June 20. The class B dividend at the rate of $1.20 annually "can be continued under existing conditions in the auto industry" in the opinion of the directors. The A stock closed up a point on the exchange, while the B stock fell off ⅜.

LEADING STOCKS ON N. Y. CURB ALSO TUMBLE LOWER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 9.—Heavy liquidation carried practically all the leading issues on the New York Curb exchange down sharply today, and closing prices were at or near the lows for the day in most cases, despite a slight rally in the last hour.

Utility issues atttracted the greatest volume of selling activity. Electric Bond and Share, American Superpower, Niagara Hudson, Brazilian Light and Traction, and United Light and Power all closed with losses of from one to three points. Most of the other utility stocks followed suit.

Withdraws as Purchaser of Texas Panhandle Oil

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 9.—The Humble Oil and Refining company will withdraw as a purchaser of crude oil in the Texas Panhandle area as of July 1, according to an announcement by the company at Houston today. Crude oil production in the Texas Panhandle amounts to about 110,000 barrels daily, of which the Humble company purchases approximately 10 per cent. Late last week the company announced that it would discontinue the purchase of crude oil produced in Willbarges, Archer, and Wichita counties in north central Texas.

(New York stock list page 29.)

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 9.—The bears jumped on the stock market with a sudden show of ferocity in the last hour of trading this afternoon and knocked prices tumbling in every direction. Final figures reflected losses of from 1 to 10 points in virtually every department of the list. In a half dozen or so extreme cases the declines ranged considerably higher than that. Case Threshing Machine heading the roster with a dip of 31 points.

It was one of the worst breaks the market has suffered since the big collapse of last fall.

Professional operators dumped huge blocks of shares of every description into the hopper. Prices in many instances broke two and three or more points between sales. The ticker was swamped and it was more than fifty minutes after the tap of the final gong before the last sale came out on the tape. All the pivotals were subjected to a heavy drumfire and most of them yielded sharply before any sort of support could be rallied.

Sink to Year's Lows.

Dozens of representative stocks, including many well known industrials and railroads, sunk to the lowest levels of the year.

The day's sales ran up to 4,646,270 shares, making it the biggest five-hour trading session since May 6 last.

IT PAYS TO BUY GROUP INSURANCE FROM A LOCAL COMPANY

There are three sound reasons why it is wiser to buy group insurance from a local company than from one whose home offices are situated in a distant city. (1) You can have the personal counsel of the company's executives in formulating the group insurance plan best suited to your requirements. (2) You can be assured of immediate attention to all claims. (3) You can secure frequent inspection service, thus making your plant a safer and more healthful place in which to work.

MISSOURI · KANSAS PIPE LINE SYSTEM

IN OPERATION — UNDER CONSTRUCTION

A Super-Gas System

With the announcement of the new 1250 mile pipe line from the Texas Panhandle to Central Indiana, the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Company becomes definitely a super-gas system.

The company operates as a complete unit in natural gas production, transportation and distribution.

It owns or controls important proved reserves in five of the nation's major natural gas fields. Additional reserves are constantly being added.

Its financial condition is strong; with large cash reserves and with no bonds, notes or outstanding indebtedness.

Long term market contracts are now in operation, and other long term contracts have been secured covering important markets in Illinois and Missouri to be supplied from the 1250 mile line. It is estimated that the contracts now held and others in prospect are more than sufficient to operate the new line to capacity.

The operating management of Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Company is composed of executives who have been identified with the successful operation of mid-continent natural gas and pipe line companies for over 20 years.

Top yesterday, $12.75; average, $11.85.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today—6,000 cattle, 27,000 hogs, and 11,000 sheep.

The hog market, which has held up well for some time, hit a snag after a higher opening yesterday and prices sank to the lowest level for Monday in six weeks. Early buying at 10@15c advance on eastern and speculative account was no criterion of the later trade. Gains were quickly erased and additional cuts of 10@25c enforced near the close, with buyers in an indifferent mood even at the reduction in prices.

Larger houses refused to pass the $10.00 line and obtained nearly 4,000, mostly butchers, at the full decline. The practical top held at $10.40, although a scattering reached $10.50 at the opening. The general average was steady with Saturday at $10.05 and 15c under last Friday.

Hog Futures Active.

Activity featured the trading in hog futures yesterday at generally steady prices. June light sold at $10.35. July and September light and September mediums sold at $10.40. August light had bids of $10.35 and at the close some offers were down to $10.40, almost to a trading basis.

On the "to arrive" market heavy grades for today's delivery were bid $10.15. Light packing grades carried bids of $9.50 and heavy grades $9.25. Up to the close of last week 424 contracts for 30,528 hogs that would weigh 6,996,000 lbs. have been sold on the futures market. Of these, 6,854 that averages 247 lbs have been delivered. There were 95 open contracts at the close of the week.

In spite of the fact that buyers made a bear raid on the rank and file of cattle yesterday, prime weighty steers brought the highest prices in three weeks. Other classes showed losses of fully 25c compared with the close of last week, some grades of cows and heifers being practically unsalable at the decline.

Sheep Receipts Small.

Sheep receipts dropped short yesterday and lambs held firm at the previous week's closing quotations. Natives were sorted at $12.00@12.75, with yearlings at $9.00@10.25, according to quality and weight.

A band of medium quality California rangers sold at $12.00. Aged sheep moved slowly on a weaker basis and some sales were considered slightly lower. Only choice handy weight ewes sold above $4.00. Feeding lambs were slow to sell at steady prices.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 6,000 cattle, 27,000 hogs, and 11,000 sheep, against 8,394 cattle, 23,834 hogs, and 12,330 sheep the previous Tuesday, and 6,182 cattle, 19,887 hogs, and 8,413 sheep a year ago.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, June 9.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL—Was moderately active today, with a gradual sagging movement up to the close, the latter being a shade steadier as a result of local covering. Sales were 9,800 brls, including 9,200 brls in old contracts and 600 in new. Prime crude nominal; prime summer yellow old; spot, 8.25c; July closed, 8.41c; Sept., 8.54c; Dec., 8.35c; new: Dec., 8.05c; Jan., 8.08c; March, 8.29c.

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Effect on Retail Prices.

Lower prices announced by American Radiator and Standard Sanitary enforce the view that the long continued weakness in wholesale commodity prices must find reflection in price cutting for finished products at retail. With pig iron, steel, copper and many raw materials the lowest in years, reduction in articles made from them will have to come. Realization of this probably is one of the most bearish influences at the present time.

Pools Suspend.

A number of pools have temporarily suspended operations owing to market conditions, and unless things change this week plans for several operations may be abandoned altogether. At least a half dozen "deals" are going begging and many more are collecting dust in the desks of banking sponsors because no one will take them with the speculative situation as it is.

Elec. Bond and Share.

Liquidation in Electric Bond and Share is being well absorbed. The present reaction seems to have attracted new investment buying.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, June 9.—(AP)—Cotton goods showed a little weakening on lower bids in the Gray division today. Finished goods of a seasonal character were being liquidated in some quarters, especially in styled lines. Burlaps were quiet. May shipments were quite large, and substantially ahead of April. Moderate orders were being placed on fall men's wear suitings. Tropicals for this season were pretty closely cleaned out. Silk was quiet and silk goods continue to sell moderately.

For years, American Appraisal Service has been used to determine the value of property underlying a bond issue. Now, astute financiers realize that American Appraisal Service may also provide a basic check on the earnings available for bond interest through continuous and precise analysis of depreciation and expenditures on the property.

In addition, the Company owns over 99½% of the Common Stock of the Central Maine Power Company, of the Cumberland County Power and Light Company, and of the National Light, Heat and Power Company. Through the latter company it controls through ownership of the entire Common Stock, The Twin State Gas & Electric Company, and Berwick & Salmon Falls Electric Company. Through New England Industries, Inc., New England Public Service Company and an associated company control Edwards Manufacturing Company at Augusta, Maine, and Bates Manufacturing Company, Hill Manufacturing Company and Androscoggin Mills in Lewiston, Maine.

The operating companies with their subsidiaries serve at retail a total of 583 thriving industrial and farming communities having an estimated combined population of 975,673 in the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, and New York. JULY COTTON OFF 50 POINTS

Pressure on July cotton, with poor buying support, carried it off 50 to 55 points yesterday equalling nearly $3.00 a bale. Liquidation and professional selling was conspicuous. Liverpool was closed. Weather conditions were in the main favorable and there was much short selling as prices receded.

At the close new crop futures were off 12 to 18 points in New York and 12 to 16 points in other markets. Spots lost 50 points, New York, 15.20c; New Orleans, 14.35c; Galveston, 14.50c and Houston, 14.35c. Prices follow:

PROVISION TRADE SMALL

A light trade and a narrow range of prices was on in provisions yesterday, with hogs 10c to 25c lower and receipts at western points less than a week and a year ago. There was fair buying at times which was easy supplied and the close was at little change from the previous day. Bellies were nominally unchanged with only a few trades.

Exports of lard for the week were 11,329,000 lbs., against 10,119,000 lbs., last year. Of bacon there were 4,812,000 lbs, against 5,844,000 lbs last year. Prices follow:

Electric Power & Light Corporation
Cumulative $6 Preferred Stock
(No Par Value)

Dividends will be payable quarterly January 1, April 1, July 1, and October 1. Will be redeemable as a whole or in part upon 30 days' notice at $110 per share and accrued dividend, upon vote of not less than a majority of the outstanding Common Stock.

For further particulars concerning the Corporation and its Cumulative $6 Preferred Stock, we refer to the letter of Mr. C. E. Groesbeck, President of the Corporation, which we summarize as follows:

Business and Territory — Electric Power & Light Corporation controls a diversified group of companies supplying electric power and light and other public utility service in the ten states of Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Texas, Colorado, Utah, Idaho, Wyoming, Nevada and Oregon. The operating subsidiaries serve a total of 869 communities and the aggregate population of the territory served is estimated at 2,128,000. The electric properties in Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi are interconnected and operated as a unit, and will be interconnected with New Orleans Public Service Inc. Upon the placing in operation of a transmission line now nearing completion.

The corporation, through its newly created subsidiary, United Gas Corporation (incorporated March 29, 1930), occupied an important position in the natural gas industry. Extensive gas reserves are owned in Texas and Louisiana. Gas is sold under long term contracts, directly or indirectly, largely for industrial consumption in a territory extending from St. Louis to Monterey, Mexico, including among other cities, St. Louis, Atlanta, Birmingham, Memphis, New Orleans, Monroe, Dallas, Fort Worth, Beaumont, Port Arthur, Orange, Houston, San Antonio, Austin, Laredo and Monterey. Sales for 1929 were approximately 160 billion cubic feet. The gas transportation system owned comprises more than 2,000 miles of main pipeline. A large volume of the gas is utilized by electric generating stations of subsidiaries of the corporation and other public utility companies in Texas and Louisiana and nearby states as fuel for the generation of electric energy.

Purpose of Issue — Proceeds from the sale of this cumulative $6 Preferred Stock will be used for general corporate purposes of the Corporation.

Consolidated Statement — For the twelve months ended March 31, 1930, earning of the Corporation (including undistributed earnings of subsidiaries after Renewal and Replacement and Depletion Appropriations), as shown in the President's letter, were equal to more than 2¼ times total annual dividend requirements on all Preferred Stocks of the Corporation outstanding at March 31, 1930, and including this issue. (These indicated earnings include earnings of no subsidiaries of United Gas Corporation except Louisiana Gas & Fuel Company and its subsidiaries, heretofore directly controlled by Electric Power & Light Corporation.)

Equity — The Preferred Stocks will be followed by Second Preferred Stock, Series A, and Common Stock, which, with Option Warrants outstanding, have an indicated market value, based upon present quotations, aggregating more than $200,000,000.

Supervision — Electric Bond and Share Company is identified in a supervisory capacity (under the direction and control of the Boards of Directors of the respective companies) with the operations of Electric Power & Light Corporation and its subsidiary companies.

Legal matters in connection with the issuance of this cumulative $6 Preferred Stock will be passed upon by Messrs. Winthrop, Stimson, Putnam & Roberts of New York and for the Corporation by Messrs. Simpson, Thacher & Bartlett of New York.

This stock is offered when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to the approval of counsel and subject to necessary authorization by stockholders. It is expected that delivery will be made on or about July 2, 1930 in the form of temporary stock certificates or interim receipts of bankers trust Company.

Price $100.50 a share and accrued dividend from July 1, 1930, to yield over 5.95%.

To the Holders of Admission Passes to the Observation Gallery:

We are sorry that the vast throng of visitors to the opening of the new Board of Trade Building yesterday made it impossible to take care of all pass holders to the Observation Gallery for their promised view of the city.

If you were disappointed, we are sincerely sorry. But your disappointment shall not be permanent! Bring your ticket to the Board of Trade Building tomorrow—the next day—or whenever it is convenient. It will be honored any day.

BEARS PUT THE SKIDS BENEATH N. Y. STOCK LIST

Prices Slide Down 1 to 10 Points Generally.

Of the total approximately 1,800,000 were turned over in the last fifty minutes of business.

Liquidation was at its worst when the closing gong sounded, few issues showing any disposition whatever to display rallying powers. The whole market wound up weak and feverish and traders, big and little, made little pretense of concealing their anxiety over the ease with which prices had yielded to bear onslaughts.

Nervous Holders.

While the bulk of the offerings, particularly in the earlier stages, no doubt came from professionals operating for a break, a considerable volume just as certainly came from holders who had grown nervous over the market's action last Saturday when the downward movement first began to assume really serious proportions.

United States Steel common closed at 161⅞, off 2⅜ points, and at its lowest point for the year. At this price Steel was within 12 points of its so-called panic low price of last April.

Amusements, Utilities Hit.

Amusement and utility stocks were about the hardest hit as groups. The railroads had to pay the piper on their final earnings reports for April, in addition to sharing in the popular rout. The motors came about the nearest to escape, due in part to their tendency here of late to keep in the background.

Among the many stocks to record new lows for the year or longer were:

Issues as Erie, Hudson Motors, St. Paul preferred, Rock Island, Simmons, Studebaker, American Radiator, Manhattan Electric Supply, Lima Locomotive, American Commercial Alcohol, United States Industrial Alcohol, International Nickel, Coty and Thompson Products.

WHEAT GAINS AS NEW BOARD OF TRADE OPENS

Drought Reports Are Market Influence.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Immense throngs which crowded the trading floor of the new Chicago Board of Trade yesterday had a tendency to check speculative business in the grain markets, but wheat showed a distinctly firm undertone due to continued dry weather in the American and Canadian northwest.

Local traders were disposed to fight an advance, but started to cover toward the last, and the finish was about the top, with the bulge checked by selling against offers. Net gains were 1¼@1½c, with July $1.07¼@1.07½ and September $1.10⅝@1.10½ to $1.10⅝. Winnipeg led the upturn and closed 1⅝@2c higher. Kansas City dragged early, but was 1¼c higher at the last.

Numerous complaints regarding dry weather with high winds were received from parts of Alberta and Saskatchewan and attracted considerable attention, as the forecast was for generally fair and warm, while showers were predicted in the Dakotas and Minnesota. Weather conditions in the southwest were favorable for harvesting and thrashing in Texas and Oklahoma, with satisfactory yields shown in the Texas panhandle. New wheat has started to move there, with three cars received at Fort Worth, Tex., so far, and Wichita, Kas., had two cars of new grain from Oklahoma.

Sentiment Mixed.

Part of the late bulge in wheat was due to buying by H. J. Blum and other locals who have not been active in the market for some time past, but while many traders continue to feel that the trend of values will be dominated by weather conditions in the spring wheat area, there are also a number who are inclined to be bearish due to the immense stock of old wheat on hand, while the movement of the new promises to be under way in volume in the immediate future, and so far there has been no evidence of foreign demand. Imports of feedstuffs are being constantly made from European and South American countries, and a New York importer recently bought bran to arrive from Greece.

It was claimed that around 1,500,000 bu Manitoba wheat had been sold by Winnipeg interests over the week end, a surprisingly good business in view of the holiday in Europe. A decrease of 2,363,000 bu was shown in the domestic visible supply, making the total 114,483,000 bu against 94,487,000 bu last year.

Light Trade in Corn.

Strength in wheat put a damper on bearish activities in the corn market, and more than offset the favorable weather for the new crop. Closing trades were ½@¾c higher, July being 81⅞c, and September 82⅝@82½c. Trade was mainly of a local character. Country offerings were not large and the eastern demand slow. Weather conditions were favorable for cultivating the crop.

Oats held within a range of ¼@⅜c, with the action of other grains the main influence, and the finish was at the top, with prices up ¼@⅜c, July closing at 40½c, and September, 40¼c. Crop comments were somewhat mixed, with the best prospect in 15 years claimed in the Texas panhandle.

A.G. SPALDING CO. PLANS STORE AT LA SALLE-QUINCY

Sporting Goods Firm May Open Other Branches.

Negotiations are reported as under way on a lease through which A. G. Spalding & Brothers, sporting goods dealers, will have a store in the financial district. The space considered is on the ground floor at the northwest corner of Quincy and La Salle in the 208 La Salle building—in the quarters occupied by the bond department of the Continental National bank before its merger with the Illinois Merchants.

Douglas H. Tweedie, general manager of the western division of the Spalding company, states that the proposal to have a La Salle street store is in the nature of an experiment, for if it is successful other branches may be opened. He expects the La Salle street shop to open about July 15. The proposed lease is for ten years at an undisclosed rental and the area covered fronts thirty-five feet on La Salle and sixty-two feet on Quincy.

75 Other Stores.

The Spalding company was organized in Chicago in 1876. Its principal store here is at 211 South State. It has seventy-five other stores throughout the country. The 208 La Salle Building corporation is the lessor in the lease under negotiation. Albert H. Wetten & Co., are brokers.

A lease dated May 12, 1930, was filed for record yesterday whereby Albert J. Hoppe rents the two story building at 613-19 North Ogden avenue to the Firestone Tire & Rubber company for ten years from Dec. 1, 1929. The terms of the lease call for an annual rental of $3,180, with an option of renewal for five years at the same rent and an option to purchase for $40,000.

Frank C. Weber has transferred the 156x225 feet of vacant property at the southeast corner of 63d street and Lowe avenue—opposite the site of Balaban & Katz's proposed Englewood movie—to the Chicago City Bank and Trust company.

Milwaukee Avenue Lease.

The Illinois Hertz Drivurself Stations, Inc., has leased the property at 2663-67 Milwaukee avenue, 75x125 feet, from Charles J. Meyer for twenty-five years and six months from Nov. 1, 1930, for a term rental of $112,500. By the terms of the lease the automobile company is to erect a building to cost not less than $25,000. It is expected that work on the building will start in two or three months. There will be stores in the front of the building and a garage to accommodate 100 cars at the rear. Grossman & Grossman were attorneys for the lessee.

The apartment building at 1631 North Wells street has been transferred by Mary E. Foster to Karl C. Wettstone for an undisclosed consideration. The lot is 41x120 feet. Mayer, Meyer, Austrian & Platt were attorneys.

Great Western Sugar.

Great Western Sugar company has reduced its dividend rate. What is the outlook for this company and what were its earnings last year? I bought the stock at around $30 per share. L. T. T.

Great Western Sugar company, largest domestic beet sugar producer, was incorporated in 1905 as a consolidation of several companies then operating. It owns beet sugar factories in Colorado, Montana, Nebraska, and Wyoming, and a molasses sugar refinery at Johnstown, Colo.

Earnings have varied widely. After the fiscal year ended Feb. 29, 1924, when net income of $12,004,304 was reported, profits declined steadily for three years, reaching a low point of $3,365,713 in the year ended Feb. 28, 1927.

Net income for the year ended Feb. 28, 1930, was $5,810,267, against $7,785,699 the year before, and $3,530,568 in the year ended Feb. 29, 1928.

Earnings in the latest fiscal year were 5.53 times preferred dividend requirements and were equal to $2.64 per share on 1,800,000 no par common shares, against $3.74 per share on a like number of shares the year before. The recent unsatisfactory earnings were attributed to a smaller output and lower prices for sugar prevailing. Sugar content of last year's crop was said to be below normal, and weather conditions were regarded as unfavorable.

With the payment of a 35 cent dividend on the common stock July 2, 1930, the annual rate will be reduced to $1.40 per share. Previously the rate had been $2.80 per share.

Marion Steam Shovel.

Am contemplating purchasing some stock in the Marion Steam Shovel company, Marion, O., and would appreciate your advice along this line, in so far as the condition of this company, classification of this stock, etc., is concerned. D. J. R.

Marion Steam Shovel company, manufacturer of a complete line of power excavating machines and other equipment, had net income for 1929 of $534,185, equal to $3.17 per share on the common.

This represents an increase of almost 43 per cent over net of $373,868 for 1928.

As of Dec. 31, 1929, current assets were $7,881,067 and current liabilities $1,947,723, a ratio of 4 to 1.

Preferred dividends have been regularly paid, but none have been reported on the common since January, 1929.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, June 9.—SUGAR—Raw was quiet today and, as no sales were reported, prices were unchanged at 3.27c for spots duty paid. Raw futures were firm early on covering and some buying by houses with Cuban connections, promoted by reports of the sale of a large amount of Cuban sugar to Russia at the close of last week, but offerings increased on the upturn and setbacks followed. NATURAL GAS
The Most Profitable Utility

To the several diversified groups of Southwestern communities for which Southern Union already supplies Natural Gas, it is now adding Albuquerque and Santa Fé, two of the largest and best known cities in a great and growing section of the United States.

The Company takes a justifiable satisfaction in knowing that its own increasing prosperity is based and conditioned upon the added prosperity which its service brings to the many cities in which it now holds franchises. It is no more eager to obtain the new business they provide than they are to experience the benefits, industrial and domestic, which follow the advent of the natural gas pipe line.

SYNOPSIS.

Catherine West of Boston, on her way to Paris, meets Geoffrey Macadam in the Havre Paris train. Macadam is an Englishman who lives in Paris. Catherine tells him that she is going to visit her cousin's widow, Mme. Belmont Bender. She is a little apprehensive about the coming visit because she had received, just before sailing, a letter from Miss Cushing, who tells her that Mme. Bender is far from well. Macadam is a lawyer and he tells Catherine that his firm handles Mme. Bender's affairs, but he doesn't know the widow very well. He had heard that she was ill. Arrived in Paris, Catherine is a little disappointed when her cousin's chauffeur is not at the station to meet her. Geoffrey sees her into a taxi, giving her his address and telephone number. He tells her that he will be anxious to know how things are at the Bender apartment and she promises to call him. Arrived at Mme. Bender's apartment, she is treated coldly by the servants, and Jeanne, Mme. Bender's maid, suggests that she go to a hotel. Catherine insists on staying in the apartment, as she is suspicious of the servants. Jeanne tells her that Mme. Bender attempted to commit suicide the night before. The next morning Catherine goes in to see Germaine Bender, who is pathetically glad to see her. She tells Catherine how she had taken poison by mistake.

Geoffrey invites Catherine to dine with him and it is a relief for her to get out of the apartment and to tell him of her vague fears. He is disturbed, too. Geoffrey escorts her back to the apartment.

The next morning Catherine calls on Miss Cushing, who takes her to her milliner. There she sees a man she has noticed hanging around the Bender apartment. Back in the apartment, she finds the gallery open for the first time, and she goes in, only to discover a number of pictures and tapestries missing. She asks Jeanne about them and the maid says they were sold shortly before Mr. Bender's death. Catherine feels she is lying and believes she and Eduardo are thieves. She finds Jeanne is exerting a baneful influence on Mme. Bender. Jeanne denounces Catherine to the invalid.

Geoffrey again takes Catherine out to dinner and she unburdens herself to him. He has already put an investigator on the case. When he takes her back to the Bender apartment he takes her in his arms as he says good-night. Catherine responds to his kiss. He asks her to marry him, but she wants time to be certain of her feelings. On the way to her room she hears Germaine sobbing and goes to her. She retires hurriedly at Jeanne's return. Next morning Catherine is violently ill and the doctor is called in. On recovering, Catherine goes to visit Geoffrey's sister at Fontainebleau.

Geoffrey discovers that Blom, the mysterious person seen around the Bender apartment, is seeking a possible heir to the Bender fortune. Shortly after this discovery Blom's engagement to Mme. Baron, a widow, whose maiden name is the family name of Mme. Bender, is announced.

A fire breaks out in Mme. Bender's apartment early in the morning and she is burned to death. Most of the building is saved. Catherine had returned suddenly to Paris the night before and when Geoffrey hears of the disaster he rushes to find her. The servants say she came to the apartment.

INSTALLMENT LXII.

AN UNREVEALING SEARCH.

Geoffrey made at once for the passage leading to Catherine's bedroom.

Although the court side of the apartment had been gutted by fire, the exterior portion was untouched. He reached the familiar chamber, threw open the door, and cast a searching glance around.

The bed was smooth beneath its toile de Jouy cover, the dressing table bare save for a few stray bottles and scattered oddments. There was no sign of luggage, nor anything to indicate the girl's return. Opening the cupboard he descried Catherine's gray squirrel coat, an evening wrap, and several frocks, none of which he had seen her wear at Fontainebleau. Three or four pairs of shoes were ranged on the floor beneath, while upon the shelf lay a couple of felt hats beside an oval hatbox.

Utter blankness assailed him. If she did not come here, where on earth could she have gone? How could one explain the light in the window at a quarter past one, the shadow on the blind? Only a few short hours ago the feeling of her proximity to him had been so strong that now it was impossible to erase the impression.

As he stood there looking about him a sickening fear crept into his mind.

"Tell me this much first: at what time did the fire start?"

...did come home. Whatever Jeanne and Eduardo might declare to the contrary, she was here from midnight. Inconceivable for her to have slept through the clamor and excitement—no one, unless drugged, could possibly have done so.

Rapidly the conviction grew upon him that there was something sinister in back of all this, some solution his reason shrank from facing. Terror clutched at his heart as he closed the door and made his way back towards the front.

Drawing the police sergeant out of earshot of the salon, he poured forth his incoherent story. His auditor, stolidly inattentive, began at last to realize that the young Englishman was in earnest, whereupon he brought his eyes to bear upon him with a faintly incredulous smile.

"Young lady? Disappeared from here? No, no, monsieur, you must be dreaming! There was no young lady in the apartment, as I told you just now—only two servants, whom you have seen. Look—there is the maid, who slept up on the top floor, and was roused by the fire engines. She will confirm what I say."

He motioned towards Berthe, who now loomed on the scene, eyes swollen with weeping, her vacuous face full of self-importance.

"Have you seen anything of mademoiselle?" Geoffrey demanded fiercely. "I know that she returned last night."

The china-blue eyes opened wide in frank amazement.

"But, no, assuredly not, monsieur! What makes you say that? It is today, Saturday, that we expect her, but now, of course, she will not come!"

Geoffrey turned away with an exasperated cry.

"But I tell you I know what I'm saying. She has been spending the week at my sister's in Fontainebleau. I was there last evening, and she just left for here by the 11:45 train!"

"Perhaps, monsieur, your sister was having a game with you. No doubt the young lady was there all the time and did not wish you to know. Take my advice, make sure of this before you upset yourself about her."

"I don't believe it for a moment," he rejoined shortly, "but I will put through a trunk call to find out."

Without pausing for a reply, he took a couple of strides towards the study, throwing wide the door. Instantly the sergeant bounded upon him to drag him back.

"Not in there, I beg of you, monsieur! No one is allowed in that room!"

There was no need to ask why. There confronting him, upon a stretcher placed beneath the painting of Harry Bender's favorite horse, lay a shapeless form shrouded in a sheet. The curtains were drawn, the room in semi-gloom, only that stark white mass dominating the attention with ghastly insistence.

In his ear he heard the sergeant's voice saying, "In any case, this instrument is out of order, owing to the fire. You can use the one in the ... of course——"

Geoffrey made a brief assent, motioning the other inside the study.

"Tell me this much first: at what time did the fire start?"

"The alarm was given in, I understand, at one-thirty this morning."

One-thirty . . . it was a quarter of an hour earlier that he had stopped outside.

"Do you know the cause?"

"According to the maid, the bed draperies must have caught in the flame of candles on the wall, which the victim lighted herself. Candles before a prie-dieu, monsieur. It is said that the lady was a little bit odd ——" and he touched his forehead. "She was trapped, it seems. The fire spread in a ring, and the body was found in a heap on the floor underneath the crucifix. The contents of the room were so much tinder—you can see for yourself. The servants dragged her out and wrapped her in blankets, but——" he left the sentence unfinished except for a meaning shrug.

"She was badly burned?"

"Frightfully, monsieur. Recognizable, of course. If you would care to take a look."

For a second he drew back a corner of the sheet, disclosing the grisly remains. Geoffrey cast a glance at the body, then averted his eyes. Devoutly he hoped that Catherine had been spared this sight. Tormented by indecision, he asked himself which course of action to follow first—telephone his sister, or go over the apartment on the chance of lighting upon some trace of the missing girl. He resolved upon the latter.

"Sergeant, I want you to accompany me while I make a thorough search of this floor and the one below. I must inspect everything—even the damaged portion."

"Willing, monsieur—but if you have the least fear of the young lady's having fallen a victim to the fire, let me set your mind at rest. I can assure you positively no other remains were found."

Geoffrey did not trouble to explain that it had not occurred to him that Catherine, too, had been burned to death. Such an idea was unthinkable. He felt positive it was something quite different, but find her he must, without delay. Other investigations could wait.

Together the two set out on their tour of inspection, the sergeant in the rear, mystified and a trifle bored. What was this mad Englishman driving at? Surely he had a bee in his bonnet.

Beginning with the rez de chaussée, they explored everything—picture gallery, billiard room, small salon, guests' cloakroom, lavatory, cupboards—empty and thick with dust. Apparently no one had entered them for months. Then proceeding to the entresol they inspected one after another a series of bedrooms, baths, housemaids' cupboards, linen rooms, not overlooking a single hiding place large enough to secrete a cat. The search revealed nothing whatever. The girl was simply not there, nor was there any indication of her return the previous night.

Good Morning!

This is a moderately entertaining program thriller. It is kept out of the ranks of the big fellows by a story with more dull stretches than snappy ones and by the delivery of the players, who talk, much of the time, as if they were being timed by a metronome. The picture is well cast, however, and as regards action, the director has done the best with the scenario that could have been done with it.

The picture opens with an elopement. The prospective bride and groom register as man and wife at an Atlantic City hotel. The girl remains in the room while her husband to be—or so he thinks—dashes forth for a minister and license, locking his, by that time, unenthusiastic partner in their apartment. Much happens during his absence. He returns to find his lady gone; a dead man on the floor, policemen and detectives in every nook and cranny, so to speak, and himself suspected of—still so to speak—everything from robbery to arson.

Where doth the heroine go? I'll let the picture show you that, only informing you with meaning glance that Lloyd Hughes is in the place thereof.

Miss Astor and Mr. Hughes make, as always, a personable and appealing team. Paul Hurst as a detective and Natalie Moorhead as maid at the hotel perform their duties in rather arresting fashion. There's something about that Paul Hurst. . . .!

See you soon.

St. Olaf's Choir Sings Again, Winning New Praises in Chicago

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The St. Olaf Lutheran choir, that altogether out of the ordinary organization that has been setting the pace for other college choruses for years past and has not allowed any of them to catch up yet, appeared at Orchestra hall last night, the first stop in a journey which will take them as far as Nidaros, Norway.

F. Melius Christiansen, their director, still has his secrets, and they are still potent. The choir sings entirely without accompaniment, and how they get their pitch has not yet been revealed. Under the circumstances, Dr. Christiansen must lose at least a quarter of his forces through graduation every year. Yet every succeeding year his choir appears in just as good form as on the year previous. It is all rather strange.

One looks in vain at any time for uncommonly fine individual voices. They are just run of the mine voices, perhaps a little healthier and a little sturdier than the average, but nothing in particular for an opera director hunting talent to spend his time over. It is what Dr. Christiansen does with them that becomes the wonder; how he balances them, shades them, teaches them accuracy and contrast and expression.

A featured number last night was his own Hymn of Greeting to Norway, planned to be sung in the cathedral at Nidaros June 30, Norse-American day. Here, among other combinations, he made use of an echo effect that became quite the faintest echo on record. In fact, for those in the extreme rear of Orchestra hall it was almost too confidential, yet its very faintness was effective. Compared with the jubilant outcry of Bach's "Sing Ye to the Lord," the opening number, it was hard to believe that the same choir sang both.

Dr. Christiansen's work is grave of character, but with a dignity that makes it highly impressive. It was sung in Norwegian to a poem by Rev. D. C. Jordahl of Ridgeway, Ia., but furnished with an English translation made by Prof. Olav Lee of Northfield, Minn., the home town of St. Olaf college.

As in former years, the program was entirely of sacred music from the pens of ancient, classical, and contemporary composers. For sheer charm of music as well as performance one retains a memory of Glinka's setting of the Russian Cherubim song, a work which raised and fell and died away as though an actual Russian choir was singing it. For accurate surmounting of difficult passages, there are other memories of the Bach motet, a work written for double chorus and abounding with tricky floridities which were caroled not only correctly but with an appearance of actual ease.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

Do you think that a college education is essential for success?

Answers.

Mrs. Frederic Cortis, 950 Glenlake avenue, housewife—No, I do not think so. Often college graduates have not applied themselves to the job of obtaining education. A business experience would have been of more benefit.

R. A. Hauck, 1207 Pratt boulevard, salesman — I believe a college education is essential. I am judging from my own experiences traveling around the country. Meeting all kinds of people as I do, it is not difficult to realize the importance such an education.

Robert E. Graham, United States customs inspector—Absolutely yes. I am a college graduate. The mental training in the classics makes for concentration and the ability to think and map out your plans for business.

Leroy Garston, Windsor, Canada, accountant — I do not think that a college education is essential. You know, some of the world's most famous people, whom we call successful, have, according to their history spent very little time in school. It's all in a person's makeup.

Helen Figge, 6930 Wayne avenue, secretary—I do not believe it is necessary to have a college education. I know many who are successful in life without that, although it is helpful to have had college training.

Will Send Hoover Word of Their Support.

Denver, Col., June 9.—(AP)—Only a scattering opposition greeted a resolution urging the speedy ratification of the London naval treaty upon its presentation to the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs today.

Before voting adoption the delegates accepted an amendment by Mrs. Ben Hooper of Oshkosh, Wis., chairman of the department of international relations, resolving that the federation "approve the action of President Hoover in his efforts to secure prompt action on the London naval treaty and that a telegram be sent to the President to that effect."

Mrs. Alice Cobourn Eric of Philadelphia opposed the resolution.

She said it indicated the attitude of "our President, right or wrong," and that "the greatest deliberative body in the world, the United States senate, should have ample opportunity to investigate this important pact before it consents to ratification."

"This pact," Mrs. Eric said, "impairs the standing of the United States as a sovereign power and I see no cause for an attempt to stampede the senate into ratification of the London naval treaty."

It became known today that a closed session of the General Federation of Women's clubs executive committee late Saturday night thwarted a challenge, on the floor of the convention, of the activities of members of the federation in the field of motion pictures.

A resolution had been prepared for presentation today expressing disapproval of present and past officials of the federation occupying lucrative positions with motion picture companies. It was learned that at the Saturday night meeting, the committee tabled a letter and telegram from two women's clubs of Baltimore protesting against activities of Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, Pasadena, Cal. The author of the proposed resolution did not attend the convention today. Mrs. Winter is assistant director of public relations for the motion picture producers and distributors of America.

The convention adopted the report of Mrs. Ambrose N. Diehl of Pittsburgh, setting forth the accomplishments of the motion picture committee, of which she is chairman.

Mrs. Diehl told of the work being done by the federation in many states toward helping families to select what are deemed satisfactory films. She said motion picture theater managers were coöperating and many clubs were using films in educational work.

Mrs. J. Allan Hoover of Baltimore, who had announced publicly she intended to introduce a resolution condemning the use of the federation's name in the promotion of private enterprises by members, pleaded illness today in explaining her absence from the hall when the Diehl report came up for approval.

This was announced yesterday. Mrs. Lewis has previously been honored with the medal of honor Des Epdemies, bestowed by the French war office for her nursing work.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

There will be no dancing on the Christian Endeavor excursions to Kenosha next Saturday afternoon, as was stated Sunday in the Southwest edition of the Metropolitan section. Christian Endeavor does not countenance dancing.

THE STAGE

WHEN the professional stage fails to fulfill its purpose of keeping a city amused [and its failure, here and now, is notable], it is time to recognize the amateur. So, in search of a topic, I broke the first commandment of the theatrical reviewers' guild ["Never see an amateur show"] and went to the Heigh-Ho club's debut at the Goodman last night. Oddly enough, I had a good time; and so did all of the friends, relatives and admirers of the young participants.

The Heigh-Ho club represents a grouping of graduates from the more pretentious amateur frolics that break out frequently on the three sides of the town. Some of them have professional ambitions; some might be called semi-pros already. They have the gifts of song, dance and merriment; and they have arranged for their first public appearances a revue that has all the charm of the proficient amateur stage and some of the skill of its grown-up commercial sister. The performance had a dash and gayety which justified the club's title; its young men were eager, alert and stageworthy, and its girls were attractive, well costumed and nimble of feet. One or two of the burlesque sketches [so-called "black-outs"] were effective enough, in their cynicism and humor, for use in the Broadway revues.

The printed program was of no help to a reporter, and I was unable to identify the more gifted performers by name. This, perhaps, is fortunate; for a "notice" won by amateurism often transforms a happy home girl or a rising young bond salesman into a thwarted and ineffectual trouper. I should hate to ruin the careers of any of the Heigh-Ho group; their present status suits me completely.

The performance will be repeated at the Goodman tonight. In view of the fact that there is only one professional revue in town—"The Little Show"—this pastime might appeal to a theatergoing appetite.

On the eve of his 77th birthday David Belasco is preparing four plays as his next season's contribution to Broadway. At the moment he is being secretive as to the identity of most of the quartet and other relevant details, but he says he will make known the full particulars in Atlantic City on his birthday, July 25.

One of the four is, of course, the Hattons' adaptation of the Hungarian play in which Lynne Overman will be antic and comical at the Belasco theater early in August. The literal translation of its title is "The Gigolo and the Princess," but that will be changed. The play will open in Atlantic City on July 21, and will have a second tryout week at the Brighton Beach theater before turning up on Broadway.

The new play in which Maude Adams will return to the stage after an absence of thirteen years or so will be the work of John Colton, author of "Rain" and "The Shanghai Gesture."

Members of the Lambs club have formed an organization called The Satirists, Inc., to produce "Who Cares?" an intimate revue, which will be presented on Broadway. The show is booked to open early next month after a preliminary engagement at the Brighton Beach theater, starting June 30.

Most of the numbers in "Who Cares?" have already been tested at public and private "gambols" of the Lambs. There is a possibility that De Wolf Hopper will head the company as master of ceremonies, but at the moment his engagement is uncertain. Others in the cast of fifty, which will include women principals and chorus, will be Florenz Ames, Percy Helton, Arthur Hartley, George Sweet, James Marshall, Charles Williams, Frank Allworth, Ralph Riggs, and the Templeton brothers.

The new edition of "Artists and Models" will open tonight at the Majestic theater, New York. Phil Baker, Aileen Stanley, George Hassel, Vera Pearce, and Harry Welsh will head the cast.

U. of Chicago to Award Degrees, Certificates to 843 During Day

Degrees and certificates will be awarded 843 candidates at the 160th convocation of the University of Chicago today. The ceremony will be held in two sections, the advanced degrees being conferred at 11 a. m. and college degrees at 3 p. m., both services to be held in the university chapel.

Fourteen of the candidates are foreigners, five being Chinese, two Japanese, two English, one Siamese, one Tasmanian, one Filipino, one Rumanian, and one German. Most of this group plan to return to their native countries to teach.

President Hutchins will be the only speaker at the convocation. Breaking from tradition, he will make no statement of the quarter's gifts to the university, but will devote his address to a question of adjustments between the university and students.

Tom Mix Plays Irate Parent in Real Romance

Daughter Elopes, Wed to Douglas Gilmore, Actor.

Hollywood, Cal., June 9.—[Special.] Despite her father's efforts, through the law agencies of two states, to stop her, Ruth Jane Mix, daughter of Tom Mix, movie star, eloped from Hollywood to Yuma, Ariz., this morning and married Douglas Gilmore, actor.

Miss Mix is 17 years old. She is a daughter of Tom and Mrs. Olive Mix, his former wife. Her father learned at 1 o'clock this mornng that his daughter had fled from Hollywood with Gilmore. Mix wired to county and city police authorities in all nearby county seats.

Toward noon, Mix's attorney, Michael Narlian, received word the elopers were headed for Yuma, Ariz., but before he got in touch with the sheriff at that Arizona Gretna Green, the couple were married there.

When Mix received a telegram saying his daughter had been married he smiled regretfully and said: "I should have taken my horse and gone after them myself."

Gilmore was married before. He and Renee Adoree announced their engagement at a party given by Kathleen Clifford, Hollywood actress, in 1926. When Mrs. Gilmore, then in New York, sent him a telegram of inquiry, Gilmore replied that the Adoree announcement was merely a joke.

In 1928 Gilmore was arrested while asleep in the garage of a householder who thought himself molested by a burglar. The police later testified that Gilmore was in doubt as to where he was. He received a thirty day jail sentence with the alternative of a fine.

Ruth Jane Mix's custody and support money was the cause of much litigation between Tom and his divorced wife, Mrs. Olive Mix. The girl was born when Mix was a struggling cowboy actor in a circus, at times an extra in the early days of the movies.

Mix sought to have Ruth Jane sent to schools in Europe and this country, but instead she went into vaudeville With her mother as her business agent she made a vaudeville tour. She afterward got jobs as a movie actress.

Pageant Shows History of Garrett Institute from 1855 to Present

The spirit and history of Garrett Biblical institute was depicted in a "Garrett pageant" last night in Patten gymnasium, Northwestern university, as a feature of the 75th anniversary of that seminary.

Six episodes were presented by about 100 characters. They portrayed the development of the institute since its founding in 1855. The cast was supported by the A Cappella choir of Northwestern university under the direction of Dean Peter C. Lutkin; the R. Nathaniel Dett Choral club, directed by Walter A. Powers. The Orchesis of Northwestern, under the leadership of Mrs. Greta Krans, presented symbolic dance interludes. Harold A. Ehrensperger directed the entire production.

Bishop Francis J. McConnell, president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, will deliver an address this morning on "Some Major Problems in Christian Theology." This afternoon, President F. C. Eiselen of Garrett will deliver the historical address of the celebration.

Negro Sculptor Displays Work; Other Exhibits

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

For a month which customarily has little of novelty to announce, but the closing of galleries for the summer, this June is singularly alive. A number of new exhibitions have just been formally announced. The Woman's City club is opening its new headquarters at 6 North Michigan avenue with an exhibition of sculpture by Richmond Barthé, a young Negro artist. His "Tortured Head" won honorable mention at the Harmon Award exhibit in New York recently.

The Chester H. Johnson gallery on the second floor of the Fine Arts building is showing paintings and water colors by Leopold Survage and paintings and water colors by Pedro Pruna.

The Newberry library announces an exhibition of posters by European artists shown here through the courtesy of the New York Art center and to remain on view through June and July. Another exhibition of posters is being displayed in the Lakeside Press galleries. The showing is cosmopolitan, giving superb examples of the posters are of Europe today, including the bolshevik posters from Russia and the more conservative travel posters of Switzerland and England.

An interesting little exhibit of water colors, drawings, and woodcuts has just been arranged in the Kroch gallery. Among the artists represented are Otto Freundlich, August Tschinkel, Franz W. Seiwert, Gert Arntz, and Heinrich Hoerle. The exhibit continues to June 15.

The Art institute has two important openings this week. Tomorrow in the children's museum on the first floor the work of the Saturday morning classes will be put on view and Thursday sees the opening in the east wing galleries on the second floor of the annual exhibition of work by students in the Art institute art school.

The twenty-seventh annual student exhibition of the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts founded by Carl Werntz will be shown in the school studios at 18 South Michigan avenue this week from June 12 through June 15. Mr. Werntz has just returned from a six months' world art research and sketching trip.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, June 9.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Irving Brokaw and Miss Lucille Brokaw have gone to Europe for the summer. Their country place near Mill Neck, Frost Hill Lodge, is being occupied for the season by Mrs. Herbert Pulitzer.

Princess Hohenlohe Schillingfurst, who passed the early part of the season at her country place on the sound shore at Bayville, has arranged to sail on July 5 for Europe and to remain abroad all summer.

Miss Olive Whitman of Hotel Delmonico has gone to Newport for the season.

Mrs. Chance Vought will give a supper dance tomorrow evening for Miss Katrinka Van C. Suydam and Frederick E. C. Roelker, who will be married on Wednesday.

Young Man Talks Back to Girls Who Flout Their Virtues

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Yesterday we promised our space here today to the younger crowd that they might speak their own language to their own generation. "John" is elected speaker for this occasion. His talk is an answer to "Marjorie," whose wail was the hackneyed one of "nice girls can't get dates."

Says he: "Marjorie is good looking, doesn't smoke, doesn't drink, doesn't pet, which, in her mind, equals a nice girl. One might just as well say Marjorie is good looking, doesn't smoke, doesn't drink, doesn't pet, therefore she is Queen Marie.

"The mere fact that Marjorie is good to look at, does not drink, smoke or pet does not necessarily make her a nice girl. If Marjorie were a really 'nice' girl she'd have plenty of companionship.

"The trouble with the Marjories is that they are so conscious of their virtue that they get the impression they are superior sorts of beings, and act as if they were some sort of glorified goddesses. They think their virtue gives them the right to demand rare attention. They're 'abused' if their plans aren't followed to the letter. They make a fellow feel a brute. They're simply not good scouts.

"I should advise any girl who has to sit alone while other girls dance to look squarely into the business of good scoutsmanship. That's where the lonelies fall down, every time. And by good scout, I don't mean another darned thing than a good scout, as a brother would refer to his sister of the type.

Or, to go at it another way 'round, the trouble with the nice girl is that she is too darned nice for comfort. No girl ever lost a date with a fellow worth his salt because she was nice. Girls aren't dated because they pet, drink and smoke. They're dated in spite of their 'habits' because they're rattling good sports; because they don't try to dictate, boss, control, order, weigh or measure every little male pass.

"The very fact that a girl boasts she is too nice to be popular proves her a conceited little prig. She is petty; can't and won't see a fellow's point of view."

And that, we add, is delivering the unpopular - because - she - is - nice - girl a stiff uppercut, is it not?

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Love and Business.

"Dear Miss Blake: When I go out with the one I love he tells me he loves me and shows it. When I'm working with him he does not show it much. MILLIE."

You must not expect him to show you any attention during business hours, as he must devote his time to his work.

Variable Conduct.

"Dear Miss Blake: My friend is very nice to me when we are alone, but among friends he is rude. Please advise. RUTH."

Tell him unless he can show you more consideration you prefer to stop seeing him.

South Shore's Horse Show to Open Tonight

BY THALIA ———.

Good weather is all that is necessary to make the opening tonight of the South Shore Country club's annual horse show a gay and picturesque event.

Horses have been entered from all parts of the country, including the famous Army Olympic jumping team. The show will continue until Saturday evening, with afternoon and evening performances on each day and a special exhibition for children on Saturday morning.

A reception and dance will be held after the opening performance tonight and the annual horse show ball will take place after the Saturday night show.

Joseph E. Hitt and C. Groverman Ellis are chairman and secretary, respectively, of the committee in charge, which includes Edwin F. Weary, Charles H. Markham, Edward J. Stevens, Henry W. Wehr, Henry P. Conkey, Ralph R. Bradley, Charles Piez, and W. J. Sutherland. Mrs. Charles Dunbar is chairman of the women's committee of entertainment.

Richard Bennett, who is starring in "Solid South" at the Harris theater, and Mrs. Bennett gave late last night one of those gay and smart after theater parties that have become so popular at the bungalow on the roof of the Hotel Sherman. The guest list included an interesting mixture of theatrical, artistic and social personalities, among them, the Thomas Wheelers, the Thomas Gowenlocks, Preston Boyden, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Byfield, Mr. and Mrs. Paget Cady, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Henry Little, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Carpenter, Miss Helen Rend, Miss Peggy Hambleton, Libby Holman, and Clifton Webb of the "Little Show."

The Lake Forest youngsters who are in the fourth grade of the Alcott school are to give their class play, "The Plot That Was Spoiled," written and staged by themselves, this morning. The two acts are "outside Fort Nassau on the Delaware river in the year 1630," and it is apparently a warlike drama, as the cast is divided into the Dutch—including Robert Gardner, Gordon Bent, Emerson Chandler, Barbara Mabbatt, Peggy McIlvaine, and Edith Porter—and the Indians, who are to be portrayed by Charles Glore, Grace Shumway, Peggy Burrows, Grant Bryan, Donald Douglas, Marie Louise Hulburd, Billy Mitchell, Mardo Pattou, Anita Smith, and Anne Stewart.

Count Ruggero Visconti, an interesting young Italian nobleman who is staying in Chicago for some time to study financial and banking methods in this country, is to ride in the Hinsdale horse show next Sunday. He is one of the crack horsemen of the Italian cavalry, and is to ride a horse that belonged to the late Rudolph Valentino. Mr. and Mrs. Victor Buchanan of Hinsdale will have him as their guest over the week-end.

Plans are being made by the Lawsonia Country club for the invitation regatta for E boats to be held by the Inland Lakes Yachting association on Green lake on July 31 and Aug. 1 and 2. A dinner dance for the amateur sailors on Saturday night will conclude the affair. Charles E. Rollins Jr. and John H. Dunham are in charge of the arrangements. Mr. and Mrs. Philip T. Starck and their children of Wellington avenue have taken a house at Lawsonia for the season and are planning to depart on Thursday.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Couch, whose engagement to Alfred Norval Mitchell of London, England was announced last week, has returned from Europe, where she has been for the winter, and is with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Couch, at their summer place at the Glenview club. Miss Couch and Mr. Mitchell are to be married in September and are to reside in India.

Mr. and Mrs. Simeon B. Chapin Jr. of New York City and Greenwich, Conn., are being congratulated upon the birth of a daughter on June 5 at the Doctors' hospital in New York City. Mrs. Chapin was Miss Elsa Bartholomay before her marriage, and is the daughter of the Henry Bartholomays. The baby is to be named Marina.

The Theodore Robinsons of Lake Forest, their daughter, Mrs. Ronald Boardman, and Theodore Jr. have returned to Lake Forest after a sojourn of three months in Europe. They returned recently on th S. S. Bremen, as also did the Sewell Averys of Evanston.

Jarvis Hunt and his son, Jarvis Hunt Jr., have closed their apartment at 900 North Michigan avenue and are sailing on the Bremen to take a motor trip through Europe. Mrs. Lytton Buonello is also sailing on the Bremen for a European trip.

BACK FROM EUROPE

[Press Newspaper Service Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson Armour returned from Europe last week on the Ile de France with their daughter, Miss Elsa Armour, and Miss Beatrice Kirk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Kirk. Miss Armour and Miss Kirk, who have been studying in Paris since last September, will be debutantes next season.

Adult Movies Are Not for Children, Says Mrs. Bevans

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

A list of toys and playthings for children from babyhood up will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

I'm sure I quoted the little boy who went to the movies and saw an especially "passionate" picture, and who, when he got out said, "I didn't like that—it made me feel all funny and shivery."

An amusing grownup relative of mine says, "When some things happen on the screen, I feel as if I'd like to crawl under the seat until they're over."

Not long ago I went to a mystery movie in which a feeble old man is victimized for his money. The scenes in which they gave him drugs, and the depicting of torture made me almost ill. Many children were at all of these films. There are children at every performance in every theater. In the course of practically every program at a movie theater children see cruelty, or vulgarity, or graphic emphasis upon sex emotionalism. These things may come in the logical development of an interesting, even a fine picture—or they may be dragged in for a lurid sensationalism. The fact remains that they are not meat for the mind and spirit of a child.

A child as he grows is building up his ideas and ideals. The story which the movie has to tell today will not help him. So, with movies as they are today—not as they could be—it is my personal conviction that children under 11 [to set an age] should not be taken to the movies, unless to a special picture the parents have seen first. Children have plenty of interests. They need fresh air and exercise; they should be making their own amusement. If they've never formed the movie habit, they'll never miss it—they'll never crave it.

Life can be filled with other absorbing things—things which take doing not watching. And doing is their great need. This is not idle talk which can't be carried out. Having put this plan into effect, I have proof that it can be done.

Consecration June 18 for Dr. G. C. Stewart as Bishop Coadjutor

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Ratification by a majority of the bishops and standing committees of the American Episcopal church of the election of the Rev. Dr. George Craig Stewart, Evanston, as Bishop Coadjutor of Chicago, was announced today by Bishop Sheldon M. Griswold. Tentative plans had been laid to hold the consecration of Bishop elect Stewart on June 18 in St. Luke's church, Evanston, in order to permit the new prelate to attend the Lambeth conference of Anglican bishops in London this summer. The approval of Dr. Stewart's election by the entire American church through the bishops and diocesan standing committees confirms the plan for holding the consecration on June 18.

The primate of the Episcopal church, the Most Rev. James DeWolf Perry of New York, announced that he will come to Chicago as Dr. Stewart's consecrator. The ancient laws of the church require that two other bishops assist the primate as co-consecrators. Bishop Griswold of Chicago will act as one of the co-consecrators. Dr. Stewart was elected coadjutor on May 13. His consecration will be the first to take place in this diocese in 20 years.

It is stated that Bishop Irving P. Johnson of Colorado will preach the sermon, while leading clergy from over the central west will be present for the services. No announcement has yet been made as to Dr. Stewart's successor at St. Luke's church, Evanston. It has been unofficially stated that Dr. Stewart will continue to hold title as rector after he becomes a bishop. Until his death, Bishop Charles P. Anderson was the rector of the Church of the Epiphany, Ashland boulevard and West Adams street. He administered the parish through an assistant, the Rev. J. F. Plummer.

War Mothers Cast Wreaths on Ocean to Honor War Dead

New York, June 9.—(AP)—To honor the memory of American soldiers, sailors, marines and coast guards who lost their lives at sea during the world war, California Gold Star mothers on their way to France to visit the graves of their sons cast four wreaths into the Atlantic from tht S. S. America today.

While a bugler sounded "taps" the flag flew at half mast, according to a radiogram received at the offices of the United States Lines. Wreaths were dropped overboard by Mrs. Ettie M. Brown of Hollywood and Mrs. Emily Andrews, Mrs. May Brucker, and Mrs. Ellen Kelly of San Francisco.

The Rev. Francis P. Duffy, chaplain of New York's famous "fighting Sixty-ninth," who is journeying to France to make arrangements for his regiment's reunion there next year, and the Rev. E. Bertram Runnall of Calvary church, Syracuse, were speakers at the ceremony.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—The secretary of war and Mrs. Hurley gave a dinner tonight in their Belmont street home. Mrs. R. P. Lamont and Miss Gertrude Lamont, wife and daughter of the secretary of commerce, have set June 21 for their departure by motor for their home in Lake Forest, Ill.

Associate Justice Owen J. Roberts, recently sworn in as successor to the late Associate Justice Sanford on the United States Supreme court, accompanied by Mrs. Roberts, has returned from their home in Kimberton, Pa., for a few days' stay at the Mayflower before leaving for the summer.

Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican National committee, has issued invitations for the marriage of his daughter, Alice, to Fulton Lewis Jr., Saturday, June 28, at 4:30 in the Church of the Epiphany.

Food Talk.

Beautiful, golden brown, symmetrical nuggets. When broken apart there is revealed a delicate sponge-like texture colored like sunshine. Palatable even to the most jaded appetite. That is my idea of "muffins." Not sunken balls of dough with big knobs on one side that might be used for handles; or big tunnels running in all directions through the crumbs.

Where I eat breakfast, they serve muffins that make your mouth water. And when I want to depart from staid toast and rolls, I immediately visualize "muffins."

It is an easy matter to make lovely muffins. There is a trick to it, but but when you've once learned the trick you will wonder why you ever had "just the worst luck with them." We don't have to worry about having a special type of flour, or a certain fineness of sugar. Commercial fats and oils are equally good. Canned or bottled milk does not change the product. But we do have to take just a little care in our mixing.

It is important that we assemble the ingredients before we start putting them together, and that we collect equipment and oil the tins well before starting. Mix and sift the dry ingredients together into the bowl in which the mixing is to be done. Then make a "well" in the center. Beat the eggs in a separate bowl. Add the liquid to this. Then add the fat which has been melted and then cooled.

Immediately, before the fat has a chance to harden, pour the liquid into the "well" in the dry ingredients. With a mixing spoon stir the material until the dry ingredients are only just dampened. Stop there. The time required for doing this should not be more than 20 seconds. It is the extra stirring that causes the little knobs and bumps.

Dip the batter into the muffin tins. Try to put the correct amount in each section at one time. When more batter is added later, we have cracks and an uneven texture in the finished muffin.

Bake the muffins in a quick oven, 425 degrees Fahrenheit, for about 20 minutes. They will be golden brown and a pleasant treat for every one who eats them.

SUMMARY.

The secret of making muffins is to mix the liquid and dry ingredients as quickly as possible. Stop when the flour is all moistened. Immediately dip the batter into the muffin tins. The mixing and dipping into tins must be uninterrupted. Time out for answering the telephone or picking up the baby will spoil muffins.

RECIPES.

CURRANT MUFFINS.
2 cups of bread flour.
4 teaspoons baking powder.
1 cup milk.
2 tablespoons sugar.
2 tablespoons melted butter.
1 egg.
½ cup of washed dry currants.

Sift flour, then measure. Resift with other dry ingredients into mixing bowl. Add milk and butter to beaten egg. Make a depression in the dry ingredients, pour in the liquid and mix as quickly as possible. Too much stirring results in compact, ill shaped muffins. Add currants with last few stirs. Pour batter at once into oiled muffin tins. Bake in a hot oven [425 degrees Fahrenheit] 20 to 25 minutes. Yield, 12 medium size muffins. One muffin: Total, 134 calories; protein, 14 calories; fat, 32 calories, carbohydrates, 88 calories.

SPANISH OMELET.
1 medium onion.
1 tablespoon butter.
1 tablespoon bread crumbs.
2 tablespoons minced ham.
Salt and pepper.
5 eggs.
2 tablespoons flour.
½ teaspoon salt.
Dash pepper.
1 cup milk.
2 tablespoons butter.

Scald, skin and slice tomatoes. Chop the onion and garlic. Heat the butter in a sauce pan, add the onion and garlic, and fry until slightly yellow. Add tomatoes, crumbs ham and seasonings, and let simmer a half hour. In the meantime prepare the omelet. Separate eggs. Beat yolks until lemon colored and thick, and whites until stiff and not too dry. Add flour, salt and pepper to yolks, and mix until smooth, then add milk. Fold yolk mixture thoroughly into whites. Heat butter bubbling hot in large omelet or frying pan. Pour in egg mixture. Cover and cook over a low flame until bottom is well browned, about 20 minutes. Uncover and set in moderate oven [350 degrees Fahrenheit] to brown top.

When ready to serve, pour tomato sauce over the top, fold the omelet over and slide gently into a hot dish. Yield: 6 servings. 1 serving. Total: 193 calories; protein, 34 calories; fat, 113 calories; carbohydrates, 46 calories.

SOUR CREAM CAKE.
2¼ cups pastry flour.
1 teaspoon baking powder.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon soda.
1 cup sugar.
1 egg.
1 cup sour cream.
Grating of 1 lemon rind.

Let butter stand ½ hour at room temperature to soften. Sift flour before measuring. Resift with baking powder, salt and soda twice. Cream butter until plastic. Add sugar gradually and cream mixture thoroughly. Add slightly beaten egg and beat vigorously until smooth and fluffy. Add lemon rind, then flour and cream alternately in three or four portions beginning and ending with flour. Beat ½ minute after ingredients are all in.

Pour batter into round cake tins, oiled and lined with paraffin paper. Bake in moderate oven [350 degrees Fahrenheit]. Yield: Two 8 inch round layers, 10 servings: One serving. Total: 307 calories; protein, 16 calories; fat, 128 calories; carbohydrates, 163 calories.

No Grinning Matter to Her.

My first position as stenographer was in a large office. One day the president of the concern dictated a letter to me in which he used the word "chagrined." I neatly transcribed my notes and proudly laid the letter on his desk.

Imagine my embarrassment when, a little later, he returned the letter and laughingly and loudly spelled the word for me in the presence of some fifty or sixty employés, for I had written "she grinned." Thinking it a great joke, he passed the letter around for their perusal. It was several days before they forgot it, but to me it will always be a painful memory.

ASK U. S. INQUIRY INTO S O S THAT CUT REED'S TALK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—Investigation by the commerce department radio division to determine the origin of an S O S call which interrupted a chain broadcast of a speech by former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri Saturday night was asked by the federal radio commission today.

Earlier, in the senate, Senator C. C. Dill [Dem., Wash.], had demanded such an inquiry, charging that the disruption of the broadcast at the moment the Missourian, speaking at Sedalia, Mo., launched an attack on the "radio trust" was marked by circumstances "peculiar, if not suspicious." Dill pointed out that the supposed distress signal was heard by only one station, the Radio Corporation of America station at Tuckerton, N. J., and that check-up showed that none of the other of government and commercial stations on the North Atlantic coast heard the call.

Reads Speech Into Record.

Dill read that portion of Reed's speech dealing with the alleged radio trust into the senate's record and announced that M. L. Aylesworth, president of the radio corporation had not only expressed regret over the occurrence but had offered Reed an opportunity to redeliver the speech over the National Broadcasting company's nation-wide chain.

"It is impossible to believe," said Senator Dill, "that any official of the radio corporation would sanction a resort to such tactics to prevent an attack on the trust. If the S O S call was faked, it is more probable that some person believing he was befriending the radio interests did this contemptible thing."

W. B. Terrill, chief of commerce department radio division, in accordance with the radio commission's request, will undertake an investigation through the regional supervisors at New York and Baltimore, Md.

Reed Reserves Judgement.

Kansas City, Mo., June 9—[Special.]—Although former Senator James A. Reed refused to tell his plans toward an investigation of the circumstances surrounding interruption of a broadcast of his speech at Sedalia Saturday night, until he had learned the facts in the case, it was reported today that efforts had been made to persuade Reed not to include an attack on the "radio trust" in his speech.

Several close friends of Mr. Reed said the suggestion was made several days before the date of the Sedalia meeting but that Reed refused to be censored.

Reed received a message from the Columbia Broadcasting company today stating that only one station, WABC in New York, was interrupted in the broadcast. This station was off the air on orders from the navy department from 9:22 until 9:47 New York time.

"I do not know if the SOS call was in good faith or not," Mr. Reed said. "Certainly I am not saying that it was not."

Pope Changes His Title to 'Sovereign of Vatican City'

VATICAN CITY, June 9.—(AP)—The pontifical annual, which was issued today, containing a list of members of the hierarchy of the Catholic church, gives a change in the pope's title. In previous years the pontiff's title had included the words "sovereign of the temporal dominions of the Holy Roman church." This clause has now been changed by reason of the lateran treaty of 1929 to read, "sovereign of the state of Vatican City."

COST OF MAKING ICE CREAM FALLS; PRICES STAY UP

Ice cream manufacturing costs, based on figures supplied by representative ice cream makers, show that this food is being manufactured on the average for about five cents per quart less than in 1929 and 1928, but wholesale and retail prices have not changed appreciably.

Chicago's daily average consumption of ice cream is about 300,000 quarts during the summer and about 75,000 quarts in the winter. Some manufacturers, it is reported, are able to buy their milk for $1.40 per hundredweight while others are paying farmers $2.50 and $2.60 on contract for practically the same quality.

Makers are now saving about one-half cent per quart on sugar alone, since each quart contains around four-fifths of a pound of the sweetening which is a half cent a pound lower in price than a year ago.

Wholesale prices remain as in 1929 at $1 to $1.30 per gallon, with resultant retail prices at $2 to $2.40 per gallon or 50 to 60 cents per quart. R. L. Hammond of the Ice Cream Institute of Chicago, which is an organization representing the ice cream manufacturers of the Chicago area, says that this price is not too high.

"Some of the manufacturers were making ice cream when materials were higher," Mr. Hammond said. "In times of shortage when costs mount sharply the makers do not raise their price but rely on a return to normal when costs will be lower."

3 BURNED, 8 IN PERIL IN FIRE AT MACLEISH HOME

Eight persons were imperiled and three seriously burned yesterday morning in a fire that destroyed the garage at the home of Mrs. Martha H. MacLeish, 459 Longwood avenue, Glencoe. She is the widow of Andrew MacLeish, one of the owners of Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co.

The garage has a second floor, which is used as living quarters by John Peterson, the gardener; Mrs. Peterson, their sons, Alfred, 18; James, 9, and daughter, Elizabeth, 15, and Michael Evans, the chauffeur. The loss is put at $10,000.

EVERY BANK BUT ONE CLOSED IN ST. PETERSBURG

St. Petersburg, Fla., June 9.—(AP)—The First National bank and the First Security bank failed to open for business today. A resolution adopted by directors of the First National last night attributed the difficulties to a steady withdrawal of funds since the recent closing of the American and Ninth Street banks.

The Central National bank is the only financial institution remaining open in St. Petersburg.

H., June 9.—[Special.]—The Merrimac River Savings bank, third largest banking institution of the city, with deposits of $11,227,902 from 19,975 depositors, was closed today by a court order on recommendation of State Bank Commissioner E. V. Dole, pending investigation of western mortgage loans which the bank commissioner believes have reached an excess which could not be readily liquidated.

HEAD OF OXFORD COLLEGE, TUTOR OF WALES, DIES

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Eng., July 9—A great Oxford "head" passed today with the death there of Sir Herbert Warren, president of Magdalen from 1885 to 1928. His 43 years in office made him about the best known figure in Oxford. Sir Herbert was 76.

In his selections of undergraduates, Sir Herbert was popularly supposed to have a weakness for "blueblood" and a desire to make Magdalen rival Christ Church as a college of the aristocracy. If this was true he was rewarded when the king in 1912 selected Magdalen as the college for the prince of Wales.

He was knighted on March 21, 1910, by King Gustaf VII, of Sweden, but never used his title of baronet.

U.S. and France Reach Pact to Ease Tax on Americans

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 9.—An accord was reached today by the French and American experts who have been negotiating here and in Geneva for some time on the question of double taxation. A formal agreement will be drafted and signed in a few days. The agreement is expected to afford relief to American subsidiary firms located in France which have suffered through being taxed by both countries. The controversy lasted six years, and, through the recent rise in French taxation rates, threatened to force many American concerns here out of business.

Color Works Like Miracle, Erasing Drab Personality

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The youth and beauty transformations lent by color are something to marvel over, always. The stories of drab little girls who lost a good season or two before they learned they could turn butterfly with other shades of frocks are legion.

This year particularly, it seems to me, color opportunities are gorgeous. I just saw under my own eyes a disconsolate little soul suddenly become a made over personality through the use of color. Not paint—although she did take on some of it, too. She was reared by a mama whose object in dressing the poor girl must have been to keep her out of range of the appreciative eye of man. Mama passed on, leaving quite a nice estate to daughter, aged 20. A friend of mama's, who saw the girl's maternal handicap and her possibilities, took her in hand, and you ought to see the festive dear now. She's lovely.

Women, of course, will always have their pet colors and their private theories about what they can and cannot wear. I would suggest to some that they take a dare and try something different, even something flighty, if they've pressed heavily heretofore on the conventional browns, blacks, and grays. If I may be permitted the inelegance—bust out in color! It's good for the soul—for the summer soul. Trying something new doesn't hurt the business of looking and acting younger, either!

Seriously, though, color is a grand beauty aid. Of course, I don't mean that you startle Paw and the kids into thinking some wild bird of plumage flew into your place, but I'm all for a bit of gayety in the wardrobe every now and then just for what it does to the spirit. Then I want you to get thinking more on the color theme. You won't progress artistically until you do get down to thinking more about what shades bring out the glints in your hair and the depths in your eyes.

The ensemble idea caught on with us all right. In fact, it caught on too well. That's why we see hat, dress, shoes, stockings, gloves, purse all the same color, which is not interesting. We need more color study.

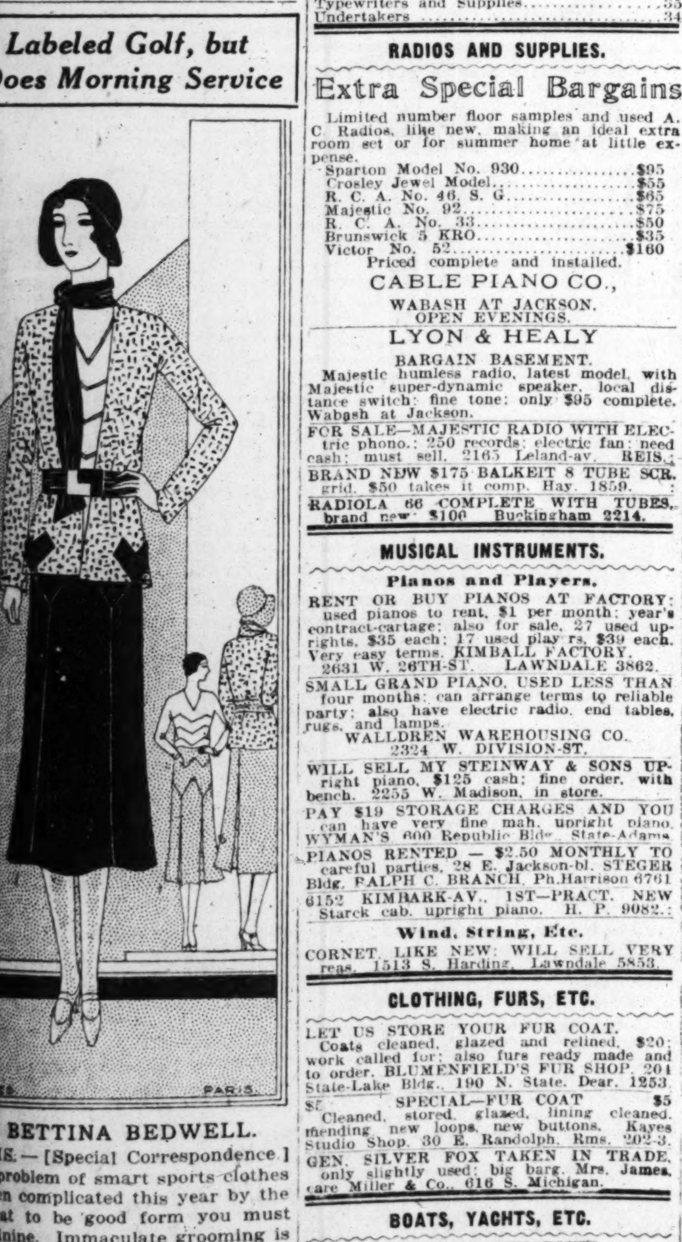
BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

F. B.: RAPID EATING IS IN many cases the cause of red blotchy patches on the face. When we overwork the digestion it is apt to result in skin disturbances. Eat slowly and masticate properly.

M. G.: IT TAKES TIME TO CORRECT enlarged pores. Here is a lotion you may apply to the skin after it has been thoroughly cleansed: Glycerin, ½ ounce; powdered borax, ¼ ounce; camphor water, ½ pint. My booklet on the skin may be had for a stamped addressed envelope.

It's Labeled Golf, but Does Morning Service



BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—The problem of smart sports clothes has been complicated this year by the fact that to be good form you must be feminine. Immaculate grooming is the first and last rule of the chic sportswoman, and to achieve the ideal sporting effect she must now steer a prudent course between the Scylla of garçonne severity and the Charybdis of feminine fuss.

Chantal reconciles all the divers elements essential to chic in her sports ensembles, that are carefully designed with one eye on practicality and the other on becomingness. While her models insure all the freedom of movement even the most active sport requires, she never makes you look like a sporting poster and you feel quite comfortable taking tea with the spectators after the game.

The Chantal ensemble shown in our drawing is officially labeled: golf. Actually, it is all things to all women. It's a good free and easy costume for any country pursuit and can even do duty for running about town of mornings. It has a skirt of nut beige velours with two inverted plaits in front and one in back to give comfortable fullness. The zig-zag hip yoke hides two pockets.

The jacket is of beige, brown and yellow flicked tweed. Its pockets shaped like upside down chevrons, and the crush belt with natural wood buckle are of nut beige velours designed to match the skirt, as are the separate scarf and soft cloche hat. The inside blouse is of yellow wool in lacy basket weave trimmed with fine zig-zags of wool braid to echo the lines of the skirt yoke. Though sleeved, it is cleverly cut and allows sufficiently to permit the most smashing drive. The right shoes and gloves are, of course, brown leather.

To Honor Baden-Powell.

Sir Robert S. S. Baden-Powell officially will be elevated today at the Hotel Sherman to be seventh honorary knight, for life, of the Round Table International. William J. Farguharson of Northwestern university, president of the Chicago table, will preside. Speakers will include A. Urner Goodman, Scout executive in the Chicago area, and Miss Gertrude Bogart, field captain of the central area for the Girl Scouts.
